FIVE POWERS URGE BID FOR MEXICO TO JOIN LEAGUE

TITULESCU ELECTED HEAD OF ASSEMBLY

Session at Geneva Facing World Economic Issues With Full Program.

Geneva, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Beginning its twelfth annual session today under the dark shadows cast by international political and financial distress, the League of Nations assembly witnessed with marked satisfaction the launching of a movement which, it is hoped, will result in Mexico's becoming a member.

Nicholas Titulescu, former premier of Roumania, was elected president of the assembly, receiving 25 votes out of 49 cast. Count Apponyi, of Hungary, got 20 votes; Costa du Rels, of Bolivia, 2, and Ven Nersten, of Sweden, 2. Titulescu was president of the last assembly and the first man to be chosen to preside twice.

The assembly was asked by delegations representing Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy and Japan to invite the Mexican republic—on which the league organizers turned their backs twelve years ago—to adhere to the league and to give the organizations its "useful collaboration."

This move on the part of the five influential powers came after the gradual development of a warmer feeling toward the league on the part of the Mexican government. The assembly will vote on the recommendation tomorrow morning, and every indication points toward a cordial invitation to the southern neighbor of the United States. If action is as rapid as is hoped, and the Mexican government is ready to accept the invitation promptly, it is possible that Mexico may be chosen to a seat in the league council in the election which takes place next Monday.

Two Countries to Leave.

Two Latin-American places will be vacated, one by the normal retirement of Venezuela after a three-year term, the other by the unique withdrawal of Guatemala after one year because of economic depression there.

Coincidentally with the league's friendly move toward Mexico, it was said on excellent authority that the return of Argentina to full participation in league activities was "assured" for the next year.

While the Mexican representative at Geneva has maintained the utmost reserve regarding today's developments, it was understood that Salvador de Madariaga, the Spanish Ambassador at Washington, played a leading role in the move to invite Mexico.

The suggested entry of Mexico into the league recalled that the failure to extend an invitation when the organization was formed was laid to the opposition of Woodrow Wilson and Lord Cecil.

The language of the resolution sponsored by the influential powers

Berlin Sends Agent To Buy U. S. Wheat

500,000 Tons of Grain Sought on Credit at Higher Prices.

Berlin, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The newspaper Berliner Tageblatt said today that the minister of agriculture had sent an emissary to Washington to negotiate for the purchase of 500,000 tons of hard winter wheat from the United States Farm Board on extended credit terms.

He is prepared to offer the Farm Board 4½ per cent interest for a three-year credit, the newspaper said, on a basis of about 50 per cent above the average price on delivery days at Chicago.

The Tageblatt opposes the plan, asserting that the interest price, though 4½ per cent is proposed, really amounts to about 20 per cent in view of the suggested premium above the market price. The paper says the envoy to Washington is a director of an organization which purchases the bulk of the grain bought by the government in foreign markets.

Samushiro, Japan, Tuesday, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Beginning one of the most hazardous flights known to aviators, Don Moyle and C. A. Allen, California pilots, left the beach runway here at 5:30 a. m. today (3:30 p. m. Eastern standard time Monday) on a nonstop journey of 4,465 miles over the stormy North Pacific to Seattle, Wash.

At 5:40 a. m. (4:40 p. m. Eastern standard time Monday) the Ochiishi Radio Station reported the plane had passed Point Erimo, Hokkaido Island of Japan. The fliers had flown approximately 110 miles in 70 minutes.

Their monoplane carried gasoline for 47 hours of flying, but no radio to inform the world of progress in the little-traveled area over which they flew.

The course lay along the Japanese Island of Hokkaido, skirted the volcanic Kurile Islands of Japan often hidden by fog and swung out over the North Pacific in a great circle that touched the Bering Sea and curved across the Aleutian Islands and southward over the Gulf of Alaska and off the British Columbia coast to Seattle.

The weather was reported more favorable than usual on the route, subject to frequent gales and dense fogs.

BRITISH LABOR HITS POLICY OF NEW MINISTRY

Workers' Congress Raps MacDonald Plans for Economies.

SUPPORT OF PEOPLE SOUGHT BY PREMIER

Appeals for Confidence on Eve of Special Session of Parliament.

Bristol, England, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Opening fire on the national government just before its big parliamentary battle, the rank and file of British trades unions, through 587 delegates to their congress today, approved their leaders' opposition to Ramsay MacDonald's new administration.

Nearly 4,000,000 workers were represented at the opening session here of the sixty-third Trades Union Congress.

The "secret history" of the "Labor Government's break-up was disclosed by Walter Citrine, secretary of the congress, who reported in detail the daily conferences between Labor ministers and the Trades Union Council, ending with the council refusing to yield to a reduction in wages and other proposed national economies as outlined by Prime Minister MacDonald and Chancellor of the Exchequer Snowdon.

Foresaw Chaos and Ruin.

The latter, he said, warned trades union leaders that if the pound sterling had collapsed or suddenly had depreciated, chaos and ruin would have followed in Great Britain and there would have been 10,000,000 unemployed, instead of 3,000,000 as at present.

The secretary said trades union leaders were faced with a proposed policy which they had been fighting for years.

"We could not subscribe to it—a policy of contraction and deflation which would lead us on to economic disaster," Citrine said.

Arthur Hayday, president of the Trades Union Congress, challenging the national government in his inaugural address, said the Labor Government was destroyed by "political and financial forces of a sinister character."

Until the banks were brought under government control, he declared, the existence of "a people's government" was impossible.

Will Uphold Dole.

Referring to a proposed reduction in the dole, Hayday said, "We will not, if we can prevent it, permit the scheme to be altered in a way to inflict hardship or injustice on a single unemployed worker."

"It has become necessary," he said, "to replace the present scheme by a state scheme for an unemployed benefit, payable out of the national revenue provided by means of a tax or levy on all incomes, earned or unearned."

Arthur Henderson, as leader of the Labor opposition in Parliament, will address the congress Thursday morning, rushing back to London to hear Chancellor Snowden announce the supplementary budget to Parliament late in the afternoon.

London, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The new national government's effort to push through its economy program to deal with the national financial crisis opens tomorrow when the first special session of parliament since the war will be convened.

MacDonald Issues Appeal.

Prime Minister MacDonald, in anticipation of the opening, issued an appeal to the nation tonight for confidence in the government he heads.

The first move of that government

CHILEAN NAVAL REVOLT ENDED BY LOYALISTS

Full Surrender of All Ships and Men Involved Is Announced.

NEW CREWS LIKELY FOR VARIOUS CRAFT

Two Days' Attack by Air and Land Is Success; Loyalty Pledged Cabinet.

Santiago, Chile, Sept. 7 (U.P.).—The collapse of the Chilean naval revolt under the combined attack of loyalist land and air forces was announced tonight by the government after rebel leaders on the warship Almirante Latorre surrendered to loyalists at Tongoy.

An official bulletin issued by Gen. Vergara said the Latorre and other warships had been ordered to put in at Tongoy, a few miles south of Coquimbo, prior to proceeding to Valparaiso. The crew of the Latorre, largest of the nation's battleships, was ordered changed and it was understood that various other ships would be manned by new crews.

The main part of the fleet was off Lengua Vaca, south of Coquimbo, when it received the government's instructions. The destroyers Hyatt, Requelme, Aldea, Orella, and Serrano already had entered Valparaiso port and the crews had surrendered. The Laforre surrendered at Tongoy and the General O'Higgins, which had exhausted its coal supply, put in at Coquimbo and raised a white flag. The crew was ordered to disembark and take orders from the military authorities.

Loyal Officers in Control.

The government expected to concentrate the fleet at Valparaiso immediately, having broken the revolt by two days of air and land attack at Talcahuano and Coquimbo.

The loyal government officers of the navy, who were held prisoners by the rebels throughout a week of revolt, have now regained control of the warships, the government announcement said. They informed the cabinet of their loyalty as the fleet steamed southward.

The announcement of success of the government attack, which is as the government attack, which was as hundreds of lives at Talcahuano, was received with great enthusiasm in Santiago, where the loyalist spirit has mounted steadily in the last two days.

Two reserve battalions, such as have been formed in all large cities in defense of the government, were cheered wildly as they marched through the center of the city. Later the crowd collected near the Moneda Palace, residence of the government, and acclaimed Vice President Manuel Trucco, who appeared on the balcony in response to cheers.

The response to the government's appeals for support was greater than the most optimistic had hoped for and there was a constantly increasing spirit of enthusiasm for the cabinet.

Revolt's Failure Foreseen.

The failure of the naval revolt had been obvious since yesterday, when government air forces attacked the ships at Coquimbo and encountered little difficulty in inflicting damage on the mutineers. After the attack negotiations for a settlement were resumed and the revolt's collapse was considered complete when the aviation undersecretary announced that the battleship Almirante Latorre, carrying the rebel leaders and one of the last vessels to hold out against the loyalists, put in at Tongoy and surrendered. It was the Latorre which began the revolt.

The government forces had been in

FIREMEN'S HOSTESS CROWNED

NEARBY ROADS FILLED, CITY TRAFFIC JAMMED

Washington turned out in fete day attire yesterday to celebrate the festival of those who have jobs.

It was Labors' holiday in the Capital, where 150,000 persons, their ranks including thousands of visitors from nine States, gathered along Pennsylvania avenue beneath a mild sun shining from a cloudless sky, to watch and cheer Washington's ninth annual firemen's parade.

Roads around Washington were maelstroms of activity as pilgrims from other States vied with the exodus of many who sought recreation at water and mountain resorts. For thousands of Government workers the holiday meant a prolonged weekend at the beaches, and many had left the city Saturday.

But those who stayed were not sorry. A benign weather man collaborated with Sergt. A. J. Bargagni, of the Washington Fire Department, to make the traditional firemen's pageant, now recognized vehicle of this city's Labor Day observance, the success it was planned to be.

Old and New in Contrast.

Infinitely variegated was the procession. Here a pumping engine three-quarters of a century old, drawn by members of the Oldest Inhabitants Association, contrasted with 1931 District equipment, manned by nattily dressed firemen. Proud volunteers from nearby States, in assorted uniforms, marched briskly beside fire apparatus they had driven over hundreds of miles of highway to compete for prizes offered.

There were giant floats, products of weeks of affectionate labor; clowns and jesters, martial music, popular music and crack military units that stepped in time to the blare of bands. And, of course, there were Gene, Tom and Barney, brought here from Blue Plains pastures to draw once more their outmoded fire engine.

But the parade was only one of the features that attracted out-of-towners by the thousands to Washington's environs. The ever-present lure of sightseeing in the Capital accounted for throngs that gathered at the city's show places, from the President's mansion to the Monument.

Mr. Hoover was not at home to see the steady stream of visitors pass through the White House grounds. He was at his camp at the Rapidan, recuperating from a week of hard work and preparing for another. With fall closing in, there are few weeks left in which he can withdraw to his mountain retreat, so he, like many private citizens, took advantage of the three-day holiday to leave the city.

Ball Game to Firemen.

If the Firemen's Parade has become a tradition in Washington, the Policemen-Firemen's baseball game has become a classic in color if not in the brand of ball offered. Heralded for weeks by members of the two departments, the event at Griffith Stadium was attended by thousands. On excellent terms 363 days out of the year, policemen and firemen are bitter rivals on this one day, when a run or two may determine which is the better service. Yesterday it was a score of 14 to 2 in favor of the firemen.

Hotel and even rooming-house space was at a premium over the holiday, and only late yesterday and last night, when Union Station, bus terminals, and roads out of town told the story of a fete day ended, were accommodations reported equal to the demand.

Moving picture houses did a rushing business at both afternoon and evening performances with exception-

BAYLES EASILY WINS THOMPSON AIR RACE

Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Lowell Bayles, speed sensation of the 1931 national air races, romped away in a field of eight racers today to win the Thompson Trophy with an average speed of 236.239 miles an hour.

Flashing around ten laps of a 10-mile course, the 31-year-old flier, who hails from Springfield, Mass., but was born and reared in Illinois, was never headed in a thrilling climax to the ten-day air meet witnessed by 80,000 people.

His speed was nearly 35 miles an hour faster than last year's winner, the late Charles (Speed) Holman, whose revamped racer was flown into third place, next to J. R. Wedell, of New Orleans, by Dale ("Red") Jackson, of St. Louis.

Bayles will receive $7,500; Wedell, who averaged 227.992 miles an hour, $4,500, and Jackson, who averaged 211.183 miles an hour, $3,000.

Maj. James H. Doolittle, St. Louis, was in second place when he dropped out of the seventh lap. He explained later that his motor was losing rapidly in revolutions perminute from an unknown cause and he landed to save burning it out.

Bayles, who was working in Illinois coal mines in 1924 when he learned to fly, set such a swift pace that he landed and was given the trophy marking his victory while some of his rivals were in the air with several laps yet to fly.

A short, slim flier, he weighs 120 pounds and stands 5 feet 7 inches. His hair was still unruffled when he stepped out of the cockpit of his victorious plane, a short and squatty Gee Bee monoplane powered with a Wasp Junior engine. Though the air races are over, he said he would make another try for a world's land plane speed record tomorow or Wednesday over a 3-kilometer course.

Miss Maude Irving Tait, also of Springfield, Mass., who flew another Gee Bee yesterday to win the woman's free-for-all speed race, will attempt to better Miss Ruth Nichols' speed record for women.

The race marked the end of the

HART IS ARRESTED AT JERSEY RESORT

Pitts' Driver Also Seized; Lid Placed on Hotel Safe Holding Documents.

The trail of difficulties that has followed Henry O. Hart since he was indicted for perjured testimony at the trial of his former chief, G. Bryan Pitts, sought him out yesterday in Atlantic City. He was arrested and held for the Department of Justice.

Taken with the former confidential agent of the former chairman of the board of the F. H. Smith Co. was Patrick J. Clancy, 4803 Michigan avenue, said to be Pitts' chauffeur.

Only Saturday Hart was surprised here by internal revenue operatives with $189,250 of Investment Building bonds on his person. He was attempting to cash the interest coupons. The bonds were seized by the agents, who hold them as the property of Pitts. Hart himself was released.

Although no charges were placed against either Hart or Clancy, an injunction restraining the management of the hotel at which they were staying from opening a safe in which one of them deposited documents on arrival from Washington Saturday, indicated Federal authorities are still on the trail of Pitts' assets.

Liens have been filed against Pitts in five States by Internal Revenue officials, seeking to recover more than $2,000,000 of alleged unpaid income taxes. His palatial Florida home has been placed under Government seal and some of his private property sold. Pitts himself is under 14-year sentence at the Washington Jail, pending appeal from conviction on embezzlement charges.

A. Dozier De Vane, Hart's attorney, left immediately for Atlantic City yesterday on receiving word of his client's arrest.

According to Associated Press dispatches, Hart's arrest was brought about by a hotel clerk, who read about the seizure of Investment Building bonds in a Washington newspaper. He called a police inspector, who phoned Washington authorities.

The inspector was directed to take Hart into custody pending the arrival of Federal authorities.

King George Cuts Expenses $242,500 in British Crisis

KING GEORGE V.

London, Sept. 7 (U.P.).—King George, known as one of the world's most economical monarchs, announced today that he was reducing the expenses of the royal household by $242,500 this year to aid Great Britain through her financial emergency.

Like thousands of other British couples who have found their nation and their business involved in a serious crisis, the king and queen will make every possible economy in their household budget, which already was considered unusually low for the rulers of a world power.

The king receives $2,500,000 annually for expenses of his household. The fund is known as the civil list, which is the account of all expenses immediately applicable to support of

Hurley Denies Aid In Philippine Plans

War Secretary Declares He Has Not Expressed Views on Issue.

Manila, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Replying from Zamboanga to an Associated Press inquiry, Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley denied today he had said he favored a round-table conference on Philippine affairs, as Gov. Leon Guinto, of Tayabas Province, was reported to have quoted him.

"In attempting to obtain facts and opinions of the people and their leaders, I have carefully refrained from stating my own conclusions as to any method of procedure for solution of the Philippine problem," he said. "I am continuing my investigation. If I have any conclusions to make public, I shall give them to the press personally."

Many Moro chiefs at Jolo and Zamboanga, southern Philippines, told Hurley today they and their people were unalterably opposed to independence. After a cordial welcome to those cities, the Secretary departed for Iligan, northern Mindanao Island.

John B. McCandless Dies in Philadelphia

Philadelphia, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—John B. McCandless, commissioner of immigration for the port of Philadelphia, died today after three weeks' illness of pneumonia. He was 72.

Mr. McCandless was first appointed to the Federal post in 1924 by President Coolidge and was reappointed in 1929. Previously he was yardmaster for the Reading Co., in the Port Richmond yards here. His widow and two sons survive.

100 Watching Race Thrown Into River

Detroit Dock Collapses and Boy, 3, Missing, Is Feared Drowned.

Detroit, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—A dock from which more than 100 persons were watching the Harmsworth Trophy race collapsed today, throwing them into the water. At midnight, one of the numbr, a 3-year-old boy, Nelson Pattison, still was missing and it was feared he had drowned. Others who were on the dock, which was at the foot of Motor Boat lane, were accounted for.

The spectators were thrown into water from 8 to 10 feet deep, and were rescued by patrol boats. A dozen or more required first aid treatment from mebers of the fire department.

Policemen, firemen and persons from boats joined in the rescue work. The missing boy had been held in the arms of his father, F. N. Pattison, and apparently was thrown out during the confusion.

Mother of Mrs. Edge Expires at 65 in Paris

Paris, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Mrs. Harold M. Sewall, of Bath, Me., mother of Mrs. Walter E. Edge, wife of the American Ambassador, died tonight of a heart attack at the American Embassy residence. She was 65.

Ambassador and Mrs. Edge were at the bedside, as well as Mrs. John W. Williams, Baltimore, Md., a daughter; Loyall F. Sewall, a son, and Mrs. Norman McLaren, of Paris, a sister. Another son, Arthur Sewall 2d, is on his way to Europe. Burial will be in Bath.

STOLL CHALLENGES JURY TO INDICT HIM

Willing to Waive Immunity and Go On Trial in Staples Tangle.

A challenge to the grand jury to indict him for perjury was issued last night by Inspector Louis J. Stoll, who supervised the investigation which led to the dismissal from the Police Department of Orville Staples, who the grand jury reported was "framed."

Although the original Police Board trial of Staples occurred in March, 1928, and the statute of limitations bars prosecution, Inspector Stoll is willing to waive his immunity and stand trial if "the purpose of the grand jury report is to impute to him perjury, subornation of perjury or any other crime."

Henry I. Quinn, attorney for Inspector Stoll, proposes that the District Commissioners ask the grand jury whether witnesses perjured themselves before the jury and if they did, to suggest that the grand jury indict them. If they didn't, Mr. Quinn suggests the Commissioners ask the grand jurors to agree to testify as witnesses and lay the evidence upon which they base their charges before the civilian board to be appointed to consider the recommendations.

Unless the grand jury meets these conditions Mr. Quinn suggests that the report be ignored. Mr. Quinn also wants the District Commissioners to ask the grand jury if the witnesses, who are charged with committing perjury before the Police Trial Board, also gave the same testimony before the grand jury. If the answer is affirmative, Mr. Quinn said, the Commissioners should return the report to the grand jury with the suggestion that when that body has performed its duty by indicating the perjurious witnesses, recommendations by it to the Commissioners might be considered.

The broadsides of Mr. Quinn and Inspector Stoll came as the District

LABOR DAY ORATORS STRESS JOBLESS AID

Borah Says Rich Must Feed Unemployed; Wagner Asks Work for 1,000,000.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

With the convening of Congress now less than three months away, Labor Day orators yesterday gave the country a foretaste of the clamor that will be heard on Capitol Hill this winter over succoring the unemployed.

Senator William E. Borah (Republican), Idaho, in a speech at Cottonwood, a town in his home State, said that the rich must feed the poor this winter, adding that "if they do not do it voluntarily, they will nevertheless do it"—a warning that the rich will be taxed and the money taken from the Treasury to feed the poor.

Senator Robert F. Wagner (Democrat), New York, in a speech at Syracuse, advocated a $2,000,000,000 Federal Building fund to provide jobs for a million men.

From headquarters of the American Federation of Labor here went out a proclamation to every labor gathering in the country, calling for a drive to bring about modification of the Volstead act within a year.

The A. F. of L., each year at its national conventions has been demanding a return of beer and wine. However, this year, at its meeting in Vancouver, the organization is expected to be more emphatic than ever in its agitation.

"There are nearly 5,000,000 organized workers," said yesterday's proclamation, "and this great army in Labor Day meetings will consider labor's outstanding problems. Chief among these are unemployment and the denial of freedom through unemployment. Volsteadism is a basic cause of unemployment and crime, both of which undermine the well being of the wage-earners and the masses of the people."

Secretary of Labor William N. Doak will be present at the A. F. of L. convention in Vancouver, and thus will be exposed to the agitation for a reopening of the breweries.

Secretary Doak yesterday spoke at Johnson City, Tenn. There he expressed the belief that the United States "before long" would again stand upon a "substantial plane of prosperity."

The warning of Senator Borah that those who have money either must voluntarily feed the unemployed poor or do it under compulsion through increased taxation is really not such a flaming statement as it might

Miss America VIII Wins as Two Racers Are Ruled Out, Beating Gun.

Detroit, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The jinx that has hounded every effort of foreign challengers to recapture the Harmsworth speedboat trophy from Gar Wood eliminated Kaye Don, f England, today.

His challenging craft, Miss England II, fastest speedboat in the world, lay at the bottom of the river tonight, having turned over on a curve 2 miles from the start. Don and his crew escaped unhurt.

As if this ill luck were not enough, it was announced almost as the craft foundered that Don had beaten the starting gun by seven seconds and automatically eliminated himself from further competition in this year's event.

At the same time it was announced that Gar Wood, driving his Miss

98 GIVEN FIRST AID DURING FIRE PARADE

Youngsters Lead the List, Only One Victim Being Past Age of 50.

Youth, refuting ignobly its own loud-chanted paeans in its praise, proved conclusively yesterday that it can not stand the pace.

Of the 98 victims of heat or excitement who required first aid treatment during the parade of the visiting local firemen yesterday, 53 were under 21 years old, and 11 were between the ages of 21 and 30. Only one was more than 50 years old.

The greatest number of casualties was reported at the terminal point of the parade at Executive avenue, where sixteen persons were treated. There were twelve first aid stations established along the line of march, each with its own ambulance. These were supplemented by three cruising ambulances.

Dr. A. Magruder MacDonald, deputy coroner, was in charge of the first aid stations which were operated by the American Red Cross. He was assisted by Dr. A. J. Sardo, who took charge of the ambulance service. Much valuable aid was rendered also by the police school, which assigned four men to each of the fifteen ambulances on duty. Dr. Sardo spoke enthusiastically of the simplification of relief work made possible by the police radio receivers with which the Casualty Hospital ambulances are equipped.

All Recovered Now.

Practically all of those treated were victims of heat prostration, hysteria and excitement or epilepsy. All of those treated at hospitals had recovered fully and been discharged by 6 o'clock last night.

Policeman R. J. Jenkins, 45 years old, of 6611 Second street northwest, attached to the Thirteenth Precinct, was prostrated by a heart attack, but responded quickly to emergency first-aid treatment and returned to duty.

Little Johnny Mack, 9 years old, of 1322 Thirty-sixth street northwest, who demanded service on the grounds that he "didn't feel well," recovered immediately when given a copious dose of colorless, odorless, tasteless medicine that the ambulance attendants told him mysteriously was "H2O."

Following is the complete list of casualties for the day: John Jones, 58 year old, 18 Hopeland street northwest; Hilton Hinn, 20, of 1433 T street northwest; C. H. Baesgen, 36, of 16 Summit place northwest; Mary Griffin, 32, of 26 Irving street northwest; Emma Young, 60, of 1055 Jefferson street northwest; Cleo Wimes, 11, of 3429 Holmead place northwest.

Lee Mann, 19, of 113 Connecticut avenue northwest; Helen Dailey, 15, of Leesburg, Va.; Marguerite White, 15, of 452 P street northwest; Margaret Frond, 26, of Cottage City, Md.; Elizabeth Johnson, age and address unknown; George Adams, 21, of 204 East Capitol street.

Annapolis Children Victims.

Mrs. Sarah Curtis, 36, John Marshall place northwest; George Kuntz, 10, Annapolis, Md.; Sarah Blake, 28, Duboiston, Pa.; Bethi Thompson, 23, Boston, Mass.; Harriet Marley, 25, of 1250 Fourteenth street northwest; Elizabeth Roberts, 11, of Annapolis, Md.; a Mrs. Crawford, 30, address unknown; Harry Jones, 35, of 1200 Eighth street northwest.

Sara Carrier, 40, Vienna, Va.; Dorothy Brown, 1010 New Jersey avenue northwest; Robert Simmons, 46, address unknown; Veeda Ulrich, 13, of 2016 Riggs avenue, Baltimore, Md.; Nola Herman, 24, Alexandria, Va.; Margaret Fisher, 10, of 1128 Columbia road northwest; Nancy Jeffries, 15, East Falls Church, Va.; William Eaglin, 32, of 932 L street northwest.

Many Girls on List.

Post Staff Photos.

All that was lacking to make yesterday a perfect day for 8,000 visiting firemen was some great big fire. A holocaust would not have thwarted the assemblage that gathered here from nine States for the ninth annual Firemen's Parade. Upper left—Replica of the local fire department's fireboat, prepared and entered in the parade by members of No. 21 Engine Company and No. 9 Truck. Upper right—Throngs that gathered in the vicinity of The Post Building to view the procession. Lower left—The Alexandria Fire Department's old hand-drawn pumper, nearly hidden beneath its decorative burden. Lower right—A delegation of Job's Daughters passing down the avenue in front of the Willard.

ally good offerings being shown at most of the houses.

Traffic, during the hours prior to and just after the parade, was hopelessly snarled in downtown streets. It took a representative of The Post twenty minutes by the watch to drive a car out F street from Thirteenth to Fourteenth.

Fire Horses Lead the Rest.

Barney, Tom and Gene, veterans of fifteen years ago in the service of the District Fire Department, led the fire-fighting units of the parade along the Avenue yesterday. The three white horses, brought out of retirement from a Virginia farm, tossed their manes and champed their bits in impatience at the slow movement of the march, and pulled their antiquated equipment in a manner that hinted they would welcome one more dash to an emergency in remembrance of the good old days.

Behind the horses came some 200 pieces of fire-fighting equipment, approximately 10,000 firemen, representing 250 places in 9 States, and over 100 elaborate floats built by firemen and local concerns. It took the long column two and a half hours to pass the reviewing stand.

Thirty bands and drum corps, spaced intermittently through the line of march supplied music, and at 3 p. m. a contest was held on the Ellipse, in which all the musicians competed.

Preceding the band contest, all the pieces of equipment participating in the parade were judged by local Fire Department officials.

Oldest Inhabitants in Line.

Following the police escort, near the head of the column, came the United States Marine Band, of Quantico, Va., and as it saluted Gov. Ritchie and the reviewing party it played The Washington Post March, by John Philip Sousa.

A large float with a key to the city extended a welcome to the visiting firemen, their band and drum corps and their guests.

The Oldest Inhabitants of the District Society participated in the event, drawing Old Columbia, a hand-drawn firefighter of 1850.

A hundred clowns and jesters passed along the side of the Avenue entertaining the thousands of children who were more interested in the fun-makers than in the fire fighting equipment and the floats. Many of the commercial floats distributed souvenirs for the children.

One hundred and seventy specially detailed policemen patrolled the route, keeping the crowds backed behind the curb line. In many places it was necessary to use ropes. A dozen ambulances were stationed along side streets and were kept busy rushing emergency patients to hospitals.

The Sixth Marine Brigade, reserve organization of Washington and nearby points, returned to the city Sunday night from its encampment at Virginia Beach and participated in the parade, together with its band.

Five Delaware fire companies were in the march, together with six New York companies, two Ohio companies, one North Carolina company, eight New Jersey companies and 25 Pennsylvania companies.

Among the delegations participating from Maryland were: The La Plata Fire Department; the Cambridge Fire Company and band; the Westminster Fire Company and band; the Silver Spring Fire Department and band; the St. Michaels Fire company; the Abingdon Fire Company; the Hyattsville Fire Department; the Kensington Fire Department; the Cabin John Park Fire Company; the Brentwood Fire Company; the Glenn Dale Fire Company; the Bowie Fire Department; Cabin John Junior Fire Company; Fire Companies Nos. 1 and 2, Chevy Chase; the Veteran Volunteer Firemen's Association of Baltimore; the Bethesda Volunteer Fire Department; the Aberdeen Fire Company; the Rockville Volunteer Fire Department; the Berwyn Heights Fire Department; the Mount Rainier Fire Department; Gaithersburg-Washington Grove Volunteer Fire Department; Hyattsville Volunteer Fire Department; Takoma Park Volunteer Fire Department; Sandy Spring Volunteer Fire Department.

Virginia companies included the Boys Scout Fire Department of Boyce; the Herndon Volunteer Fire Department; the Culpeper Volunteer Fire Department; the East Arlington Fire Department.

Assistant Superintendent of Police E. W. Brown exercised general supervision over all police details and arrangements. Inspector L. J. Stoll supervised the formation of the parade and the procession of the column to Seventh street and Inspector O. T. Davis was in charge along the rest of the route. Sergeant A. J. Bargagni of the Washington Fire Department was marshal in charge of the parade and supervised all the advance arrangements.

The line of march of the parade was from the Peace Monument west on Pennsylvania avenue from First to Fifteenth streets northwest, across Fifteenth street into Treasury place to East Executive avenue and into the roadway south of the White House, where it was disbanded.

Communists in Chile Indorsed by Moscow

Moscow, Sept. 7 (U.P.).—The Chilean Communist Party, which recently has increased its strength in the South American republic, was described today as "in good standing" with the leaders fo the Communist International and enjoying the sympathies of Moscow. It was pointed out, however, that the present uprising in Chile is due entirely to economic conditions.

The newspaper Pravda, in an editorial, said the Chilean Communist Party might gain greatly in strength, which would "have a great echo in the neighboring countries, especially Peru and Argentina."

BRITISH UNIONS RAP M'DONALD POLICIES

when the House of Commons opens will be to ask for a vote of confidence and members of the cabinet still were optimistic tonight that the House would approve them by a majority of 50 to 60.

Public interest in the session centered on the new taxation measures, which will be included in Chancellor of the Exchequer Snowden's budget announcement to parliament Thursday. In anticipation of that announcement there has been frenzied activity during the past few days in the great warehouses on the banks of the Thames.

Big buyers are betting that the Chancellor of the Exchequer will impose extra taxes on such commodities as tea, beer, wine, tobacco, spirits and petrol. So the rush is on to buy up everything in sight at present prices.

Dry Campaigners Go On Tour of 261 Cities

New York, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The allied campaigners left today for Columbus, Ohio, the initial stop on a tour of 261 cities instituted to strengthen dry sentiment for the forthcoming general election. Dr. Daniel A. Poling, chairman of the allied forces for prohibition, will pick up the main body in Columbus.

In Columbus the speakers will separate into three divisions, moving in succession into the 261 cities regarded as strategic centers.

FEW JAMS OCCUR IN HOLIDAY TRAFFIC

Police Keep Cars Moving and Parade Route Cleared of Parkers.

The usual heavy holiday traffic, intensified by the hundreds of autos from out of town, moved through Washington slowly but without stopping yesterday, although the roping off of Pennsylvania avenue for the firemen's parade interrupted the normal flow to some extent.

Only one major traffic jam was reported, according to Lieut. Milton D. Smith, of the Traffic Bureau. This was one at the corner of Thirteenth and F streets northwest just after the parade ended at 1 o'clock. Lieut. Smith said that this stoppage was clear by 1:30, however.

With traffic across Pennsylvania avenue suspended during the parade, police were stationed at nearby crossings to warn cars away from the line of march. Parking places were at a premium, and there were none to be had south of I street after the parade began.

Lieut. Smith, who was in charge of the motorcycle detail, said that he had twelve extra men on duty to untangle the snarled lines of cars where they threatened to stop the flow entirely. For a few minutes after the tail of the procession passed Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue, Fourteenth street was blocked by the hordes on foot who overflowed the sidewalks and trudged up the middle of the street. For once since the great increase in taxis here there was a shortage of them on a clear day. Drivers were taking only those fares who appealed to them, and it was difficult to get a cab unless there was a pretty girl in the party.

Traffic on the Highway Bridge was tied up for about half an hour when a large crane being used in the construction of the Memorial highway was moved across the structure. The flow of cars round the machine was not entirely stopped, but traffic was forced to move slowly.

Gandhi Forbidden To Egypt's Indians

Authorities Credited With Being Anxious to Curb Rebellion.

Port Said, Egypt, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The Mahatma M. K. Ghandi, traveling to the round-table conference in London, arrived at the gateway to the Mediterranean today and was disappointed to find no Egyptian Indians to greet him.

Apparently because of the delicate political situation here, authorities refused to grant permission to a large delegation of Hindus to board the steamship Rajputana. It was said they were anxious to avoid the Indian independence movement's spreading to Egypt.

Gandhi had advanced his usual Monday period of silence to Tuesday so that he could respond to his countrymen. He had to be content, however, with a small group of Egyptian citizens who showered him with gifts and presented Miss Madeline Slade, his disciple, with many bouquets. Goats' milk, fruits, cereals, blankets, overcoats and shawls were among the offerings.

Things Many Didn't See While Firemen Paraded

The officials to whom the parade was presented, Gov. Ritchie and the Commissioners of the District, had almost as much exercise as any of the participants as they had to rise and salute no less than fifty sets of passing colors.

One of the very wild Indians participating in the march, believed to be from Engine House No. 8, gave himself away to the group of admiring children on the corner of Twelfth and the Avenue when, after one particularly loud war-cry, he spotted his wife in the throng and called "Hey there, Mabel, how do you like the nag?" An understanding colored boy announced to his friends, "Hell, he ain't no Red Man."

A motorcycle policeman commenting on the fact that there were only a few District Fire Companies participating, said that the real reason they were staying in their stations was that they didn't want to wear themselves out before the ball game. He refused to admit, however, that the police team had been resting in the mountains for the past few days, when challenged by a fireman.

An enterprising advertiser of a popular drink made from oranges had one of his agents passing out free bottles along the line. When the reviewing stand was reached the man offered one to Gov. Ritchie, who looked as though he would like a nice, cooling drink. But just as he started to accept the bottle was offered to Commissioner Reichelderfer, to whom the trade-mark loomed large and dangerous. The Commissioner declined and Gov. Ritchie followed suit, while a waiting photographer failed to get a good "shot" of two high officials drinking the advertiser's product.

Boy Scouts riding on the top of a local milk company's truck distributed balloons to the children in the crowd by throwing handfuls of the light objects into the street. Between First and Ninth streets, where there was a particularly large group of boys the police lines were broken in the rush for the souvenirs.

One of the most interesting floats never got any farther than Seventh street. The truck, which had come from out of town, pictured the inside of a station house with firemen asleep upstairs. As a bell rang they rushed to the "stairs" and slid down to the waiting trucks. Between Sixth and Seventh streets, however, the elaborate affair came to a halt and had to be pushed to the curb, where its occupants viewed the rest of the parade. It was reported that the firemen had neglected to provide a sufficient supply of gasoline.

The Ellipse south of the White House was the scene of much confusion as the parade disbanded. It seems that members of the visiting delegations had told their friends that they would meet them "behind the White House," and, with some 10,000 in the line of march and another 20,000 or 30,000 watching from the sidewalks and the park, this was not accomplished without difficulty.

Not since the visiting band from Iowa was presented to President Hoover by Representative Cyrenus Cole has there been so much music in the vicinity of the White House. For with 50 bands and drum corps competing in a serious way for some of the prizes and money, the sound of brass could be heard halfway to the Capitol. If any of President Hoover's aids tried to get in any work it must have been in some of the offices besides those of the Chief Executive.

Miss Mildred Bargagni, daughter of the marshal of the parade, Sergt. A. J. Bargagni, acted as official hostess to the thousands of visiting firemen and their families. She was officially crowned by Gov. Ritchie with a fireman's hat.

Dorothy Darling, 15 years old, of 514 D street southwest, who had been treated earlier in the day at Emergency Hospital after she fainted while watching the parade, fainted again while walking past the Fourth Precinct station house early last night. Detective Nelson Bayer took the child to Casualty Hospital, where she was revived, but was unable to recall her name, address or other details which might identify her. A neighbor, however, identified her. The girl last night was at the hospital undergoing treatment for amnesia.

The holiday traffic through Fairfax County, Va., was the heaviest ever witnessed. More than 100,000 automobiles traveled the State highways, according to a count made by employees of the State Highway Department. Sunday the count on the Washington-Richmond road, leaving Alexandria, Va., was more than 20,000. The other four State roads were as crowded. Only minor accidents were reported by the police, in spite of the heavy traffic.

Mingling with the spectators were hundreds of hawkers, peddling everything from banners and canes to miniature firemen's helmets and synthetic orange juice.

James W. Jones came all the way from Los Angeles to represent California firemen in yesterday's event.

No. 4 Hose Company, of Harrisonburg, Va., which carried off honors at the Winchester convention of the Volunteer Firemen's Association, was in the parade, led by the Boys' Independent Band, of Washington.

Riding one of the giant floats was Mary Cecilia Robertson, 3-year-old daughter of Ralph Robertson, former WRC announcer, but now an announcer on the West Coast. She came from Hollywood, Calif., to visit relatives.

State Senator L. G. Sasscer, of Maryland, who has always taken a keen interest in volunteer firemen's activities, was at the head of Prince Georges County's delegation.

Washington spectators were impressed with the advanced character of suburban equipment and the appearance of the volunteer crews that man everything from up-to-date motor ambulances to the latest thing in engine, truck and rescue equipment.

.Taking a more cheerful view

As a result of twenty years' study of the angles of the Pyramids, a Swedish philosopher, Herr Arenius, now predicts the end of the world, this accident to happen in 1956. Since the world has weathered a considerable number of such predictions in the past, and unless Herr Arenius has acutely discovered secrets in angles to which other students of the Pyramids have been inexcusably obtuse, we expect that a goodly clientele of homes and businesses will still be cheerfully using clear, sparkling American ice at a time when Herr Arenius is gloomily selling his own refrigerator—if he has one—to a skeptic.

WASHINGTON CORPS WINS DRUM HONORS

Victory Post of the Legion Gets Prize; Red Hill, Pa., Voted Best Band.

Following the firemen's parade yesterday the 50 bands and drum corps participating assembled on the Ellipse at 3 p. m. for their annual contest. A large crowd of visitors, many of whom had come from out of town to support their organizations, lined all sides of the large field while the musicians went through their paces. Judges passed among the crowd and rated the teams on their appearance and their music. Separate prizes were provided by the committee in charge for the band and drum corps contests in addition to the prizes they competed for during the parade itself.

Red Hill, Pennsylvania, won the band contest. A prize of $250 and a large cup was presented to the winning aggregation last night. Second place in this event went to the Boys Independent Band of Washington, who received $125 and a cup.

The drum corps contest was won by Victory Post of the American Legion of Washington. They received $125 and a cup while second place went to the Veterans of Foreign Wars of Darby, Pa., who were presented with a purse of $75 and a cup.

Extremely close competition prevailed and the judges, headed by Dr. Frank E. Gibson, had a difficult task in picking the winners.

The prizes were awarded to the winners last night in a ceremony on the Ellipse. Preceding the presentation the Fire Department fired off aerial aerial bombs and displayed other pyrotechnics. A large crowd attended the gathering, which was featured by an impromptu band contest among several of the visiting bands who were waiting to get the results of the afternoon.

Homesteading Project Proposed in Germany

Berlin Sept. 7 (A.P.).—A "homestead" project which by the end of next year would be extended to enable 100,000 unemployed persons now receiving support from the public welfare to provide for themselves was submitted to the cabinet today by Finance Minister Hermann Dietrich.

The finance minister proposed the construction of "siedlungen" or settlements which would be situated near the cities on land turned over by the states and municipalities. The building materials for these "siedlungen" would be supplied by the government, the wood, for instance, to be taken from the federal forest preserves.

Speeding Auto Leaps Gap in Drawbridge

New York, Sept. 7 (U.P.).—One of the most unusual traffic accidents ever recorded here occurred today when an automobile containing three persons ascended the rising leaf of a drawbridge at Long Beach, shot across a 6-foot gap and made a safe landing on the leaf of the other side.

Two occupants of the car were injured, but the driver was unhurt. John Conway, 58, was bruised and his wife, Mrs. Nellie Conway, 52, suffered a broken arm.

When Washington Was Younger—No. 38

HERE'S the 1903 Georgetown University Ball Team registering grim determination in their nifty turtle-necked sweaters and milk men's hats. The stand behind the players is a portion of the old layout which is now Griffith Stadium.

Out of these very stands that year, Lew Drill, the lad reclining confidently in the lower, left hand corner stepped onto the diamond, in street clothes, and took up his position as catcher for the Washington Ball Club, after every receiver on the squad had been disabled. A mighty cheer arose as the Hilltopper donned mask and gloves and turned in a creditable performance.

Drill was later given a chance with the Senators, and remained with the team two years.

'98 VETERANS HEAR PAUPER CLAUSES HIT

Former Senator Means Raps Executive Vetoes of Pension Legislation.

New Orleans, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Steps to place the United Spanish War veterans on record as being unalterably opposed to "pauper" or "needs" clauses in Federal pension legislation were taken at the annual convention of the organization here today.

A resolutions committee met to shape a proposed formal stand after Rice W. Means, former Republican senator from Colorado and a past national commander of the veterans, sounded a warning that "there is always a chance of slipping over a piece of legislation which would rob you of the rights you now possess."

After criticizing recent Executive vetoes of pension legislation and lauding Congress for overriding the vetoes, means predicted the possibility of the pauper clause being revived as an issue in the next Congress. He asserted propaganda to this end was being widely disseminated, and advised the veterans to present a solid front against "putting pensions on a charity basis."

There is a general misunderstanding, he said, that pensions once granted are permanent, and he asserted the Bureau of Pensions might at any time order a general reexamination of pensioners for purposes of readjustment.

The veterans this afternoon joined the City of New Orleans in dedicating the mast of the old cruiser, New Orleans, as a flag staff at municipal auditorium where members of the crew ran up the cruiser's flag before it was presented to the archives of the Louisiana Historical Society.

Tonight the Military Order of the Serpent, fun-making circle, held initiation ceremonies and paraded in weird costumes through the downtown section.

Pulley Rescues Dobbin.

Scio, Oreg., Aug. 7 (U.P.).—When Farmer Frank Pruitt saw the off horse of his mowing team disappear into a 10-foot well to the sound of a breaking boards that covered the well, he knew he was up against a problem. It was solved by improvising a pulley and dragging Dobbin back out with another team.

The GIRL About Town

DR. NICHOLAS MURRAY BUTLER is as rabid now in favor of debt cancellation as he formerly was against the League of Nations. He has received a lot of decorations and medals from foreign governments, and has begun to believe that his utterances are as "official" as if he represented the Government. He freely assures Europe that it is right and the United States wrong on the question of the debts When Mr. Coolidge was President he was chatting with a friend about a fresh honor then recently conferred upon Dr. Butler by the French government. "Yes, he was greatly affected," drily remarked Mr. Coolidge. "He burst into tears and forgave the debt."

DUCE MAY PAY VISIT TO POPE PIUS TODAY

Exact Date Still Doubtful; Delicate Bit of Diplomacy Is Involved.

Rome, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The exact date of the proposed visit of Premier Mussolini to Pope Pius XI at Vatican City was still doubtful tonight.

Although it was announced previously that, according to Il Duce's custom, no announcement of the visit would be made beforehand, it had been believed it might be paid tomorrow.

The question still seems to involve a rather delicate bit of diplomacy, however. Those credited with knowing what the pontiff and the premier think about it say both desire the meeting and there is a tacit understanding it will be arranged, probably this week.

The Pope, it was said, can not invite Mussolini, and the premier wishes a fairly direct intimation from his holiness that the visit would be welcome.

It was for this reason, it was said, the news of the prospective visit was allowed to "leak out," so that each might see the other's reaction.

Vatican City, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The existence of a written memorandum of secret conversations leading to the recent accord between the government and the Vatican was revealed today by the papal organ, Osservatore Romano, in an editorial intended to show that Pope Pius really achieved the objects he sought in the accord.

Answering newspaper criticism that the position of the church was weakened by apparent concessions by the pontiff, the editorial said it would be "absurd" to suppose his holiness sacrificed any of his traditional position regarding "Christian education of youth and the Catholic Action."

The public, the editorial said, based its judgment on the official communique, "in which one can not go into particulars."

CHILDREN TORTURE BY POLICE IS DENIED

E. S. Arnold, superintendent of the Children's Receiving Home, yesterday denied any knowledge of instances of "barbaric treatment" accorded child prisoners by Metropolitan police.

His denial followed printed reports that the Department of Justice agents, seeking to uncover the extent of third degree practices used by Washington police, were investigating stories that children had been tortured in order to gain information from them.

Mr. Arnold said he had not heard of the instance, cited in these reports, that certain policemen had arrested a 13-year-old boy, saturated his clothing with gasoline, and then threatened him with a lighted torch unless he gave them the information they desired. His first knowledge of such charges, the superintendent said, was when he read the accusations in a newspaper.

To Confer With Wilson.

Mr. Arnold declared he has often had occasion to compliment the Police Department on its efficiency and cooperation with the problems of his branch of the public welfare service. Now that the charges had been brought to his attention, Mr. Arnold said, it would be necessary for him to confer today with George E. Wilson, head of the Board of Public Welfare, and decide on a course of action for investigating them. Until that time, he declined to discuss the matter further.

Henry Schneider, former police captain, who has applied for reinstatement, declared yesterday that the "third degree" was introduced into the Washington police system during the regime of the late Raymond Pullmann, who was superintendent of police during the World War.

The former captain, who was dismissed from the force on December 1, 1917, after a trial board conviction on a charge of interceding with Virginia authorities in behalf of a junk dealer, accused of stealing freight from the Potomac Yards, made these charges in a letter to the District Commissioners which has been turned over to the Department of Justice.

Third Degree Instructions.

The former police official asserted that detailed instructions on methods of administering the third degree were given in a lecture to police officials of Washington by Inspector Faurot, of the New York police department. Schneider said the lecture was given before 80 or 90 police officials and detectives assembled in the old Penn Gardens.

"Inspector Faurot told us how the third degree was used in New York," Schneider said. "I remember particularly his description of a method for using a piece of rubber hose in such a way as to leave no marks on the prisoner. He also mentioned how a brass cuspidor, used on the back of the head, would refresh a man's memory."

Several high police officials said they had attended the lecture, but remembered no mention of the third degree.

STOLL CHALLENGES JURY TO INDICT HIM

Commissioners prepared to lay plans today for the selection of a board to "consider and act" upon the recommendations of a grand jury to reinstate Staples, to dismiss Patrolman Joseph H. Hunt, who is accused of "framing" Staples, and to punish others responsible for his dismissal.

If the grand jury indicts the alleged perjurious witnesses, Mr. Quinn pointed out, it would remove the decision of the case from the selected board to a petit jury, thus obviating any accusations of a "whitewash."

The statement from Mr. Quinn on behalf of Inspector Stoll says, "Inspector Stoll has been a member of the Police Department for 37 years and his record is without a blemish. He does not intend that the grand jury should put him on the defensive with its sensational generalities. • • • He desires to say to the grand jury and its advisers that if the purport of its general statement is to impute to him, perjury, subornation of perjury or any other crime • • • he invites them to indict him."

Stoll Headed Probe.

Although the grand jury did not specifically mention Inspector Stoll, it reported that the "framing" could not have been accomplished "without knowledge, consent and cooperation of certain members of the Metropolitan Police Department including some of its officials" and that it felt "that all the members of the Police Department who were connected with the gathering of evidence in connection with the trial of Orville Staples were either active participants in the securing of false evidence or were guilty of gross negligence." Inspector Stoll headed the investigation against Staples.

"Speaking as a citizen and a taxpayer," Mr. Quinn said, "may I be permitted to suggest that the Commissioners of the District of Columbia should not waste the people's money in another long-drawn-out proceeding at the request of a grand jury until that body has been asked the following questions:

"Is it true as reported in the press that the witnesses who are charged with committing perjury before the Staples trial board gave the same false testimony before the grand jury? If they did give the same false testimony before the grand jury could not that body indict them for perjury without fear of the statute of limitations barring the prosecution?"

Mr. Quinn then says if the questions are answered in the affirmative that the Commissioners should suggest that the grand jury do its duty and indict the witnesses.

Possible Answers.

"If the questions are answered in the negative," he continued, "then the Commissioners might well insist that as a condition precedent to their acting upon the report, all the testimony to justify the report be made available for use by the Commissioners or the board to be appointed by them, and the members of the grand jury agree that they will appear as witnesses to testify if called."

In a parellel case in which two members of the Police Department were excoriated by a grand jury report, and were subsequently tried on charges by a civilian board, it was pointed out, the cost of the transcript of the testimony was close to $1,000. The trial also consumed a months time of three District officials on the trial board, Mr. Quinn pointed out.

While the District Commissioners are devising plans today for the selection of the civilian board, Albert W. Jacobson, attorney for Patrolman Hunt, intends to appear in court and ask an expunction of the report on the grounds that the grand jury's scope is to indict or ignore, and not to excoriate or slander.

NEW JERSEY YOUTHS FIND NEW INCA DATA

Shippee-Johnson Expedition Brings Real Knowledge of Ancient Peru.

New York, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The Shippee-Johnson Peruvian expedition was hailed today as finders of "first real knowledge of the ancient Incas."

The expedition consisted of five youths of New Jersey. It completed nine months of ground and aerial camera work in Peru, and returned today on the Grace liner Santa Clara.

Because the explorers were gloomy about losing a pet llama hound called Pibe during their homeward cruise, they left the details of their achievements to Ray R. Platt, head of the American Geographical Society's department of Hispanic-American research, who was on hand to meet them.

"The expedition has brought back the first real knowledge of the ancient Incas," Mr. Platt said. "Most noteworthy are the discovery and authentication of existence of ruins of the great wall of Peru in the Santa Valley near Chimbote; what archeologists termed photographic 'rediscovery' of Chan Chan, crumbled palace of the great Chimu; the picture record of the glacial heights of the maritime cordillera at Huancayo never before crossed by plane, and the aerial survey of the 'lost' Colca Valley with its 14 forgotten villages."

"The mosaic map of the Chimu Valley with its ruins of Chan Chan," Mr. Platt said, "should, in the hands of archeologists and geographers, afford new information on the life of a wise and ingenious people.

Virginia Appeals Court to Convene

September Term to Begin in Staunton Today; Docket Light.

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., Sept. 7.—The Supreme Court of Appeals of Virginia will convene here tomorrow for its September term, and all of the seven justices are expected to attend.

This term's docket is comparatively light. There are two Commonwealth causes, one petition for mandamus, one case from Judge Ker's court of the City of Staunton; one from Judge Haden's Nineteenth Circuit; five from Judge Smith's Eighth Circuit; three from Judge Bertram's Twenty-fifth Circuit; one from Judge Williams' Seventeenth Circuit, and two from udge Glasgow's Eighteenth Circuit.

Head-On Crash of Autos Causes Death of Three

Topsfield, Mass., Sept. 7 (U.P.).—Three persons were killed and seven injured near here today when two automobiles met in a head-on collision on the Newburyport Turnpike. One of the machines caught fire after the crash. The dead: William Meehan, 22, Boston; Chester C. Powell, 19, Malden, and Evelyn Donovan, 22, Malden. The name of Miss Hilda A. Leibowitz, 20, of Worcester, was placed on the danger list at Danvers State Hospital. She was severely burned.

Broadcasting by Police Spurs Bluecoats' Hopes

By JOHN J. DALY

WHEN radio was extended to the Police Department, with cruising radio cabs equipped to pick up call stations, it spurred ambition in the breasts of the bluecoats.

The first big broadcast came when a sergeant, on the air, took up the case of newspapers and newspapermen and charged them with publishing inaccurate information about the police.

Radio, being what it is, there is no telling just where such a policy will end.

Suppose the city were in the throes of a raid by the banditti. "Police! Police!" cry the frightened citizenry.

Only a few policemen respond, privates all.

"Broadcasting?"

"He is speaking this morning over a Nation-wide hook-up, in the National Home Welfare Hour, giving a talk on character education. You can hear him over Station YES-I-AM."

* * * *

"AND the lieutenant? What is the lieutenant doing?" an interested bystander asks as the bandits shoot up a paint store.

"Oh, the lieutenant," murmurs a private. "The lieutenant is over at another station, NO-GO, giving a talk on journalism and its responsibilities to the public."

"Oh, yeah?" puts in an irate taxpayer. By this time all the taxpayers have become irate as the Fifth National Bank is bombed. "And have we no sergeants?"

The private pauses: "The Sergeant's Glee Club," he explains, "is rehearsing for its weekly broadcast on Wednesday, in the False Story Hour——"

"Ah," breathes a prominent citizen, as he watches the out-of-town bandits blow a safe. "So the sergeants are singing——"

"And how——!" says the private, proudly. Some day he, too, hopes to join the chorus.

"Where, may I ask, do the sergeants rehearse?" inquires a newcomer.

"Down by the Old Mill Stream," responds another private, breaking into the strains of the famous song, unable any longer to suppress a desire. He, too, wants to be a broadcaster.

* * * *

BUSINESS of the bandits over, the city robbed of its wealth, the cunning craftsmen, yeggs from Yonkers, get into their armored limousines and motor back to their bailiwick—along the Palisades of the Hudson. The helpless privates, without a sergeant's guide, bid the visitors bon voyage, while a puzzled populace returns to their homes, robbed by the lesser members of the banditti, and there listen to the broadcasting policemen.

"This is Station O-MY-I" brags the announcer, "and we have the rare privilege of introducing Capt. Lightfoot of the Fifty-first Precinct, who will give you his impression of the newspaper version of a downtown robbery said to have been committed this morning in the financial district. Capt. Lightfoot!"

"I want to say at the outset," declared the captain, clearing his throat and the force, "that there has been no robbery. What you read in the newspapers is grossly exaggerated, to build up circulation, to make sensational stories. I have it on the authority of three privates, who were eyewitnesses, that these gunmen from New York were here merely on a sight-seeing tour—and the bandits did not fire a shot. What the newspapermen heard was a salute from an army fort."

Static interrupts the rest of the speech.

Group Asks 7-Day Week On Transit Lines Ended

New York, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The city affairs committee, a nonpartisan civic organization, today appealed to Gov. Roosevelt and the legislature to abolish the seven-day working week on subways, buses and street cars.

In a letter to the governor, Paul Blanshard, executive director of the committee, asked that the special session of the legislature consider the seven-day week emergency problem of unemployment.

Battle of Groton Refought.

Groton, Conn., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Fort Griswold, scene of Connecticut's worst battle in the Revolutionary War, fell again today to an attacking force of redcoats, but this time in a bloodless battle. The occasion was the reenactment of the Battle of Groton Heights on the 150th anniversary of that skirmish.

Hoover Will Speak Over Radio Nov. 14

To Stress Importance of Liberal Arts College in Broadcast.

"The importance of the liberal arts college in America's educational system" is the subject of an address which President Hoover will broadcast November 14.

This broadcast, featuring the Chief Executive's speech, will be made by the National Broadcasting Co. and will be supplemented by local programs, preceding or following the national broadcast.

The national program is an effort to interpret the needs, aims and achievements of the American liberal arts college, to strengthen the appreciation of the public for the contribution that the arts school has made and is making to civilization.

'King of Cripple Creek' Dies at Colorado Resort

Colorado Springs, Colo., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—A. E. Carlton, 66, Colorado Springgs capitalist, mining man and president of the Holly Sugar Corporation, died here today after a three weeks illness.

He came to Colorado for his health 40 years ago. Starting as a clerk in a Colorado Springs store, he rose to be undisputed "King of the Gold Camp" of Cripple Creek, with control of the coal business, the one remaining railroad, the electric light and power plant, the banks and thousands of acres of mining properties.

Father of 15 Arrested; Called Drunken Driver

Bridgeton, N. J., Sept. 7 (U.P.). Harry Durham, 56, father of fifteen children, was in jail today charged with driving while intoxicated.

Durham is charged specifically with driving a team of horses while under the influence of liquor. According to the arresting officer, Durham became so befuddled that he could not remember when to say "gee!" and when to say "haw!" As a result, his wagon blocked traffic.

Ring Lardner in Hospital As Result of Breakdown

New York, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Ring Lardner, humorist, today was reported "resting comfortably" in Doctors' Hospital, where he is undergoing treatment following a general breakdown.

Members of his family said he would remain in the hospital for several weeks, and that he had been "worn out by too much work."

Chevy Chase Home Damaged by Blaze

Two Pet Cats, Overcome by Smoke, Revived by Rescue Squad.

Fire of unknown origin damaged the home of Benjamin Woodyard at 208 Bradley boulevard, Chevy Chase, Md., late yesterday afternoon to the extent of nearly $500. The fire managed to get a good start before it was discovered as the family was away at the time.

Wilson Offutt, next-door neighbor, saw the smoke and called the Bethesda Volunteer Fire Department which responded in time to restrict the fire to a first-floor bedroom, where most of the damage was done.

Two pet cats of the Woodyards, locked in the house, were overcome by smoke and were later revived by the Bethesda Rescue Squad.

Democratic House Whip Is Ordered to Hospital

On the advice of naval medical officers, Representative John McDuffie, of Alabama, entered the U. S. Naval Hospital yesterday for observation.

Representative McDuffie, who is Democratic whip in the House, returned last week from a tour of Europe. The medical officers said that his condition was not serious but that he needed a few days rest.

CROWD GREETS GRAF ON ARRIVAL AT HOME

Huge Dirigible Returns From South American Flight, Gayly Decorated.

Friedrichshafen, Germany, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Decorated as gayly as a vacationer returning from a summer jaunt, the Graf Zeppelin arrived at its hangar this afternoon from its strictly business trip to South America.

Inside it were freight, mail and sets of scientific instruments that had been tried out during the journey, but what interested welcomers on the field were the huge tuft of palm branches adorning the prow and a stuffed crocodile figurehead.

These tropical souvenirs were none the worse for the severe lashing they got from east winds that delayed the Graf's homeward progress, increasing its running time almost 10 hours over the 71 hours required for the outward journey to Pernambuco, Brazil.

The Graf had experienced 216 homecomings, but today's—No. 217—proved the big dirigible to be just as fascinating to the welcomers as ever.

Enthusiasm couldn't be restrained and crowds broke through police lines when the ship's nose dipped groundward. The spectators followed all the way into the hangar.

The problem of getting through the crowd was best solved by Commander Hugo Eckener, who walked the entire length of the ship and clambered out the rear motor gondola.

Members of the crew, whose wives and children were among the spectators, braved the crush and walked down the gangway, their arms full of trophies—palms, cactus plants, snake skins, pineapples and brilliantly colored blankets.

The Graf plans another trip to Pernambuco September 17. It expects to arrive there September 20, leave September 24 and arrive back home again September 28. The passenger fare for the trip will be reduced to $1,000.

Akron, Ohio, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Lieut. Richard Bennett, a member of the crew of the new Navy Dirigible Akron, was injured at Akron Airport today when a glider he was piloting crashed.

He suffered a broken leg and possible pelvic injuries but was not believed to be in serious condition.

Amy Johnson Meets Delay in Koenigsberg

Koenigsberg Germany Sept. 7 (A.P.). Amy Johnson, British woman flier who is flying back from Tokyo to England, was detained here today by bad weather. She hopes to take off tomorrow noon for Hanover.

Von Gronau Brings Plans to New York

Northern Circle Flier Says Intercontinental Line Project Is Ready.

New York, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Capt. Wolfgang Von Gronau, German aviator, who flew from Germany to Chicago across the northern circle route, came to New York tonight with the announcement that he was ready to submit proposals for an intercontinental air mail line to his German backers.

Piloted into Glenn Curtiss Airport at 6:10 p. m. (Eastern standard time) by Miss Hertha Mirow, who won her pilot's license in Hudson, Ohio, a year ago, the Groenland Wal in which he made his transatlantic flight, was berthed beside the DO-X, giant German seaplane.

The Von Gronau ship left Cleveland at 12 noon (Eastern standard time) and passed two hours later over Niagara Falls. Previously the group had flown to the air meet from Chicago, where Von Gronau ended his ocean flight.

LONG SEES 5 STATES FOR BAN ON COTTON

Louisiana Governor Says They Will Follow Texas If It Forbids Crop.

New Orleans, La., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Gov. Huey P. Long said late today that he had assurances from at least five other Southern States that cotton prohibition legislation would be enacted by their Legislatures in the event Texas votes total abolition of the 1932 crop

He named Misaissippi, Alabama, South Carolina, North Carolina and Arkansas as the States that would fall in line with the "no cotton in 1932" ordered recently by the Louisiana Assembly.

Austin, Tex., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Texas, whose 10,000 gins already have started baling one-third of the Nation's 1931 cotton crop, made ready tonight for the opening of a special legislative session tomorrow, which other Southern States hope will set pace in cotton curtailment.

The lawmakers tonight were busy drafting bills proposing cotton acreage reduction in varying amounts.

Senator Walter Woodward, of Coleman, one of the administration leaders, had prepared a bill understood to apply to crops next year and in 1933, prohibiting any man from planting more than half of his tillable land in cotton. It was believed such a step would reduce acreage 25 or 30 per cent.

Expressions of opinion from Texas lawmakers and farmers thus far have shown little inclination to follow the plan of Gov. Huey P. Long of Louisiana to prohibit cotton planting altogether in 1932.

SIX KILLED IN CLASH ON CHACO'S BORDER

One Paraguayan and Five Bolivians Are Reported Dead in Fighting.

Asuncion, Paraguay, Sept. 7 (U.P.). The ministry of war received a report from the Casado district commander today that Paraguayan and Bolivian frontier patrols had clashed. One Paraguayan soldier, a Bolivian officer and four Bolivian soldiers were killed, the message said.

Paraguay and Bolivia have long disputed the frontier line in the Gran Chaco region, where border patrols have often clashed. On several occasions there have been serious threats of war as a result of the clashes.

(Associated Press.)

State Department officials said last night they hoped that fighting between Paraguayans and Bolivians along the Chaco border would prove to be merely an encounter between wandering border patrols and without the sanction of the respective governments.

Neither governmental officials nor members of the neutrals who have been using their good offices to bring about a settlement of the Chaco dispute appeared seriously alarmed.

At present the neutrals are awaiting the answer of the Paraguayan government to the proposed pact of nonaggression recently put forward by the five neutral countries, the United States, Paraguay, Mexico, Colombia and Cuba.

U. S. Felon on Isle of Pines Killed Trying to Escape

Isle of Pines, Cuba, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Malvin McLaughlin, an American serving a life term for murder, was shot and killed by guards early today when he tried to escape from the national penitentiary. McLaughlin came to Cuba from New York City fifteen years ago and in 1926 was sentenced to life imprisonment for killing another American named John Nordland.

Prison authorities reported this afternoon that he slipped outside the prison gates early in the morning and had hidden in a farm house apparently awaiting nightfall before attempting to leave the island. Guards discovered his hiding place and he was shot as he sought to escape.

Diez de Medina Leaves; Secretary Is in Charge

(Associated Press.)

The credentials of his successor, Luis O. Abelli, have not yet reached Washington. They are expected within the next week.

Ecuadorean Secretary Is Shifted to Bogota

(Associated Press.)

First Secretary Carlos Proano of the Legation of Ecuador is expected to be transferred to the legation at Bogota, Colombia.

His friends consider the impending change a tribute to his diplomatic ability. The Colombian Legation is considered one of the most important for Ecuador in view of the recent resumption of diplomatic relations between the two countries.

Aerial Expedition To Labrador Ends

MacMillan Is Back in U. S. in His Plane 'Viking;' Maps Obtained.

Rockland, Me., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—A three months' aerial expedition to the bleak Labrador coast and inland territory today was completed with the arrival here of Commander Donald B. MacMillan in his plane, Viking.

MacMillain's eighth trip into the Arctic, but the first by air, recorded among its accomplishments the mapping of 1,500 square miles uncharted country, the aerial exploration of some 50,000 square miles of northern terrain and the establishment of dental clinics in a number of Eskimo communities.

Army Captain Is Killed As Plane Motor Stalls

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Capt. George Converse, of Somerset, Ky., Army pilot stationed at Bowman Field, was fatally injured when his plane crashed near the field late today. Pvt. Arthur Jenks, Louisville, was injured.

Capt. Converse was a member of the 325th Observation Squadron, Army Air Corps. Investigators of the crash reported the plane's motor stalled, and the ship grazed a barn in an attempted forced landing. Its right wing was smashed and the fliers were pinned in the wreckage.

Danville Youth Killed When Parachute Fails

Danville, Va., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Luther Lipford, 20, of Danville, was killed instantly at the Municipal Airport this afternoon, when his parachute failed to open and he fell 3,000 feet.

The parachute jump was a feature of a Labor Day program.

New Jersey Flier Injured.

Collingswood, N. J., Sept. 7 (A.P.). Parke Reed, 24, of Haverford, was critically injured tonight as his plane crashed shortly after taking of from the Camden Airport for Atlantic City.

contests of the 1931 national air races.

The meet was unmarred by fatalities, though four pilots became members of the Caterpillar Club by forced descents in parachutes, and the race president, L. W. Greve, estimated that 370,000 people witnessed the ten days of aerial sport and speed.

In the Thompson race, the pilots finishing out of the money placed in the following order; Robert L. Hall, Springfield, Mass.; Capt. Ira C. Eaker, Washington, D. C.; Ben O. Howard, Chicago, and William Ong, Kansas City. Three fliers, Ray Moore, San Francisco; Louis Reichers, Arlington, N. J., and Harold S. Johnson, Chicago, failed to start. The eight who faced the starting gun were sent off from a dead stop at 10-second intervals.

Maj. Doolittle reported his engine overheated and smoke poured back through the cowling so badly that he could hardly see Capt. Eaker's ship when he was passing it.

Jackson caused some concern when the fabric on the right lower wing of his plane was ripped in skimming too close to a tree. He continued, though the rip grew wider and a short ribbon of linen streamed below him at the finish.

Capt. Eaker, flying a low wing monoplane with a retractible landing gear, was forced to fly long after completing the 100-mile race when the wheels refused to drop. He finally came down for a "dry duck" landing, skidding along in the middle of the airport on the bottom of the fuselage, and was uninjured.

Greatest 'Flying City' Awaits U. S. Fledglings

Army Air Corps Will Center Primary Training at Mammoth Randolph Field, Covering 2,200 Acres; First Classes Due Soon.

San Antonio, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—A "flying city" will begin to function soon as the world's greatest aviation school.

Randolph Field, 14 miles from San Antonio, will become the air corps' center of private aeronautic training upon the arrival of its first class of flying cadets.

Already costing nearly $10,000,000, with expenditures of $40,000,000 more possible, the field is believed by the Air Corps to be the first development ever planned with its appearance from the air as one of the primary considerations.

In the center of a flat plot of farm land covering more than 2,200 acres a model city is being completed. From it will radiate the activities of the school for training military pilots.

The city is made up of Spanish mission style buildings which include the officers' mess in the center, an administration building, houses for commissioned and noncommissioned officers, barracks for cadets and enlisted men, a post exchange, a hospital, a school of aviation medicine, shops and hangars. There are approximately 300 buildings.

Flanking the city on all four sides are the flying fields, only two opposing ones to be used at any one time, with their choice depending on the wind directions.

A single highway and a railroad connect the flying center with the outside world.

The field will have charge of activities heretofore divided between Brooks Field, Tex., and March Field, Calif., in giving the eight-month primary training course to cadets.

The additional four months of advanced training will be carried on at Kelly Field, Tex.

Meanwhile, the Brooks Field and March Field Army flying schools will have been moved to Randolph Field.

The personnel of the field will number 1,700, though eventually it will consist of 350 officers, 300 flying cadets, 2,000 enlisted men and their families.

Maj. Harrison H. C. Richards, recently transferred from Brooks Field, is commandant of Randolph Field. Brig. Gen. Charles H. Danforth, assistant chief of the Air Corps in charge of training, will have headquarters there.

Naval Lieutenant Dies In Crash Near Family

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 7 (U.P.).—Lieut. W. W. Conway was killed in sight of his wife and her family when his plane crashed here today. He was attached to the Pensacola, Fla., naval base.

Witnesses said he was stunting when the accident occurred. The plane struck the ground less than 100 feet from the airport office where Mrs. Conway and her parents were standing.

Two Pilots Die as Plane Dives on Baseball Field

Itasca, Ill., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Two licensed pilots were killed today when the airplane in which they were riding went into a spin and crashed from an altitude of several hundred feet on a baseball field.

The dead: F. E. Mitchell of Chicago, who was piloting the plane, and George Wallis, of Morton Grove, Ill. Wallis was a pilot for the Chicago Commercial Airways and Mitchell was a salesman.

TWO AIRMEN LEAVE JAPAN ON NONSTOP SEATTLE HOP

It was clear here and a storm had moderated over the Aleutians.

At noon today the airmen should have been somewhere east of Paramushir Island, if they maintained their expected speed of 100 miles an hour. It was calculated they passed the Ketoi Island region, where the Charles Lindberghs spent two nights recently, about 10:30 a. m. (8:30 p. m. Monday, E. S. T.).

The Ochiishi radio station at Nemuro, which was in communication today with several fishing vessels at various points along the Kurile Islands, decided Moyle and Allen had takn a more easterly course, as none of the fishermen up to noon had reported sighting the Seattle-bound plane.

Moyle calculated the flight would require 39 to 44 hours, depending on the weather. He said he and Allen expected to arrive in Seattle possibly before daylight of Wednesday morning.

Rising at 3:45 a. m., the fliers went to the field and warmed up their engine in the presence of a small crowd gathered to witness the take-off.

Moyle took the controls, and as Allen waved at the crowd, the engine roared and after a run of 1,800 meters along the beach lifted its load of 1,020 gallons of gasoline into the air and flying at a height of 50 meters disappeared over the Pacific.

Moyle got the plane into the air much easier than aviationists here expected. The wind and a smooth sandy runway were favorable.

Some experts had predicted that the plane which failed to carry Harold Bromley and Harold Gatty on a nonstop flight to America last year, and also failed Thomas Ash this year, would not rise from the beach with a heavier load than was carried on the previous attempts.

Moyle and Allen had cut one inch off the propeller at each end, giving it swifter revolutions, and had altered the tail assembly. They believed these changes had given more lifting power and increased speed.

Undismayed by Failures.

They expressed themselves undismayed by the fact that Bromley and Gatty had been forced to return to Japan by a broken fuel pipe after flying 1,200 miles toward America. They were unconcerned when told again that Thomas Ash had been unable to get the plane off the beach with a smaller load than it carried for them. Their loaded plane weighed 11,500 pounds.

The plane, they said, with 1,020 gallons of gasoline aboard, would fly for 47 hours, which they believed more than sufficient to take them safely to land at Seattle, or in case of fog to some field inland.

Despite criticisms in some circles that the plane was not airworthy, Moyle and Allen had the greatest confidence they would finish the journey and win the $25,000 offered by the Tokyo newspaper Asahi for the first continuous flight between Japan and America.

Moyle worked day and night on the plane at the Tachikawa airport near Tokyo, preparing for the flight. He lived at a small Japanese hotel nearly a month without visiting Tokyo, while Allen attended to details such as applications for a flying permit.

Moyle claimed for the plane: "It holds the world's weight-carrying record for a single-motored plane. Therefore, there is no doubt in my mind we shall be able to take off, although the load and plane together weigh nearly 6 tons."

Both fliers expressed appreciation for the cooperation of the Associated Press and Rengo News Agency in bringing weather reports supplied by the Weather Bureau at San Francisco. These reports, they said, were a great help.

The aviators, young, healthy and with big appetites, took five roast chickens as gifts of Mayor Yoji Kobiruimaki. They also had buttered bread, with coffee.

"We have to go a long way and shall be hungry when we arrive on the other side," Allen said, smiling.

Asked what he would like for breakfast in Seattle, Allen answered, "Bacon and eggs and buckwheat cakes, with plenty of syrup."

This whetted Moyle's appetite and he said, "If it's all the same, make mine ham and eggs and corn cakes, with maple syrup."

The fliers were in the cockpit a second afterward and the motor drowning conversation.

Lindbergh Expresses Hope.

Tokyo (Tuesday), Sept. 8 (A.P.). Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today expressed hope for the success of an attempt by Don Moyle and C. A. Allen to make a nonstop flight across the Pacific to Seattle.

Although the colonel did not meet either of the fliers, who spent most of their time at the Tachikawa Airport working on their plane, he said, "The boys have all my best wishes. It's a dangerous job they have undertaken. The weather over the Aleutian Islands does not really matter so much as they can keep going. But the important factor will be the weather where the two tired fliers will land."

Hugh Herndon, who with Clyde Pangborn flew here from New York with several landings in Europe and Siberia, said: "Allen and Moyle deserve credit for getting away in the face of great odds. They are nice fellows. My hat is off to them and I wish them all the luck in the world."

Pangborn also paid tribute to Moyle and Allen, saying: "The boys got away better than I expected. To take the air with such a tremendous load was one of their greatest difficulties. Now if they have an even break with the weather, they are pretty sure of success."

Los Angeles, Sept. 7 (U.P.).—Friends of C. A. Allen said that he decided upon the ocean flight after his fiancee, Eileen Miller, 23, died in an air crash on March 22.

Miss Miller was killed when her plane crashed at Grant Central Air Terminal.

"Since Eileen's death I really don't care what happens," Allen told friends. "It may look strange for me to try the Pacific in my frame of mind. But that's just it. I don't care what happens."

Police in Plane Direct Holiday Motor Traffic

Camden, N. J., Sept. 7 (U.P.).—An airplane was used by State police today to direct holiday motor traffic on the main highways between Atlantic City and Camden.

Two officers flew with Pilot Robert Arndell between the two cities and whenever a traffic accident or snarl was sighted, weighted notes were dropped to the nearest State police barracks with suggestions as to what procedure should be followed.

NO COALITION IN CONGRESS.

Representative James M. Beck, of Pennsylvania, has returned from Europe filled with thoughts of coalitions and moratoriums. He has taken note of what excessive taxation to support the dole and other socialistic measures has done to Great Britain, and issues a warning that the United States Government must cut down its expenditures. There is no reason whatever, says Mr. Beck, why governmental expenditures should not be reduced from $5,000,000,000 down to $3,000,000,000 if payments to the sinking fund for reduction of the national debt are suspended for the period of the depression.

Mr. Beck's purpose is highly commendable, but the method by which he hopes to achieve that purpose affords no encouragement that he will be successful. He suggests that an American problem be tackled in an European way. Following the example of Great Britain, he proposes the formation of a coalition in Congress. Let the best men of both parties call a moratorium on partisan politics. Let the House elect a "fair-minded and outstanding man as Speaker" and let all factions unite in a program to cut public expenditure to the bone.

It must be his long vacation that causes Representative Beck to indulge in such utopian dreams. Has he forgotten what happened when the party leaders called a moratorium on politics for the country's welfare last December? Within a few weeks some of the Democratic leaders who had promised to cooperate with the administration found it necessary to vilify the program they had promised to support in order to demonstrate their loyalty to the Democratic party. Attempts at cooperation widened the breach of partisanship and made a political issue out of the very question which Democratic leaders had promised to keep out of politics.

When "a moratorium on politics" leads to such an acrimonious row in an off-year, politically speaking, what might be expected from a similar venture when the country is on the eve of the 1932 campaign and the membership of Congress is almost equally divided between the two parties? Any attempt to eliminate politics from the coming session of Congress would be like trying to hold back the tide with a feather. The Democratic party regards the depression as its great opportunity. If Democratic leaders should begin by pretending to cooperate with President Hoover they would be attacked by their own followers, and in order to save themselves they would end with a savage attack upon the administration and thus delay essention legislation.

Each party must act for itself. The administration will sponsor a program of economy in an effort to avoid another large deficit, while at the same time maintaining those activities intended to relieve unemployment. With the Treasury in its present condition the Democratic party will not be willing to take responsibility for foisting an extravagant budget upon the country. Higher taxes made necessary by Democratic votes would blast that party's chances of winning the 1932 election. Let each party act in accordance with the national welfare without injecting an extra dose of politics into the Government's financial problems by attempting to form a coalition. Then each may be judged by the electorate on the basis of its own record.

INDUSTRIAL HARMONY.

Labor Day passed without a ruffle on the surface. In fact, Labor Day in the United States has become a general holiday and the whole country joins in recreational pursuits. In spite of the fact that there are about 6,000,000 unemployed men in the country the great body of workers shun radicalism as poison and seek to work out their problems on a sound economic basis. The day brought forth nothing more fanatical than an address on employment panaceas by Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University.

Seldom has the United States been more free from disputes between industry and labor than at present. During the present crisis both sides have demonstrated a remarkable disposition to cooperate in their mutual interest. For example, it is estimated by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, that only 16 per cent of the industrial establishments of this country have reduced wages. In 1921 wage cuts were almost universal. American industry seems to be thoroughly converted to high wages as a means of sustaining purchasing power.

On the other hand, labor leaders have maintained their equilibrium. No strike of national importance has been called since the depression began, and none are expected. Labor has maintained its dignity and the great trade unions have strengthened their position with the American people.

Many problems yet confront capital and labor. Employment must be stabilized and wages must be so adjusted that purchasing power will keep pace with productive ability. But a secure foundation for the solution of these issues has been laid in the present intelligent attitude of both industrials and workingmen. Their cooperation to meet this crisis is perhaps the most hopeful demonstration in the field of industrial relations that the world has ever seen. When good will and understanding prevail, when industry is not thrown out of gear by strikes and radicalism finds no root among the working class, adjustment of problems that are temporarily perplexing may be confidently expected.

CITIES FINANCE RELIEF.

With commendable spirit and foresight American cities are preparing to take care of the needs of the unemployed. Reports from various cities, in response to requests from the New York Times, show that almost without exception municipalities are neither asking nor expecting Federal aid to meet their local problems, but in combination with State and county organizations are arranging well in advance their plans for winter work and relief.

Boston has appropriated $6,000,000 for its public welfare department and a public works program calling for the expenditure of $35,000,000 during 1931, and a similar amount in 1932 will aid in the unemployment situation.

Cleveland has issued bonds under an emergency law to the extent of $1,000,000 to assist in financing the associated charities, while the county is arranging to provide an additional $2,400,000. Philadelphia has already set aside $3,000,000 to be administered through the Lloyd committee, which is in charge of relief work.

Detroit's mayor wires that the situation will be relieved by Senator Couzens' contribution of $1,000,000 to be met by $9,000,000 additional from other private sources. Detroit has been reckless in administering relief, however, and since the local bonding limit is almost reached, the mayor suggests that Federal aid may be necessary. But why not ask the State of Michigan for help?

The Mayor of Buffalo "adheres to the fundamental American principle that relief of distress due to economic causes is a State function to be exercised through local subdivisions by mandatory laws." Charleston, S. C., has organized its social relief agencies "so as to assure that there will be no bread lines this winter."

Seattle's mayor reports: "Every available means being invoked to stimulate private industry and encourage private construction work and organize local public improvements to afford maximum unemployment relief to bona fide citizens. Seattle recognizes the responsibility of caring for its own."

In Richmond relief work for the unemployed and indigent will be administered through the municipal social service bureau from public funds and through the family service society of the community chest from private contributions. Mayor Bright says: "Richmond can fully take care of its own needs. I am absolutely opposed to Federal Government help."

"It is my opinion that our community, as should every community in the United States, can care for its own needy residents without Government charity aid," says Mayor Schwarz of Mobile. Reports to Gov. Philip La Follette indicate that the unemployment relief fund of $3,000,000 probably will be sufficient to meet Wisconsin's relief burden this winter. In addition the 2-cent increase in the gasoline tax will provide $5,000,000 for relief employment.

Mayor Jackson says Baltimore faces the situation with confidence that extreme suffering will be prevented by organizing all relief and welfare groups under a special committee supported by private contributions. He believes that city, State or national funds should not be used unless extreme necessity arises.

In general the reports from these and numerous other cities indicate that they are tackling their individual problems with confidence, and that they are opposed to Federal aid.

COURT OF WORLD POLITICS.

Even friends of the so-called world court are discouraged by its decision on the legality of the proposed Austro-German customs union. The court's ruling is of no practical importance, because the question had already been disposed of by direct diplomatic negotiations between France and Austria. The European nations which set up the court dealt it a blow by settling the question at issue without the slightest regard for the court's opinion. Now the court has exposed its own spurious character by announcing a decision in which politics, national interest and international law are mixed in hopeless confusion.

The court divided on the issue, eight judges agreeing that the proposed union was not compatible with Austria's international obligations, and seven dissenting. The division was by nationality, and this fact strips the court of all claims to judicial integrity. Members from France and the satellites of France, including Poland and Roumania, were supported by members from Spain, Italy, Cuba and Salvador, in writing the majority opinion. The German, British, Dutch, Japanese, Chinese, Belgian and American judges held to the German viewpoint.

It would be unfair, of course, to assume that all the judges were actuated by national politics. The Belgian jurist appears to have decided against the wishes of his country in the matter, and a number of others, including Frank B. Kellogg, the American judge, were disinterested. Nevertheless, the political line-up on both sides by most of the judges representing countries with a direct interest in the issue is unmistakable. What might be expected if a more momentous issue involving the peace of the world were referred to this "international court of justice?"

Even the New York Times, one of the most ardent advocates of the League of Nations and the league's court, agrees that the decision "does not heighten its prestige." "Some of the judges," says the Times, "seem to have given as much weight to public consequences as they did to legal arguments." The line-up of judges according to the interests of the countries they represent is referred to as a "somewhat disquieting feature."

This performance by the so-called world court confirms the prevalent American opinion that the tribunal is not a true court of international justice, but a catspaw of the League of Nations, set up to give a semblance of legal sanction to the views and activities of that European group which controls the league. This opinion of the court is not confined to the United States. Germany and Austria recognize the futility of the court when they declare that the current decision, which went against them, is a victory because of the "weight" of the dissenting opinion. The question of an Austro-German customs union has already been settled. But it is evident that if any practical advantages hung upon the court's action Germany and Austria would not have accepted a decision turned against them by the margin of one vote. It is evident, too, that the strength of a vote is calculated not on the ability of the jurist but on the strength of the country he represents.

The world court has brought discredit upon itself. Its usefulness in the settlement of any vital controversy that may arise in the future is nil because the world knows that the court is not a tribunal of law, but an international institute of politics.

A correspondent asks for a list of millionaire senators, to whom he can send a clipping regarding Jim Couzens' generous offer to contribute $1,000,000 to the unemployed. The trouble is that most senators are afraid they will be among the unemployed themselves some day.

When Senator Nye gets through with his investigation into Bishop Cannon's political expenditures the public will want to know just how much the testimony has cost per word.

Following Henry Ford's thought, Congress might solve the agricultural problem by requiring every farmer to set up a small automobile factory in his back yard.

CABBAGES AND KINGS

From the London Times.

A decree has gone out from Henry Ford that married men must grow vegetables if they want to keep their employment at the Ford works. Whatever Mr. Ford approves of is sure to command attention, and this is a great day for vegetables when an industrial king smiles upon them.

The depression will not have been wholly a misfortune if it leads men to a juster and more generous attitude toward a form of life which they have far too long treated with disrespect. That disrespect goes strangely with the habitual use men make of vegetables, but it is undeniable that the names of leading vegetables are synonyms of reproach. To call a man a cabbage, to call a head an onion, to describe noses as carroty and ears as cauliflower, is to be, and to mean to be, uncomplimentary.

Almost alone the cucumber has succeeded in maintaining a eulogistic significance; perhaps that is what its famous coolness really consists of, to let the rest of the kitchen garden suffer abuse and play only for its own position. To judge mankind by its speech and metaphors is to conclude that to be useful is not the way to be admired, and there is nothing more striking in human letters than the glaring change of attitude when the imagination moves from flowers to vegetables. Nothing is too good in the way of comparison for the lilies of the field, which do no useful industrial work, while there is only this contemptuous usage for vegetables which are highly productive, and so rich in vitamins that any homeliness of appearance ought not to elicit particular attention.

Englishmen and Americans, at any rate, have been punished for their ingratitude, and talking lightly of vegetables they have come to treat them as mere appendages and flavorers of meat, to mix them up, and to consider that a cut from the joint of an ox or a sheep, which would never have come to anything without grass, deserves its two vegetable attendants, because the vegetative creation is rightly subject to the animal. Yet the most skilled cooks know that nothing gives true gourmets more satisfaction than vegetables served alone with reverent care.

Like people who are at their best when tete-a-tete, vegetables need a free field and can not do justice to themselves in a crowd when heaped together on a plate and overwhelmed with gravy and mustard and similar assertive individualities. But for the basic virtues of simple strength, as a standby in trouble, political as well as economic, what can compare with the vegetable? Mr. Ford has seen it and has given the approval of mass production to the steady faith which has caused innumerable smaller men to persevere with the mustard and cress on the window-sill.

It is not only that gardening is an individual occupation, a succession of new and local problems, and so an excellent counterpoise to the monotonous repetitions of modern factory work. Nor is it chiefly that a source of essential and wholesome food has been far too long neglected by the artisans of large towns. There is also the possibility of helping trade.

There does not seem any real reason why, in the next model, Mr. Ford should not provide window-boxes and a roof garden to his cars, to show that so far from there being any opposition between automobilism and horticulture no two activities can be more easily and agreeably pursued at the same time. Too many motorists who motor less than they might, and show a mileage which is no stimulus to the trade, would be provided with a motive for longer and more frequent journeys, taking the vegetables out to get the air, to find or avoid the rain or the sun, and to produce new and splendid specimens by removing the old and harmful notion that vegetating in the same spot is a necessary part of the vegetable's earthly life.

NATIONAL DEFENSE DAYS.

A single "National Defense Day" is proposed by Mr. Jahncke, the Assistant Secretary of the Navy," says the Army and Navy Journal. He argues that one such anniversary would be more valuable in countering pacifist propaganda than three—Army Day, Navy Day and Armistice Day. May we not point out to Mr. Jahncke that pacifist activities are constant, day in and day out, and that once a year demonstrations by the services would hardly give the opportunity for answer to these attacks. The Army and Navy both prefer to reply to the propaganda against each in their own special way, and the veterans of the World War take pride in the celebration of the anniversary of the end of the struggle in which they engaged. If anything, we would recommend additional national defense days in preference to Mr. Jahncke's suggestion, and, thus provide the opportunity to impress upon the people the great need of constant preparedness.

A Moral Obligation Doesn't Make a Dry Cow Give More Milk

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MANY people fail to understand the war-debt problem because they persist in thinking of what should be instead of what can be.

There can be no question of the borrower's legal and moral obligation to pay.

And in theory the German people could tax themselves to pay for the damage done to France; the French could use the German money to pay their debt to England; England could use it to pay the American Government, and our Government could use it to repay the patriots who bought bonds to finance the war.

Or, if Germany failed to pay, the French and English and other peoples could tax themselves heavily enough to raise the money borrowed from America, and then they could ship it to Washington in nice strong boxes and bales.

But, unfortunately, the problem isn't so easily solved.

In the first place, there isn't enough money in the world to pay Europe's debt to America.

In the second place, America now has almost half of the world's gold.

Since Europe doesn't possess and can't obtain sufficient gold to pay her debt, the only possible way to square the account is by means of goods.

She must manufacture and export more goods than she imports.

And America has imposed a great import tax to keep the goods out!

Suppose America should remove the import tax and accept payment in goods. The market would be glutted; American factories would be unable to sell their wares, and American workmen would be jobless.

Or suppose Europe should strip herself of money to pay her debt. Her people would be unable to import anything; there would be no market for America's surplus of manufactured goods, and again the American workman would be jobless.

The world's greatest economists agree that much of the depression is caused by Europe's inability to get dollars. Every dollar she pays on her debt means a dollar less to spend for American goods.

The question is not whether Europe should pay, but whether it is better for America to collect an old debt or get new business.

PRO AND CON

Organizing the House.

New York Times.

President Hoover sought and obtained the individual approval of a majority of Congress before announcing his one-year debt suspension plan. But this must be ratified by Congress before December 15, the date of the next scheduled payment. Congress does not meet in regular session until December 7, and that is one reason why fresh efforts are now being made to untangle the snarl over the Speakership. Until a Speaker is chosen, the House can not organize. It has no committees and can consider no bills. Under long custom the Clerk of the previous House is authorized to call the body into session for organization purposes, and the Sergeant-at-Arms may keep order.

The House rules provide one way out. A Speaker pro tempore may be chosen, and the power to sign bills is granted to him in the rules. Organization battles might thus be deferred until the important debt legislation is passed. The Speaker pro tempore is displaced as soon as a regular Speaker is chosen. This method may have to be resorted to by the leaderless Seventy-second House.

No Dole for America.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

The opposition of the National Manufacturers Association to the dole and to general compulsory unemployment insurance is not snap judgment. The declaration is a result of months of intensive study of world systems. Private industry has spent large sums in investigating pension plans, retirement systems and insurance for the idle, both public and private. The studies of specialists have been placed in the hands of the association, which reports that "any general scheme which tends to set up a dole or bonus for idleness" would inflict increased taxation on the public, besides dulling individual initiative.

A Job the State Can Do.

Detroit News.

Gov. Brucker has sent word to President Hoover that the people of Michigan will take care of their own unemployment problem. He has appointed a commission to deal with it.

Our neighbor, the Province of Ontario, recently took an unemployment census and proceeded to find projects on which to set the unemployed to work. A considerable program of road-building was mapped, much of it in the resort country around Georgian Bay. The unemployed are being gathered, brigaded, trained, furnished with tools and marched like a small army, equipped with army material, to the various scenes of operation. By next year, it is expected, automobile highways will be open in districts to which tourist travel will bring wealth. Therein lies a suggestion for the employment of Michigan road funds, if they have not already been contracted for.

Boston Transcript.

One of the most competent of political observers, J. Fred Essary, Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Sun, has figured that the wets in the Democratic party will have enough votes in the Democratic national convention of 1932 to write a wet plank into the platform. The Democrats, still retaining the Jacksonian rule, can nominate their candidate only by two-thirds vote of the convention, but a majority vote is sufficient for the adoption of any platform or plank therein, and Mr. Essary avers that the following-named States will send wet delegates to the convention and that they will insist that the party shall be officially wet in the next presidential campaign: Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Delaware, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Maryland and Missouri.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

If Married Women in Goverment Service Gave Up Jobs There Is No Assurance That They Would Go to Deserving Heads of Families.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Kindly permit me to enter a protest against some of the letters that have recently appeared in your paper expressing indignation toward married women holding jobs. Fanatical outbursts and half-baked schemes will solve no problems. Facts must be taken into account.

These writers place blame on married women and say they can relieve the unemployment situation by resigning. Surely every one knows that they have no control over the filling of positions they now hold. Suppose they should resign. What assurance would they have that their places would be filled by "deserving heads of families?" More than likely other married women would fill their places. Only the employer can control that. Have these "heads of families" a civil service status? If not, how could they be employed? If they are intelligent enough to fill the places, they had the same opportunity to get the job. If they were not the Government can not afford to replace intelligent workers with inefficient help. There are already too many of the latter in the service.

Here is another obstacle of justice. There are many men in the service drawing $5,000 per annum. By what line of reasoning should their families receive the full benefits of their salary (if the family of the man who draws $2,500 and his wife $1,500, total, $4,000 per annum), is deprived of $1,500 a year. Why shouldn't the high-salaried man forfeit three-eighths of his salary. Or, what about the single man who draws a large salary? Why this unjust discrimination? Why pick on the married women? There is only one answer. These attacks must be prompted by selfishness, jealousy or envy.

A GOVERNMENT WORKER.

Keep Strong Army and Navy as Economy Measure, Says Citizen.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Beyond a doubt one of the most important requirements of good government is economy in its administration, and perhaps it is of first importance. But in order to produce best results, economy should stop short of parsimony.

Parsimony begins when expenses are cut to the bone without giving decent attention to the possible if not the probable needs of the future.

The way I look at it, the proposal to skimp the Army and Navy is parsimonious. And our plain citizens, I am glad to believe, now understand the economic necessity of presenting a solid military front strong enough to make belligerent nations think twice before provoking us into a war as was done in 1917.

Going further than that, I beg leave to suggest that we should keep our Army and especially our Navy in good fighting trim as a perpetual warning against the possible interference of socialistic or other European mercenaries in the political affairs of South America.

It may sound very Christian and all that to hear parlor patriots maintain that in the growth of an enlightened internationalism the Monroe Doctrine has become obsolete. But I insist that until republican institutions are thoroughly stabilized in the Western Hemisphere the grand old doctrine must be kept alive, backed up by an adequate military establishment.

Virginia Farmer Comments on a Pork-Barrel Statesman.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I heartily commend The Post for its editorial of September 2 entitled "Pork-Barrel Statesman," in which Gov. Pinchot's "plans" are shown in a true light. The pity of it is that so many people take him seriously, not knowing that he is only appealing to mob hysteria, thinking that it will help him gain the Republican nomination for President in 1932. What does he know about the farmers and farming, anyway? All he ever raised was hell and a mustache.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

CHOICE.

Life never shouts: "Do this! Do that!"
I think it doesn't care
What road we take, what choice we make,
What sort of garb we wear.
Who will not wisdom work to learn
Gets only what the fools can earn.

The things we lose, the things we gain
On choice alone depend.
Who wills to stray the easy way
Finds hardship at the end.
Who fears to risk a steep ascent
Must with the valley be content.

Though fortunes change with circumstance
And bodily distress,
The normal man must shape and plan
And build his own success.
And he must say how far he'll go
To claim the joys he wants to know.

We hold our destiny in hand
At least to this extent,
That all may say what price we'll pay
For goals within our bent.
And man from life takes nothing more
Than he has had the courage for.

Life makes no gifts to great or low.
Its joys are on display.
Is left to us to say.
And where at last our progress ends
Upon our strength of will depends.

NEW FLOOD TERROR UNLEASHED IN CHINA

Yellow River Overflows in Northern Honan Province With Huge Loss of Life.

Shanghai, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Another great flood disaster was inflicted today upon China, already suffering from the most tremendous inundation of its modern times.

With at least 350,000 already dead and 50,000,000 said by the government to face starvation in the coming winter, the Yellow River overflowed its banks in northern Honan Province.

Reports that the latest disaster had caused huge loss of life were partly confirmed. Press dispatches said 700 were drowned in the Mengtsing district of Honan when 70 villages were flooded and 20,000 persons made homeless.

River Called "China's Sorrow."

The Yellow River, long known as "China's Sorrow," rose to dangerous heights for 400 miles of its meandering course across Honan and Shantung Provinces. Anxiety was felt for safety of several mission stations which did not reply to telegraphed inquiries.

Indicating the widespread character of China's floods, reports of "incalculable casualties" came from Yunnan Province in the far southeastern interior. The mighty Yangtze River was said to have covered the entire northeastern area of the province.

Hundreds of miles down its course, the Yangtze burst several dykes at Sinti. Eighty thousand persons clung to remaining leves, awaiting food and medicines by boats despatched from Hankow, 75 miles northeastward.

100,000 Dead in Kiangsu.

These latest calamities augmented the frightful distress in Northern Kiangsu Province and the vast Yangtze Valley. With grand canal floods increased in Kiangsu Province, more than 100,000 persons were believed dead. The surviving populace in the large, densely populated area struggled to reach nearby cities to escape death by starvation, exposure and disease in the lake which covered many villages and towns.

The situation in the Yangtze tricities of Hankow, Wuchang and Hanyang, where 250,000 died in August, was reported improved. Pontoon bridges had been erected over flooded streets and sidewalks were raised temporarily to permit travel on foot. Sampans had been the only means of transportation in the cities for several weeks.

Communists became menacing in the sister cities, and troops from Nanking were dispatched to reinforce government forces.

Long-Shot Takes Terrapin Derby

Rank Outsider Captures $3,501 Ranch Prize; 75 Feet in 1:08.

Ponca City, Okla., Sept. 7.—(U.P.)—The slow but methodical march of Pebblestone, a small turtle owned by a chain store manager, today won the annual 101 Ranch terrapin derby and a first place prize of $3,501.

Pebblestone, so small a terrapin that none of the 5,000 spectators accorded it a chance to win, plodded over the 75-foot course from a wire cage across a circle line, in 1 minute and 8 seconds, to make this Labor Day a memorable one for Thomas E. Boetticher, who owns him.

Other entrants awarded prizes were Frank Golliack, of Pawnee, $00; Jim Bigheart, Osage Indian, of Ralston, $300; J. J. Lynn, Ralston, $200; Walter Koon, Clearwater, Kans., $100. Koon has had a terrapin in the money for the last three years.

Hearing Slated Today On Traffic in Virginia

(Associated Press.)

Richmond, Va., Sept. 7.—Gov. Pollard's commission studying motor-bus-truck traffic in the State will meet at 10 a. m. tomorrow in the capital to hear public opinion from as many persons as care to attend.

William R. Shands, secretary, said today the meeting has been called especially for parties who are not interested in either bus or railroad companies. Representatives of the carriers had their day before the commission on August 11.

Hoovers Pass Labor Day at Rustic Camp

President Back Today as Also Secretary Stimson From Europe.

President and Mrs. Hoover passed Labor Day at Rapidan camp where a group of intimate friends were assembled. They arrived at Rapidan on Friday and will return to Washington today.

With few exceptions members of the President's Cabinet were out of town.

A hearty welcome will be given by his associates to Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, who, with Mrs. Stimson, will come to Washington today after a summer in Europe. Much of their holiday was spent in England where they were guests, for a time, of the prime minister, Ramsay MacDonald, on his Scottish estate. On Saturday Secretary and Mrs. Stimson attended the marriage of their niece, Miss Camilla Leonard Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Edwards, of New York, and Mr. Francis O. Noble at Wainscott, Long Island. Mr. Noble is principal of the Lawrenceville School, which is attended by a number of Washington young men.

Miss Jean Woodson has joined her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene R. Woodson, 3245 Klingle road, after passing the summer at various resorts.

Dr. and Mrs. J. R. DeFarges are in Atlantic City.

Mr. and Mrs. George Clark have gone to Atlantic City.

Lieut. and Mrs. P. E. Robinson, jr., are spending some time at Old Point Comfort. Lieut. Robinson's ship, the U. S. S. Salt Lake City, is anchored in Hampton Roads over Labor Day, and will return to Old Point Comfort every week-end for the rest of the month.

The Bishop of St. Alban's and Mrs. Furse sailed from England for this country Saturday. They will pay a short visit in Washington before going to Denver for the convention of the Episcopal Church in America.

Mrs. Harry N. Cootes has returned to Fort Myer from Wyoming. She was accompanied by her daughter and son, Miss Mary Cootes and Mr. Merritt Cootes.

Mr. and Mrs. William Jennings Price, who are motoring in Europe, are in Paris. Mr. and Mrs. Price were married at Lancaster, Pa., August 15. Mrs. Price was formerly Miss Beatrice Detwiller.

Mrs. Phillip Landsdale and Miss Elizabeth Pillsbury, who have been in Paris, have now gone to Biarritz. They will sail for this country the end of the month.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Tuckermann have as their guests at their summer home at Southampton, Long Island, Miss Eleanor Crain, of Baltimore; Count U. di Sorbello, Mr. Rodney C. Fiske and Mr. J. S. Blays.

Winchester Girl Wed to Architect

Miss Elizabeth Stuart Is Bride of R. M. Trimble, Jr., of Pittsburgh.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Sept. 7.—Hawthorne, the residence of Dr. and Mrs. Emmert C. Stuart, was the scene of a wedding ceremony this afternoon in which their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Small Stuart, became the bride of R. Maurice Trimble, jr., of Pittsburgh, Pa. A large gathering of friends and relatives of Pittsburgh and other cities, witnessed the ceremony and attended the reception afterward.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Robert E. Hannon, rector of the Catholic Church of the Sacred Heart.

The bride is a graduate of Fort Loudoun Seminary, Winchester, and for several years has been studying art designing and decorating. Mr. Trimble is a graduate of Princeton University and is associated with his father as an architect. The couple will reside in that city on returning from a wedding trip.

Wilson Steamer Makes Last Trip

Machinist Lodge Taken on Moonlight Cruise on City of Washington.

The Wilson Line closed its 1931 season on the Potomac last night with a final moonlight cruise, for which the steamer City of Washington was chartered by Columbia Lodge, International Association of Machinists. This is the first of a series of entertainments given by the lodge to raise $5,000 for unemployment relief for the coming winter.

The City of Washington, which has carried thousands of Washingtonians down the river this summer, will shortly return to the Wilson Line yards in Wilmington, Del., according to George B. Junkin, of Philadelphia, president of the line.

Mr. Junkin recently visited Washington to arrange for cooperation of the Wilson Line ships with the transportation committee of the District of Columbia George Washington Bicentennial Commission for the celebration in 1932.

Carnegie Program Is Given Support

Many Organizations Back Plan for Disarmament Meetings Nov. 11.

New York, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, announced today that many organizations had responded to the proposal for a Nation-wide series of meetings on armistice Day to focus public attention on the disarmament conference to convene in Geneva next February. A new and more thorough study of the whole international situation as it affects American prosperity is also sought.

Arrangements for meetings are now under way in many cities, including Ann Arbor, Berkeley, Chicago, Denver, Des Moines, Houston, Los Angeles, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Salt Lake City, San Francisco, Seattle, Tulsa and Washington.

Alice Cooksey Is Engaged to Mr. Knechtel

Marriage to Geological Survey Worker Set for Autumn.

The engagement of Miss Alice French Cooksey to Mr. Maxwell M. Knechtel was announced yesterday by her sister, Miss Blanche Cooksey.

The marriage, it is said, will take place early in the autumn.

The bride-elect is a descendant of Dr. Gustavus Brown, who attended George Washington in his last illness. Her father was born at historic Rose Hill, now being restored. Her mother, before her marriage, was Miss Rena Price, of Charles County, Md.

Mr. Knechtel, who was born in Canada, is at the present time connected with the Geological Survey, Department of the Interior.

The younger set is very much interested in the announcement of the engagement of Miss Mary McDonnell McElroy, daughter of Mrs. William Henry McElroy, of Rochester, N. Y., and the third secretary of the American Legation at Quito, Ecuador, Mr. Charles Albert Page, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George L. Page, of Boston. Miss McElroy has been a frequent visitor in Washington at the homes of Mrs. Howard McCandlish and Dr. and Mrs. J. Ryan Devereaux. Mr. Page was stationed at the State Department for a number of years.

Capt. and Mrs. Hayne Ellis will return to Washington from Newport early in the fall. Capt. Ellis has been transferred here.

Maj. Herman S. Zorning, U. S. A., and Mrs. Zorning, who have been in Europe all summer, will return to Washington this week. They will have their young sons, John and Kark, with them.

Miss Mary G. Riley, of Washington, who has been traveling in Europe this summer, is now in Marseilles, France.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ewing, jr., are guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ewing at Sorrento, Me.

The United States Consul at Leipzig and Mrs. Ralph Busser and their young son, John Busser, sailed for this country, August 27 from Cherbourg.

Former Katherine Duer Visiting Parents.

Mrs. Ferdinand L. Mayer, wife of the attache of the American Embassy in Brussels, has arrived from Brussels and is with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Duer, in New York. Mrs. Mayer was formerly Miss Katherine Duer. Mr. and Mrs. Duer live in Washington in the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. William F. R. Hitt, who have been in Saratoga for the last month, are now at the Hotel Pierre in New York.

Mrs. Frederick W. English and her daughter, Mrs. English-Gordon, and Miss Beatrice English will return to Philadelphia this week from their cottage at Ventnor, N. J. Mrs. English Gordon will come to Washington the latter part of September for a series of visits.

Miss Ruth Hitchcock, who has spent the last year in Europe, is now on her way to this country and will reopen her home on R street for the winter.

Mrs. Gibson Fahnestock, who has been at her summer home, Harrison House, at Newport since June, will return to Washington in October for the winter. Miss Dorothy Sollers, cousin of Mrs. Fahnestock, will return with her.

Old PoPint Comfort appeared to be a mecca for Washingtonians during the Labor Day vacation. One reason was that relatives and friends of Navy ships stationed in that harbor at present seized the opportunity to visit them.

Among the Washingtonians noted at the Hotel Chamberlain were Lieut. Col. John W. Keveney and Robert K. Hale, Mr. E. W. Weaver, Miss M. J. Moore, Miss Etta Preinkert and the Misses Florena and Lulu Thompson, and Lieut. T. M. Green, of the U. S. S. Salt Lake City, who spent Labor Day there while his ship was anchored in Hampton Roads.

Noted French Group Coming To Yorktown

Marshal Petain to Head Delegation Guest of the Nation.

Historic names are to be seen in the list of French notables who are to visit the Yorktown sesquicentennial celebration, October 15 to 19, as the guests of the United States Government.

Many entertainments have been planned for the delegation, which is to be headed by Marshal Petain. It is most probable that the Frenchmen will come to Washington to pay their respects to President Hoover.

Gen. de Chambrun, descendant of Lafayette; Commander de Rochambeau, Capt. de Beauville and Commander de Lacoste will repr9eent the French army. The navy is sending as its representatives Rear Admiral Descottes-Gnon, Capt. Brohan, Capt. La Croix, Commander Marzin and Lieut. Martinant de Preneuf, while others in the delegation will include Marquis de Grasse, the Marquis de Rochambeau, accompanied by his son, and Gen. d'Ollone and the Duc de Noailles, representing the French Society of the Cincinnati.

The French cruisers Duquesne and Suffren, bringing the delegation, will sail directly for Yorktown on October 4, from Cran, arriving at the Virginia town en fete for the celebration on October 15.

Members of the French delegation will participate in ceremonies and social receptions at Richmond and Washington following the Yorktown fetes, after which they will visit New York, where Marshal Petain will give receptions for the French colony there.

The Ambassador of Turkey, Mr. Ahmet Muhtar entertained at dinner last night at the Annapolis Roads Club.

Minister of Greece and Mme. Simopoulus will entertain at dinner tonight at Cliff Lawn, the summer legation in Newport.

Senator and Mrs. George H. Moses are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Andros Barron at Crawford Notch, N. H.

The Undersecretary of State and Mrs. William R. Castle, jr., were the guests of honor Sunday evening at dinner of Maj. and Mrs. William McKee Dunn, at Hot Springs, Va. Others entertaining at dinner Sunday night at the Homestead were the Assistant Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Arthur A. Ballentine, and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Rhinelander 2d.

The Undersecretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Ogden L. Mills sailed yesterday from Newport on their yacht Avalon for New York. They will return to Washington early in the fall.

The Assistant Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Ernest Lee Jahncke and their family have gone to Hot Springs, Va., for a short stay.

The Military Attache of the Italian Embassy, Lieut. Col. Marco Pennaroli, has returned from Hot Springs, Va., where he spent the week-end.

The Second Secretary of the Spanish Embassy, Senor Don Ramon Padilla y de Satrustegui, returned yesterday from Lenox, Mass.

Mrs. Margaret McChord Boyle and her small daughter, Josephine Boyle, who have been in Gloucester, Mass., have returned to Washington and are with Mrs. Boyle's parents, Judge and Mrs. Charles C. McChord, at the Mayflower. Early in October Mrs. Boyle and her daughter will sail to spend the winter in Paris.

Envoy May's Family Due Here Shortly

Ambassador of Belgium Will Go to New York to Meet Them.

Mr. Paul May, Ambassador of Belgium, will go to New York the latter part of the week to meet Madame May and their three daughters.

They are to arrive in the United States on S. S. Belgenland after passing the summer at their home in Belgium.

The Belgian ambassador has been keeping bachelor's hall at his cottage on the Chesapeake near Annapolis, but has been the recipient of many social attentions from the summer colony outside of Annapolis and also in the quaint city itself.

Among the guests at a dinner party given recently for the Ambassador by Capt. and Mrs. William J. Giles at Annapolis was Mlle. Beatrice de Buisseret, daughter of a former envoy from Belgium to the United States.

Debuchis to Return On September 15.

The Ambassador of Japan and Mme Debuchi will return to Washington, September 15 from Buena Vista Springs where they have been spending the summer.

The Ambassador of Chile, Senor Don Miguel Cruchaga Tocornal, will return tomorrow from Manchester, Mass., where he has been the guest of the Ambassador of Brazil and Senhora e Lima Silva.

Mrs. Harold Walker motored to Washington yesterday from her home, Webley, on the Eastern Shore of Maryland. Mrs. Walker will entertain a house party over the week-end. Miss Evelyn Walker, who is in Bar Harbor, Me., will return to Webley early in October.

What Today Means to You

"VIRGO."

IF September 8 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:15 a. m. to noon, from 4:05 p. m. to 6 p. m., and from 9 p. m. to 10:40 p. m. The danger hours are from 8 a. m. to 9:45 a. m., and from 6:30 p. m. to 8:40 p. m.

According to the planetary aspects of September 8, there is some danger of accidents, especially by mechanical means. Caution, too, is required in business affairs, and speculation and change should be eschewed. Socially and spiritually, the day promises exceptionally well.

Children born on this September 8 will be clever, genial, and intellectual. They will be, as they develop, very attractive to the opposite sex, and this may, and probably will, retard natural progress. They will, before "settling down," experience many "ups and downs."

You, if born on September 8, are self-reliant, and have a strong character. Your will is forceful, but not obstinate. You are not a "know-it-all," and are quite willing to listen to the advice of those who, in your opinion, are in a position to give it. You have no use, however, for the vaporings of those who talk "through their hat." As a rule, you are successful in what you undertake, as industry and perseverance are two of your principal assets. When things do not go well, you rarely try to force the issue, but are quick to "cut your losses."

Your vision is clear and your perceptions keen. At all times, and under all circumstances, you are eminently practical, and never allow "what-might-be" to deflect you from a sure and safe course. Your temperament is happily balanced between intellect on the one hand and emotion on the other. Your life runs in cycles. You will have long stretches of uninterrupted luck, and then others not so good. By biding your time, and playing your hand for all it is worth when luck is with you, and remaining quiescent when you are "out of luck," much material success will crown your efforts.

Your disposition is very affectionate. You have a good sense of humor, and are full of optimism and good spirits. Your married life promises to be happy and unclouded. Successful people born September 8:

Russell Sage, capitalist.
Emilie Poulsson, kindergartner.
William A. Duer, jurist and educator.
Henry Placide, actor.
Reginald Wright Kaufman, author.
Francis Bowen, author and educator.

Indoor—Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

MY climbing roses are covered with mildew. What shall I do?
W. B. C.

Dust with Massey dust, a dust composed of nine parts dusting sulphur and one part lead arsenate.

Please tell me how to make a cutting of a poinsettia.
JAMES McN.

Make cutting 4 inches long, root in sand and when rooted transplant into soil. While it is developing roots keep cutting shaded. It must also be kept moist, but never wet.

Please tell me when to transplant a hydrangea. While it has practically no room for development, it has grown beautifully. It is a pink-flowered variety. Will it harm it to be in a place where it has sun all day? It is now in partial shade.
MRS. JOHN B.

Transplant your hydrangea in the fall or spring. It demands a great deal of sun and during July and August must be watered twice a day.

Under separate cover I am inclosing a twig from a bush a friend gave me. Please name the bush and advise me if it is a blooming variety.
JOHN A. H.

Twig was likely from some wildling. I do not know the plant.

Please tell me why my flowers fail to bloom. Have a well-cultivated garden where plants are given plenty of fertilizer and watered daily. Also have a rock garden and a good pool of lilies and goldfish.
MRS. CHARLES H. C.

As you mention having beautiful foliage at all times, but few, if any, flowers, it may be a case of too much fertilizer. Try giving your garden no fertilizer next year and see if you do not have more flowers.

My junipers and spruce trees are turning rusty. What causes this disease and is there a remedy?
MARIE G. P.

Evergreens that are turning rusty, especially junipers, are, no doubt, infested with red spiders. This mite spins a web at the base of the needles. Red spider can be checked by spraying the branches with a swift stream of water from the hose, but spraying with an oil solution or other proprietary sprays recommended by a reliable dealer will prove more effective.

I have a lilac bush which is fast becoming covered with oyster scale. What can I do to save the bush?
RUTH C. P.

To eliminate oyster scale, spray the entire bush with kerosene emulsion or any of the proprietary solutions recommended by your seedsman. Be sure the spray covers the bark as well as the foliage, for the scale is really on the bark of the shrub.

Do newly set-out roses require fertilizer for the first season?
MADGE B. W.

Yes.

I want to plant a fragrant viburnum. Can you tell me the botanical name of this variety?
JOHN R. P.

Viburnum carlesi is the variety to get, especially if you want it for use in your shrub border.

Has the daphne cneorum, which you mentioned some days ago, a pink flower?
HELEN V. H.

Yes.

F. and M. College Dean Youthful for Position

Lancaster, Pa. (U.P.).—Richard Watson Bomberger, 34, has been named dean of Franklin and Marshall College, one of the youngest men ever assigned to the important position.

Bomberger is a graduate of Franklin and Marshall and of the University of Virginia. He was headmaster of the Donaldson Private School when appointed to his new post.

Youthful Discoverer Of Plants to Study

Lawrence, Kan., (U.P.).—Clyde W. Tombaugh, youth who astounded the scientific world last year when he discovered a new planet, would rather continue his astronomical research than attend college.

Tombaugh announced he will not enroll in the University of Kansas this fall as winner of the Edwin Emery Slosson scholarship, but would continue his compilations regarding the planet, Pluto. He now is working at the Lowell Observatory at Flagstaff, Ariz.

Dare INTERPRETS the MODE

Tucked brown jersey is used for this fall sports frock, interestingly trimmed with tucks and white crepe de chine applique. (Courtesy of Premet, Paris.)

New York, Sept. 7.

HOW do our stage and cinema actresses like the new romantic clothes that prevail in this season of glorious weather and colorful chic?

Well-l-l-l, one famous actress hied herself to Paris the moment she heard of a new and sophisticated movie in which she was to star, and not only did she buy clothes complete for the movie, but she simply couldn't resist the temptation to replenish the rest of her everyday wardrobe as well!

Coming back on a great ocean liner, this actress wore a rust-colored suit with a short, simple coat, and red fox fur collar and cuffs. This collar by the way was the new bateau shape, the kind that stands up and goes away out on either shoulder, thus giving the wider shoulder treatment that's so smart right now. The skirt was 10 inches from the floor—slightly longer, you see, than the usual street length, but still far from "sweeping up the dust of the streets en passant!" The hat worn with this suit was of dark brown grosgrain ribbon—or to be very swanky and highbrow, "petersham" ribbon is the term used by Parisian milliners for our old friend, grosgrain! This hat had a stiffened brim which took the accepted dip down over the right eye, and a simple, bronzy red quill.

And for jewelry, this actress confided to me—gold has come again into its own. Wide bracelets and necklaces are hammered out of dull gold or red gold in a barbarically splendid effect!

• • • •

Take a tuck in your sports things as the weather grows cooler—and add a tremendous amount of smartness! And the more unusual your tucks become the more will your sports clothes be truly chic! In the Premet frock of brown jersey illustrated today, for instance, the bodice is tucked in long stripe-like effect, and the skirt fullness is controlled by four sections of tiny, close tucks stitched down over the hips. 'N' very novel contrast is given by the white crepe de chine application on the bodice and at the cuffs and by the white belt with brown composition buckle!

• • • •

Jersey is one of the leading fall fabrics, and is made fine and soft enough to take readily to hand work. When you buy your woolen clothing, make a point of having it distinguished by tucking or pleating or drawnwork.

• • • •

And oh! these autumn gloves. They were just waiting for sleeves to get plain again before they burst forth! The black suede glove sketched for you today, for instance, has a huge flaring gauntlet cuff cut with a jagged edge embroidered with white dots!

• • • •

The woman who looks like a dream in furs doesn't just happen to get that way, my deahs! She knows her furs, and how and when to wear them. 'N' because she knows what to do with them when they get a bit worn, she saves money enough to buy other pretties for her adornment. And her knowledge is all gathered together and made by me into a leaflet, which is waiting at the Dare department of The Post for your stamped, self-addressed envelope. Better hurry! You can't save dollars and look beautiful every day in the year!

• • • •

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

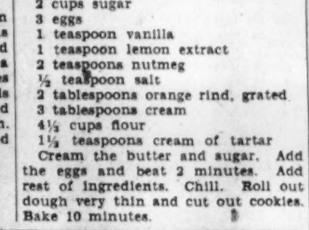
COUNTING THE CONCEALED HANDS.

Some Bridge players are so obsessed with the importance of counting the holding of every player at the table that they waste their own time and that of other players by doing so when the count means nothing.

There are many hands at the Contract table which are described by their players as "pianolas," that is, they play themselves. To count distribution on this type of hand is a waste of effort. However, there are many hands in which it is important to know how the suits are distributed and to so plan the play that this knowledge can be turned into tricks.

Below is given a good illustration of the value of suit placing in its relation to the play of the hand.

South—Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.



The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
2NT(1)	Pass	3NT	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—South's hand does not contain a biddable suit. It has 5 honor-tricks and this fact makes the risk of a pass by partner over a bid of one a very real one. Therefore, the hand justifies opening with a bid of two no-trump.

West was faced with the selection of a lead from a hand full of undesirable leads. Neither the club suit, in which he holds an honor tenace, nor the diamond suit are particularly attractive as an opening lead. However, both the spade and the heart suits do not offer particularly desirable "warning" lead openings as the lead of the Knave in either instance is conventionally considered to indicate the top of a sequence, but even more frequently such combinations as A J 10 or K J 10. Thus situated, West selected for his opening his fourth best diamond. North and East played low and South won with the Queen. South now undertook the development of his longest suit and led a low club to the Ace in Dummy, intending to finesse the Knave on the return.

On the second round of the suit East failed to follow and this located the missing cards of the suit with West. Instead of winning with the King, South played the low card and West was again forced to choose a lead. It was apparent that to lead a diamond would be to present South with a trick, so he was again forced to a choice between hearts and spades. The spade lead appeared dangerous because of the honor showing in the Dummy but actually whether West now leads a heart or a spade is immaterial. West's heart Knave was permitted to hold the trick. This was for the purpose of obtaining a count on the hand. West continued the hearts and South, of course, won.

The next 4 tricks were taken with the Ace of hearts, the Ace and King of spades and the King of clubs and now West was again thrown in the lead with the Knave of clubs. His hand thus stripped of everything but clubs and diamonds, West was compelled to lead a diamond to South's Ace Queen.

Played in this accurate manner South made three diamonds, two clubs, two hearts and two spades. Any other method of play would have resulted in a defeated contract.

TODAY'S POINTER.

In selecting a lead against a no-trump bid and holding a hand powerful in attack, lead from the suit in which most tricks can be established with the fewest reentries. It is usually the longest suit and either an honor or length lead is used, depending on the structure of the suit. When choosing between your own and your partner's suit, always consider the partnership hands as a unit and select the suit which offers the best chance for establishment and reentries.

AN UNUSUAL RECORD.

A most unusual record in Duplicate Contract Bridge was made by David Burnstine, of New York, who was a contestant in all five of the major events at the summer congress of the American Bridge League at Asbury Park in late July. In only one of these events did he fail to finish as high as second, that being the Mixed Pair contest for the cup given by Mrs. Olga J. Hilliard.

His record was:

Mixed team of four—Tied for first.
New Jersey State pair championship—Won with Waldemar von Zedtwitz as partner.
Masters' pair contest—Won with Howard Schenken as partner.
Challenge trophy for teams of four—Won with Willard Karn, Oswald Jacoby and P. H. Sims as teammates.

Mr. Burnstine in all of these contests played the Forcing System of bidding. He is a player of marked ability and his skill is sufficiently attested by his winning record with many different partners. Of course, his partners also were players of skill and in no way is this meant to detract from giving them their share of the credit for the joint victories.

SAFETY PLAYS.

A safety play is any play which is calculated not to lose more than a certain number of tricks. In general it gives up all or the best chance for the maximum: For instance, if the Declarer can afford to lose 1 trump trick and still make his contract there are a number of cases where he practically concedes this 1 trick in order to gain an additional insurance against losing 2 tricks. One of the most common cases in point is the following: Declarer holds A Q 10 x x x, Dummy x x x; the safety play consists of leading the Ace from the Declarer's hand and subsequently low from Dummy. This will not lose more than 1 trick unless the K J x or K J x x is to the left of the Declarer, in which case no play will succeed, but will eliminate a difficult guess should the holding be K J alone or the singleton King. Here are two other examples:

1—Declarer holds A 10 8 x x, Dummy K x x. Lead the King from Dummy, then low, finessing the 10 if Second Hand again plays low. This play loses 2 tricks only against Q J x x to the left of Declarer, which is unavoidable.

2—Declarer holds K 9 x x x, Dummy A J x. Lead the Ace from Dummy and subsequently a low card from the Declarer's hand up to Dummy's Knave. This play will lose 2 tricks against five trumps in one hand only.

It should be of interest to the average player to study the above plays and note how, if used regularly, they will save the loss of many games generally ascribed to "tough luck."

Punch Sugar Cookies
Salted Nuts

Jellied Shrimp Salad.

2 packages lemon flavored gelatin mixture
3½ cups boiling water
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups shrimps
2 cups finely chopped celery
⅓ cup chopped sweet pickles
⅓ cup chopped pimento stuffed olives
1½ cups mayonnaise

Pour the water over the gelatin mixture and stir until the gelatin has dissolved. Add the lemon juice and salt. Cool and allow to thicken a little. Add the shrimps, celery, pickles and olives. Pour into individual molds which have been rinsed out of cold water. Set in cold place to stiffen. Unmold in cups of crisp lettuce and top with the mayonnaise.

California Sandwiches.

4 cups of flour
2 cups of Graham flour
1⅓ cups sugar
6 teaspoons baking powder
1½ teaspoons salt
1 cup pecans
⅔ cup chopped dates
3 cups milk
⅔ cup white cream cheese
⅓ cup butter

Mix the flours, sugar, baking powder, salt, pecans, dates and milk. Mix well and pour into 2 loaf pans which have been lined with waxed paper. Let rise 15 minutes and bake 50 minutes in moderately slow oven. Cool. Cut in very thin slices and spread with cheese and butter which have been mixed. Serve in sandwiches.

Sugar Cookies.

1 cup butter
2 cups sugar
3 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon lemon extract
2 teaspoons nutmeg
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons orange rind, grated
3 tablespoons cream
4½ cups flour
1½ teaspoons cream of tartar

Cream the butter and sugar. Add the eggs and beat 2 minutes. Chill. Roll out dough very thin and cut out cookies. Bake 10 minutes.

KING GEORGE REDUCES COST OF HOUSEHOLD TO AID NATION

the sovereigns and the honor and dignity of the crown.

The Prince of Wales, heir to the throne, will follow the example of his father by contributing $49,000 annually to the exchequer. The contribution will come out of the funds the prince receives from the Duchy of Cornwall.

The sacrifices to be made by the royal family as long as the financial emergency exists will be greater than those forced on many of their subjects. In the past the civil list has been severely taxed to meet the required expenses of the rulers.

Ten years ago the expenses of the king and queen were reduced to a minimum by the late Lord Farquhar and Sir Ralph Harewood, who were estimated to have saved the royal purse some $50,000 annually. Since that time the king has frequently drawn on his private resources.

Despite the increased cost of living, the civil list has not been increased since 1901, when King Edward VII ascended the throne.

Under the present plans for reductions by the king, the civil list will be the same as granted to Queen Victoria in 1837. This amount was increased in 1901, when Edward VII ascended the throne, the addition of $242,000 annually being a provision for the queen consort. It was unchanged when George V was crowned in 1910.

The civil list dates from the time of William and Mary, in 1689, when Parliament decided to separate the expenses of the king's household from the other expenses of the government. Previously the monarch had been able to acquire a large fortune, sometimes used for bribery, because there was no definite check on the sums expended on royalty as separate from regular government expenditures.

Queen Victoria undertook voluntarily to pay income taxes in 1842, and the practice was continued by King Edward, but King George dropped the practice through an agreement to place the cost of state visits by foreign royalties on the civil list. Such visits previously had been defrayed from public funds. During the war, however, the king made a gift of $500,000 toward the cost of Britain's military campaign. In addition to the civil list, the king receives some revenue from the Duchy of Lancaster.

The Prince of Wales' chief income is from Cornwall he is Duke of Cornwall), and other members of the royal family receive annuities from funds outside the civil list.

The king's household budget is divided as follows:

Privy purse, £110,000 (about $550,000); salaries and retired allowances of household, £125,800; expenses of household, £193,000; works, £20,000; royal bounty and special service, £13,200; unappropriated, £8,000.

The total is one of the smallest granted to any ruler of a world power.

Northwestern States Simmer in Sun's Rays

St. Paul, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Midsummer heat returned to the Northwestern States today, with temperatures in Minnesota and the Dakotas soaring past the 100 mark.

Bismark, N. Dak., recorded a maximum of 104. In Minnesota, Moorhead reported 102 and Pipestone 101. At Duluth, on Lake Superior, it was only 66.

3 Billion in Property Due for Chicago Taxes

Chicago, Sept. (U.P.).—The Cook County treasurer's office announced today that more than $3,000,000,000 worth of real estate will be placed on the books for sale this week because of nonpayment of 1929 taxes. This property includes one-third of the real estate in the county and is owned by 396,524 individuals. The tax was due last May 15.

Jap Beetles Threaten Princeton Primroses

Princeton, N. J. (U.P.).—Invasion by Japanese beetles this year is seriously endangering Princeton University's most expensive single scientific experiment, consisting of 30,000 evening primrose plants used in proving that evolution proceeds by sudden and not gradual processes.

The plants which cover several acres of ground include 410 invaluable pedigree families of the flower and 400 to 500 distinct types, some of which are related to plants developed by Devries, famous Dutch botanist, in 1887, according to Dr. George H. Shull, professor of genetics and botany.

Forest Rangers Hunt Pet Python in Woods

Waynesboro, Pa., (U.P.).—Forest rangers sought a snake estimated variously to be from seven to 12 feet long in the woods near here.

The snake, many feet larger than any ever seen in Pennsylvania woods before, is believed to be a python which escaped from a home at Pen-Mar, Md., where it was kept as a pet.

The rangers believed that the snake would not survive the temperate zone this winter if not captured.

HUGH REID DEFENDS NEW ARLINGTON ACT

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Hugh Reid, member of the House of Delegates from Arlington County, patron of the bill which made possible the change in the form of local county government which becomes effective January 1, 1932, declared in a statement issued yesterday that the new form of government is constitutional, and that the electoral board acted properly in refusing to place upon the ballot the names of all persons who filed as candidates for offices under the old form of government.

In an effort to set right the public misapprehension of the county manager plan that followed the announcement the past week by Capt. Crandal Mackey, former Commonwealth attorney, that he would seek to have the new form of government set aside by the courts on the grounds that it was unconstitutional, Mr. Reid stated that elaborate precautions were taken to guard against any unconstitutionality when the bill was being prepared.

"It is the claim of Mr. Mackey that the new form of government is not constitutional because it calls for the abolishment of the three magisterial districts.

"Mr. Reid asserted that allegations that the bill is also unconstitutional because it was a special act are unfounded. It is not a special act, but a part of the Virginia Code, he said.

"In conclusion, Mr. Reid said, "I hope the people of Arlington County will have confidence in our new form of government. It is in line with the best thought of municipal experts throughout the country."

Transferred From Jail, Convict Flees Hospital

Clarence French, colored, of the 1700 block, U street northwest, Washington, who was jailed in Alexandria on August 27, to serve a six months' sentence, with a fine of $500 and costs on a prohibition charge, Sunday claimed to be suffering from an acute attack of appendicitis, and after ice packs were used at the jail, he was taken to the Alexandria Hospital.

When the patient was left alone a few minutes while waiting for a surgeon, he evidently had a quick recovery, for he escaped, and has not been located.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Sept. 7.—Holdup men stole $363 at the Standard Oil gasoline station on Green street early today. When Shewell R. Triplett, attendant, started to open up for the day, two roughly dressed men, who had been waiting on the curb with a car, followed him into the office, and one covered Triplett with a revolver, forcing him to open the safe, while the other stood guard.

Several suspects taken into custody did not answer the description.

Britain Will Not Lift Duty on U. S. Tobacco

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Sept. 7.—A. B. Carrington, president of the Tobacco Association of the United States, was informed today by agents in London that the coalition government's emergency budget, to be presented tomorrow, will not lift the present import duty on American tobacco, which stands at $2.16 per pound.

Southern tobacco concerns with British affiliations have been anxious during recent weeks over the prospect of an increased tariff, saying it would be detrimental to the American export trade at the outset of a new selling season in tobacco belts where large purchases are made for British trade.

Hoover Discusses Progress of Relief

Luray, Va., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—President Hoover partly observed Labor Day today by discussing with a former Cabinet member the problem of America's unemployed.

James R. Garfield, of Cleveland, former Secretary of the Interior and now a member of the relief committee headed by Walter S. Gifford, conferred with the President. Otherwise Labor Day brought a complete surcease of the duties and activities of the presidential office.

Early in the day Mr. Hoover rode horseback along the forest trails of the Blue Ridge. Returning to the camp, he devoted other portions of the day to resting, reading and chatting with other guests. He plans to return to Washington early tomorrow.

METHODISTS GATHER IN ANNANDALE TODAY

Fourth Quarterly Meeting Slated; Fairfax Also to Act as Host.

The fourth quarterly conference of the East Fairfax circuit of the Southern Methodist churches, which includes churches at Annandale, Ilda, Accotink, Sydenstricker, Franconia and Lincolnia, will be held this afternoon at Annandale, Va.

This evening the quarterly conference of the Fairfax circuit will be held in the parsonage of the Southern Methodist Church at Fairfax, Va. This circuit includes churches at Fairfax, Pender, Centerville and Andrew Chapel. The Rev. E. V. Regester, elder, of Alexandria, will preside at both conferences. It is expected that these conferences will be the last conducted by Mr. Regester. It is believed he will be transferred to another field by the Baltimore conference, which meets this month at Roanoke, Va.

Mr. Regester has been in the Alexandria district for the past sixteen years, serving first as pastor of the church there for nine years. Later he became presiding elder of the district. His allotted term of seven years in the Alexandria district will be completed this fall and the transfer is mandatory.

2,000 March in Parade Of Klan at Hopewell

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., Sept. 7.—Labor Day was observed in Petersburg by the closing of the banks and different government offices. Business was practically suspended and the city presented a deserted appearance. It was a big day in Hopewell, where there was a parade of 2,000 Klansmen in costume.

Church Near Ivy Depot Dedicated

Ordination of Two Priests Celebrated at Same Services.

Charlottesville, Va., Sept. 7.—The services at the consecration of the new church for St. John the Baptist in Ivy Parish, near Ivy Depot, were marked by the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the ordination to the priesthood of the Rev. Frederick W. Neve, Archdeacon of the Blue Ridge, and the founder of the mountain work in the Diocese of Virginia, and the ordination to the priesthood of the Rev. Dewey Campbell Loving, a son of the parish.

The service began with the consecration of the church by the Right Rev. F. D. Goodwin, bishopadjutor of the diocese, the sentence of consecration being read by Archdeacon Neve and the sermon preached by the Rev. George P. Mayo, principal of the Blue Ridge Industrial School.

The new building is of native stone quarried by a group of mountain men who have in recent years erected stone church buildings in a number of the mountain mission fields. The church was built in memory of Miss Mary Lee Fleming by her sister-in-law, Miss Margaret Fleming, of California.

CAPITAL MAN FINED AFTER POLICE CHASE

Heaviest Sentence Given in Fairfax County Drawn by Reckless Driver.

The heaviest sentence ever imposed for a traffic law violation in Fairfax County, Va., was meted out yesterday to Franklin Harris, of 221 N street northwest, Washington, by Justice of the Peace A. C. Ritchie, of Fairfax.

Harris was arrested Saturday night by Capt. Heywood J. Durrer, of the county traffic police, after a chase of more than ten miles in and out of the heavy traffic on the Lee Highway, between Fairfax and Centerville. According to the police, a large number of cars were forced from the highway by the fleeing car. The chase ended suddenly near Centerville when the car of Harris, swaying from side to side of the road, left the highway, ran down an embankment and turned over twice, coming to rest on its top. Police rushed down, expecting to find the man dead, but were surprised when he came crawling out without a scratch. A small quantity of alleged liquor was found in the wrecked machine.

After hearing the evidence and details of the flight Justice Ritchie imposed a fine of $100 and costs, and three months in jail, on charges of reckless driving.

Associations of McLean Meet This Afternoon

The Community Library Association of McLean, Va., will meet this afternoon in the library building to make plans for fall activities. The program committee will include Mrs. I. B. Faidley, Mrs. Harry Abell and Mrs. Bruno H. Wittig.

Following the library meeting Mrs. W. P. Davis, president of the Parent-Teacher Association of McLean, has called a meeting of the executive committee of the Parent-Teacher Association to discuss plans for the fall.

Funeral Services Held For John S. Black, 84

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Sept. 7.—Funeral rites for John S. Black, who died at University Hospital after a long illness, were held this afternoon at Cunningham Church, in Fluvanna County, with interment in the church graveyard.

Mr. Black was a native of Fluvanna County and was 84 years of age. He had made his home in Charlottesville for the past ten years. He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. W. R. Harlow, of this city, and Mrs. George Parrish, of Palmyra, Va., and one brother, T. C. Black, of Low Moor, Va.

GEORGE S. FINCH RITES.

Retired Merchant of Alexandria to Be Buried Tomorrow.

George S. Finch died on Sunday night at his home, 317 Queen street, Alexandria, and the funeral will be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the home, conducted by the Rev. Percy Foster Hall, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church. Burial will be in Union Cemetery. Mr. Finch was a retired merchant, and a member of Potomac Lodge No. 38, and Marley Encampment No. 1, Odd Fellows.

MRS. FELTNER'S FUNERAL.

Rites Will Be Held at Sunset Hills Tomorrow Afternoon.

Funeral services for Mrs. Hattie Bell Sherwood Feltner, wife of Charles Feltner, of Sunset Hills, Va., will be held tomorrow afternoon in the Weihle Methodist Church at Sunset Hills. Interment will be in the Chestnut Grove Cemetery at Herndon, Va.

Mrs. Feltner died at her home Sunday following an illness for more than three months. She is survived by her husband and five children, Sherwood, Edmund, Robert, Elizabeth and David Feltner.

Virginia Forestry Report Nearly Ready.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—C. H. Morrissett, chairman of a commission created by the last General Assembly to study forestry conditions in Virginia, said today that he expects to have the report of the commission ready to submit to the governor by October 1. Among the principal matters considered has been taxation on forest lands.

Alexandria Homes Robbed; Police Follow Cold Trails

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The week-end brought reports of several small robberies, and the Alexandria police have been busy attempting to find clues in cold trails, as the robberies were not discovered immediately after their occurrence.

Cary L. Thorogood, 424 North Payne street, reported his home entered last Thursday and articles valued at $65 taken. They included a lady's gold watch, gold ring and book of stamps.

William H. Meeks reported that his office on the second floor of 518 King street had been entered and a typewriter valued at $70 taken. The office door had been forced.

Policeman Hicks found the hasp broken from a door of the Hoge Grain and Feed Co. plant early yesterday morning, although no report of anything missing has been made.

W. H. Tripp, 825 North Washington street, states his place has been entered and two cartons of cigarettes and other articles of small value taken.

Clothing valued at $65, reported to be the property of Mrs. Sylvia McLenzie, 1364 Fairmount street northwest, Washington, was stolen from 400 East Bellefonte avenue on Sunday.

Gus Kyriacos, 103 North Royal street, reported yesterday that $26 has been stolen from his place. Willie Smith, 427 North Henry street, has reported the theft of clothing valued at $25, while G. P. Morris, 1017 Randolph avenue, has reported the theft of six Rhode Island Red and four white Leghorn chickens.

J. O. Hutchinson, 201 West Peyton avenue, has reported that two attempts have been made to force entry into his home in the past week.

Barn Near Hyattstown Burns With $8,000 Loss

Hyattstown, Md., Volunteer Firemen battled into early yesterday morning to save the dwellings and other outbuildings at the Burgee brothers farm, about 1 mile north of Hyattstown, but were unable to save a barn packed with wheat and hay and equipment. The loss was estimated at approximately $8,000.

The fire was discovered about 11:30 o'clock Sunday night and the fire department was called. The barn was too far gone for the firemen to do anything more than keep the fire from spreading to other buildings. A thrashing machine valued at more than $2,000 was included in the loss. The cause of the fire was unknown. The loss is covered by insurance except for the thrashing machines.

Fairfax Chamber to Meet.

The Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce will meet this evening in the auditorium of the schoolhouse at Baileys Cross Roads, Va. Final arrangements will be made for the chamber's participation in the county fair which will open tomorrow at Fairfax.

Woman and Brother Hurt in Car Collision

Miss Ruth London, 23 years old, and her brother, Max London, 25 years old, 338 East Windsor avnue, Alexandria, were taken to the Alexandria Hospital last night and treated by Dr. M. D. Delaney. Miss London for a fractured leg and cuts about the body, and her brother for minor injuries.

They had been driving toward Winchester, Va., and near Fairfax had collided with a car containing four colored men. The men were arrested by Fairfax authorities.

Clear Skin—

rich, red blood cells will help you . . . .

"I WAS determined to have a clear skin."

"Some one told me of S.S.S. . . . now I am so glad the last pimple is gone."

Whenever bad complexion or blemishes on the skin are due to a low blood count, or to a lagging appetite, the condition can be relieved or benefited by a course of S.S.S.

If you are pale, or languid, give S.S.S. a trial. It may help you as it has helped thousands of others.

Its successful record of over 100 years in restoring strength and vitality to the blood surely warrants your giving it a good trial.

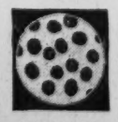
Builds Sturdy Health

Why you should be interested in your Blood Count



(Left) Microscopic view of healthy red-blood-cells. The blood stream should contain about 5,000,000 of these cells to the cubic millimetet. They carry nourishment and oxygen to every part of the body—they also remove impurities from the tissues.

(Right) Weak red-blood-cells—only 60 per cent of normal strength—they lack the power to resist infection and disease or to rebuild flesh and to carry away the impurities. Such a condition is often responsible for body weakness, paleness, sallow complexion, pimples and boils.

Don't let them count you out!

Save your VALVES with Amoco-Gas

AMOCO-GAS gives complete combustion with an absence of hard carbon and greatly reduces the pitting and clogging of valves.

Valves are the lungs of your motor--through them it "breathes." The slightest stoppage will choke and stifle your motor--cause waste and reduce efficiency.

Your valves are carefully adjusted to a fraction of an inch--the slightest amount of pitting or carbon will reduce valve clearance, cause improper intake and exhaust, increase fuel consumption and reduce power.

CREDIT CHIEF SEES BUSINESS UPTURN

Improvement Expected After Autumn Trade Opens Up; Textiles Active.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

In a message to the Washington Association of Credit Men, Dr. Stephen I. Miller, executive manager of the National Association of Credit Men, in a review of business, expresses the opinion that it has passed its usual midsummer lull and within the next few weeks should begin to get some benefit from seasonal activity.

Although production in general is still at low levels, particularly in the steel and motor industries, the credit chief notes favorable improvements in textiles and shoe manufacture, with these industries showing improved schedules and going into the autumn period under fair headway.

"The leading busines indices show no signs of recovery thus far," the report continues. "Car loadings are still about 175,000 under a year ago and the commodity price index stands at about 69 for the United States and 63 for England, figured on a basis of the 1926 equal to 100."

Retail Business Spotty.

Dr. Miller finds retail distribution to be spotty—Chicago, Richmond and Atlanta showing the best sales. Wholesalers throughout the country report orders in fair number, but for small unit quantities. Hand-to-mouth buying still persists, is the comment of the review.

Encouraging factors are the renewed attempts of the copper producers to get together for a curb of production; the favorable reception by oil men of the Texas oil and gas conservation legislation and progress made toward stabilization in Germany that other European countries, Dr. Miller reports.

Included in the review is a special survey of Midwestern States covering sales, collection and failure conditions. Of the States surveyed, Illinois and Michigan are the most cheerful; Indiana and Wisconsin look for improvement because of present low inventories; Ohio expects better conditions in the Cleveland area when steel begins to come back, while Minnesota and Missouri are the least optimistic in regard to general business conditions.

Tight on Loans.

From all of these States comes the complaint that the banks are too tight on commercial loans. Other unfavorable factors are increased unemployment in certain sections and low prices for farm products.

Higher Federal taxes are the inevitable price the United States must pay if it is to lead the way to world recovery, it was declared by John Moody, president of Moody's Investors Service, in a statement issued yesterday.

No solid basis for enduring prosperity can be built without relieving the burden of intergovernmental debts and excessive tariffs, Mr. Moody believes, and he places the responsibility for such action primarily upon the United States because of our position as the largest creditor nation and because we possess the greatest single market for commodities and service in the world.

Temporary Sacrifice Involved.

These essential steps, the financier asserts, will involve at least a temporary sacrifice which must be paid for in part with increased Federal revenues from taxation, but which will reap their reward in improved conditions both in this country and abroad.

M. Maurice Boyer, vice director of the Banque de Paris et des Pays-Bas, has just been promoted to the rank of officer of the Legion of Honor by the French Government. M. Boyer was a member of the French High Commission in Washington during the war, and since then has made numerous trips to the United States on behalf of his bank. He has a wide acquaintance in American banking circles. Mme. Boyer is an American, formerly Miss Katherine Hill.

National Shirt Shops, Inc., reports total sales of $289,020 for August 1931, against $474,870 for August 1930, a decrease of 39.14 per cent. Sales for the eight months ended August 31, 1931, totaled $2,366,505 against $2,735,368 reported for the same period last year, a decrease of 13.48 per cent.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Activity will be resumed tomorrow in the financial district after a three-day holiday over Labor Day.

A committee to represent holders of first and refunding mortgage 5 per cent gold bonds, series "A," of the Florida East Coast Railway Co., has sent out a letter to bondholders requesting deposit of the bonds with J. P. Morgan Co., as depositary. The railroad defaulted in interest payments on the bonds September 1, and receivers were appointed for the property of the company. The committee's letter said it expected to make application for listing of the certificates of deposit for the bonds on the New York Stock Exchange.

Eighteen ships with cargoes of raw silk will dock at West Coast ports during October, the traffic bureau of the Silk Association of America reports. Five ships will dock at Vancouver, two at Seattle, eight at San Francisco, and three at Los Angeles.

Holders of first mortgage 5 per cent bonds dated September 1, 1911, of Northwestern Elevated Railroad Co., have been notified that the Central Hanover Bank & Trust Co. will receive sealed proposals for the sale to it of these bonds at a rate not to exceed 102 per cent and accrued interest, the total offer not to consume more than $198,913.99.

Wertheim & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, tomorrow will open a branch office in Amsterdam, Holland, under the direction of Walter H. Laband, a partner in the firm.

James M. Skinner, president of Philco, said the company is producing more than 7,500 radio sets a day, which is more than double the production a year ago at this time. Employment at the Philco plant, he said, rose during the last four weeks from 4,019 workers to 5,200.

Former Munsey Editor Dies of Heart Attack

Chappaqua, N. Y., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—William MacMahon, former editor of Munsey's Magazine and for many years an Associated Press editor in New York, died last night of heart attack.

Mr. MacMahon, a widely known writer of short stories, was 54 years old. His daughter is Aline MacMahon, Broadway actress and screen star, the wife of Clarence Stein, an architect. His widow also survives. Burial will be here tomorrow.

'WIDOW' OF 'CORPSE' ADMITS FRAUD PLOT

She and Husband Planned to Collect $60,000 Insurance, Iowa Woman Says.

Perry, Iowa, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Mrs. John M. Smith, wife of an insecticide manufacturer who was once a Farmer-Labor candidate for the governorship of Iowa was in custody tonight after officers announced she had given a signed statement saying her husband's disappearance last February was part of a plot to collect $60,000 life insurance.

In an affidavit, made public in part by County Attorney George Sackett, Mrs. Smith cleared up several angles of the involved case, which State agents said included a hunt for Smith in several States, a bigamous marriage to Pauline Shaw, 18, in Elgin, Kans., March 11, and a narrow escape from deputies when he sought to see Mrs. Smith near here late in March.

Mrs. Smith did not mention, however, the identity of the charred corpse found in a burned truck and which was buried as Smith's and later, when insurance companies obtained an exhumation order, proved to be another's.

Mrs. Smith's statement said that she "was to collect the insurance or accept it when the insurance company paid it to me and then meet John when he got into communication with me, which might be from one to two years."

The statement then told of their only meeting between the disappearance and July 3, when Smith was brought from the Clarinda Insane Hospital, where he had been committed June 30. He had been found near a Garner, Iowa, roadside, bound with wire June 23. In response to a note the wife drove to Fremont, Nebr., on June 19, with her son, the statement said, and spent the afternoon with her husband.

Smith tonight remained in the county jail in Adel. Mrs. Smith was in Des Moines in the custody of State agents.

Mrs. Smith's statement followed several hours of questioning by Sackett, and after Mrs. Smith had talked to Miss Shaw.

County Attorney Sackett said tonight the grand jury hearing will probably be conducted some time this week and that Smith previously had promised "to tell all to the grand jury."

Quetta, Baluchistan, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Baluchistan was shaken again during the night by two severe earth shocks and thousands of residents in this city are leaving by train and automobile.

Aid Accuses Heads Of Bond Company

Woman Swears False Financial Reports Circulated.

Asheville, N. C., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Testimony that every financial statement issued by the Central Securities Co. of Asheville, Inc., carried figures making the company appear in better condition than was actually shown by its books, was given today in the trial of two of the officers on charges of using the mails to defraud.

Miss Ruth Brown, bookkeeper of the company, said she warned William D. Harris, vice president, against signing what she testified were false statements. Harris told her, she said, that he was "doing all that under instructions from higher up."

The reference, Miss Brown said, was apparently to Wallace B. Davis, president, who is on trial with Harris.

Davis and Harris are alleged to have conspired to use the mails to defraud and to have sold $3,600,000 in bonds to purchasers in fourteen States.

Universal Draft Urged By Former Legion Head

Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Universal service, whereby every citizen and his property would bear a proportionate burden of war, was advocated as the best means to promote peace in an address here today by O. L. Bodenhamer, past national commander of the American Legion, at the annual convention of Tennessee Legionnaires.

Archibald Fiske Dies Abroad.

HOOVER MAY SELECT BUTLER AS MANAGER

Coolidge's 1924 Chairman Mentioned for Same Post in Next Campaign.

Boston, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The Boston Post says that former United States Senator William M. Butler, of Massachusetts, has been approached by close friends of President Hoover regarding the chairmanship of the Republican national committee during the 1932 campaign. Butler was chairman of the national committee during the administration of Calvin Coolidge, whose campaign he directed.

The Post says that former Senator Butler recently passed a week-end at the Rapidan camp and engaged in discussion of the national political situation. No definite tender of the chairmanship was made at the time, but afterward a representative of the President discussed with Butler the possibility of his taking that position, the paper says.

Butler, it was reported, recommended the selection of Charles D. Hilles, of New York.

The Post says that significance was attached to the move to enlist Butler because of the sentiment in favor of drafting Coolidge for President. While the Hoover leaders pretend they are not alarmed over the talk for Coolidge, the paper continues, the fact is, nevertheless, that it is the one subject monopolizing the attention of the inner councils of the party. Selection of Butler as chairman of the national committee would serve, the Post says, to discount the talk of Coolidge.

Vineyard Haven, Mass., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Former United States Senator William M. Butler declined tonight to make any comment on the published report that he had been approached by close friends of President Hoover regarding the chairmanship of the Republican national committee during 1932. He indicated he might make a statement tomorrow.

CHILEAN LOYALISTS CRUSH NAVY REVOLT

a favorable position since last night, although the rebels at Coquimbo still held possession of the Latorre, the cruiser O'Higgins, the destroyers Riquelme, Hyatt, Williams, Lynch, Serrano, Videla, Thompson and Orella, six submarines and the tender Araucano at Coquimbo. The cruiser Blanco Encalada, held by rebels off Talcahuano, could not move because of boiler trouble. The destroyer Riveros was taken by loyalists in the successful federal attack on the Talcahuano naval base. The battleship Prat and the destroyer Condell had surrendered to loyalists at Talcahuano. The submarine H-4 docked and surrendered at Coquimbo, as did two other submarines.

Rebels' Resistance Feeble.

An official bulletin issued earlier today said the resistance of the rebels was disappearing because they feared another air attack and that the fleet had steamed out to sea from Coquimbo Bay after the destroyers Aldea, Riqueleme, Orella, Hyatt and Videla had surrendered unconditionally.

The prefect of Carabineers at Concepcion reported that the army troops there had captured the island of Quriquina, near Talcuahuano, which was the last rebel stronghold along the coast.

Several war vessels fired salutes as a signal of acceptance of government authority at Valparaiso and one unidentified vessel in the hands of the rebels, which had undergone a severe bombardment by loyalist airplanes, ran up a white flag.

The government announced that the entire air force was prepared to renew the attack if the rebels failed to complete their surrender.

'Good Government' Is Urged by Murray

Says Return Is Necessary, Even at Risk of Wrecking Both Parties.

Chicago, Sept. 7 (U.P.).—The return of "good government," even at the risk of destroying both political parties, is a prime necessity in the United States, Gov. William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray of Oklahoma told 25,000 citizens in a Labor Day address at Soldier Field today.

"You'll never find good times just around the corner while the present influences are strong in our Government," he said. "As sure as it rains, conditions will get worse unless the Government is returned to the doctrines of our fathers. If we do not return to constitutional government, a revolution is certain.

"Let's bring back good government, even if we have to destroy both political parties. What we need worst is a new banking system. Our financial troubles were culminated in 1920 when credit was cut off from the farmers and used only on the stock exchange, that great gambling den in New York."

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

IT WOULD be difficult to hit upon a surer incentive to theater attendance, or a more efficacious means of offering the "Save Our Stage" movement tangible aid, than the action that has been taken by the management of the National Theater in the matter of admission charges.

A bulletin from the office of Mr. Stephen E. Cochran, managerial factotum of the Rapley-Erlanger interests in the Capital, conveys the heartening intelligence that the E street temple of the arts during the coming season will offer its attractions, insofar as is possible, at bargain prices to its matinee patrons.

For the first three weeks of the season, which will begin with the first performance on any stage of Myron C. Fagan's new comedy, "Peter Flies High," starring Glenn Hunter, next Monday evening, the definite pledge is made that the best seats at Wednesday matinees will be no more than $1, while the Saturday matinees will be scaled at $1.50 top. These inaugural bookings, in addition to Mr. Hunter in "Peter Flies High," include Basil Sidney and Mary Ellis in "Cherries Are Ripe," the John Emerson and Anita Loos comedy, in which Rod La Rocque and Vilma Banky once before were scheduled to appear here, and Madge Kennedy and Otto Kruger in the first company of Noel Coward's "Private Lives."

In the light of boom time tariffs that have heretofore prevailed in Washington for the better attractions of the theater, this innovation should provide an impetus to matinee attendance from which an increased rather than diminished revenue should accrue.

Sort of a "save the dollars and the pennies will take care of themselves" idea—or something.

It may be of interest in passing, now that you will be buying tickets from them again, that the box-office staff at the National this year will remain the same as last.

Russell Thomas and Percy Booth again will handle the public's wants at the wickets, while Miss Kathryn Armstrong will once more be in charge of the telephone switchboard. Incidentally, the National is one theater that can always be reached by 'phone—well, almost always. There are two operators on duty from 9 a. m. to 9:30 p. m., with two direct lines constantly at your service. These, in case you have forgotten, are National 0501 and 0502.

'Scuse it, pleeze!

Colby Harriman, managing director of the Loew interests in the National Capital, vice M. J. Cullen, recently transferred to Pittsburgh, with characteristic foresight and acumen slipped a fast one over yesterday in the matter of the firemen's parade.

Anticipating the unusual local interest that would attach to the most elaborate Labor Day demonstration the smoke eaters ever have staged, and the presence in the city of a huge number of out-of-town visitors, Mr. Harriman scurried around and got himself a cameraman to make his own motion picture record of the goings-on up and down the avenue. This several hundred feet of film—almost a full reel, as a matter of fact—was rushed through a local laboratory, printed and delivered at the Palace Theater in time to be incorporated in the regular newsreel at the first evening performance.

And did it get a hand!

Leon Brusiloff, one of the most popular conductors that ever swished a baton, over a Washington orchestra, terminated an honorable career of fourteen years of uninterrupted service in F street's cathedrals of the cinema on last Sunday night, when his contract with the Fox Theater expired. He is already established in his own music bureau, specializing in radio programs and commercial broadcasts, which of late weeks has grown rapidly under his personal guidance.

For ten years Mr. Brusiloff was conductor at Loew's Columbia Theater, relinquishing that post to take the assistant conductorship at the Fox, in association with Adolph Kornspan, when that palatial example of modern theatercraft was thrown open four years ago this month with a Roxy presentation and a 50-piece orchestra. He later succeeded to the conductor's stand.

Throughout this extended period of service, Mr. Brusiloff demonstrated a thorough appreciation of the musical classics as well as a facile regard for the popular qualities of the ultra-modern syncopations and peculiar broken rhythms of present-day jazz. His catholicity of taste and the breadth of his interpretative ability made him popular with all classes and all ages.

Mr. Brusiloff's retirement from the motion picture field marks the passing of the last of the old directors, whose synchronized picture scores did so much to enhance the effectiveness of the silent screen subjects, as well as to cultivate a mass taste for good music.

They performed a valuable cultural service—the Mirskeys, the Brusiloffs, the Breeskins, the Rommels and the rest—that the sound screen, so far, has not succeeded in even remotely approximating.

Whoever named it "Labor Day," knew something—no fooling!

GAYETY

"VAMPS OF 1931." Columbia Burlesque Circuit attraction, starring Sam Gaynor, supported by Frank Mallahan, Ray Parsons, Gertrude Reed, Rae Reed and Dolores Greene. Season's premiere.

After three "tune-up" performances beginning with the Sunday matinee—with eliminations here, smoothing out there and building up some place else—Sam Gaynor and his "Vamps of 1931," the new season's inaugural attraction at Mr. Jimmy Lake's Gayety Theater, last night gave a fast-moving and virtually letter-perfect performance that rocked the capacity holiday house with laughter when it was not swaying them with its syncopated rhythms and flaming torch songs.

Since week-end crowds have consistently voiced their approval of this offering, and it is constantly improving as the process of tightening up progresses, future audiences are assured of a burlesque performance of midseason merit.

Sam Raynor is a comedian of high repute on the Columbia wheel and in his new show is at the top of his form, save, possibly, for an occasional slip of the tongue that might jar slightly on the sensibilities of feminine patrons. Frank Mallahan and Ray Parsons, his associate comics, insure the hilarity of the numerous comedy interludes with which the action is peppered.

Two redheads and a blonde add personality and pulchritude to the pastiming. Gertrude "Class" Reed is a favorite dancer with Washington audiences and Rae Reed, California "bricktop" making her first appearance on Columbia time, sang her way into instant favor. Little Dolores Greene, the blonde, formerly of the Fanchon & Marco revue, added an extra bit of spice to the goings-on with a song called "Cinnamon Cakes." The Misses Bobby Kassan and Fay Tunis appeared in several numbers that were well received, and Costello & Lakes, specialty dancers, were called back upon their every appearance.

A chorus of eighteen shapely coryphees, tricked out in new and colorful costumes—what there was of them—aided in getting the new season off to a rousing start.

LABOR DAY ORATORS STRESS NEED OF AID FOR JOBLESS

sound. Indeed, it is one to which President Hoover himself might subscribe.

It has been made plain that President Hoover has no intention of seeing Americans starve this winter. However, he thinks that relief can be better provided through voluntary contributions than it can through appropriations from the Federal Treasury. And he is thoroughly convinced that Americans who are in a position to help the unfortunate will help them this winter.

The reports he has received so far have served to strengthen that conviction. Governors of States and mayors of towns and cities have been assuring him for two weeks that they want no Federal aid; that they can look out for their own.

The unemployment relief organization, headed by Walter S. Gifford, has received reports indicating that the work of organizing and raising money for the winter relief work is already well under way, from New York to California.

Relief Being Surveyed.

The President and Mr. Gifford believe that by the time Congress comes back in December they will be able to announce just how much relief to the unemployed will be necessary, and just what has been done to provide it.

But even if such a report should be reassuring, it will not silence the demand for a greater contribution by the Federal Government.

Senator Wagner, in his Labor Day speech yesterday, insisted that State and local efforts will not be enough to meet the unemployment situation this winter. Hence, he argued for a $2,000,000,000 Federal construction fund to give jobs to a million men, thus sparing them the degradation of accepting alms.

Hoover Objects to Plan.

The objections of the Hoover administration to such a plan are many. First, it is argued, the building projects have to be conceived, which takes time. Second, sites must be acquired, specifications and plans prepared, and the actual construction started, which also takes time. Third, in order to spread employment, the projects must be erected in all parts of the country, which is not altogether feasible.

Senator Wagner, in his speech yesterday, also advocated the withdrawal of a "million children under 16 years of age, who are holding down jobs which ought to be held by their fathers, their elder brothers and sisters." He would do this through legislation keeping the children in school and having industry itself realize the wrong done the child and the adult through conditions now existing.

He also advocated modification of the Volstead act to help the unemployment situation, and the creation of a Nation-wide system of employment offices conducted in cooperation with the States.

Rich Must Feed Jobless, Borah Says, in Address

Cottonwood, Idaho, Sept. 7 (A.P.). Senator William E. Borah declared in an address here today that the rich of the country must feed the unemployed during the coming winter and warned that "if they do not do it voluntarily, they will nevertheless do it."

Accusing the governments of responsibility for the World War, "the result of which was to wreck the economic system of two continents," the Idaho Senator contended it was their duty to care for the impoverished and suggested an increase in the income tax in the United States.

"As we approach winter the task of taking care of these men and women and their dependents is uppermost in our minds," Senator Borah said, referring to an estimated five or six million unemployed in this country and 20,000,000 in the world.

"If the wealth of the country," he said, "does not voluntarily contribute to the end that we may take care of them, there is only one thing to do, and that is, to feed those people from the Treasury of the United States and increase the income tax, particularly in the higher brackets, to enable us to do it.

"If the public dole system is established in this country, it will be forced by those who, having the means, refuse to do their part in feeding the hungry."

today excited comment. It was taken as a reproof to those who, at the beginning of the league, declined to invite Mexico. The resolution read:

"Considering that Mexico is not mentioned in the annex to the covenant among the list of nations invited to adhere and considering that, in all fairness, the league should remedy this omission so contrary to its spirit, the assembly recognizes that Mexico should be invited to adhere and give the league its useful collaboration, as it should have been invited in the begininng."

Balkans Stirred By Debt Plan.

Geneva, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—A Balkan flareback from the Hoover War debt plan provided today's session of the League of Nations Council with fervid oratory. Premier Venizelos, Greece's "grand old man," replied violently and comprehensively to a Bulgarian complaint that Greece has suspended without justification her indemnity payments to Bulgarian emigrants.

The debate lasted three hours, and at its conclusion the council, turning to the question of the Austro-German Customs Union, disposed quickly and finally of a controversy that only a few weeks ago was one of the major causes of European uncertainty.

In less than three minutes, the council received The Hague court's opinion ruling out the customs union project, thanked the court for its work and resolved that, in view of the fact that both Austria and Germany have renounced the plan, "there no longer is any occasion for the council further to pursue this item on its agenda."

The Greco-Bulgarian debate hinged on the Molloff-Caphandaris agreement, in which Greece undertook to pay Bulgarian emigrants for property confiscated by Greece.

On ratification of the Hoover plan, Greece announced she would consider the moratorium extended also to her obligations under this agreement. Accordingly, when Bulgaria, in line with the Hoover plan, skipped her July reparations payment, Greece retaliated by ignoring the indemnity payments scheduled for July 31.

Vladimir Molloff, Bulgarian representative who sat opposite M. Venizelos at the end of the horseshoe council table, accused Greece of adopting an attitude of victor toward vanquished in a matter not involving payments due to the Bulgarian government, but to individuals whose property had been confiscated and whose right to indemnity was entirely unaffected by the Hoover plan.

Venizelos Replies Heatedly.

M. Venizelos heatedly replied that if Greece continued her indemnity payments while Bulgaria escaped reparations, Bulgaria would be getting more money from Greece than she would if Bulgaria herself had won the war.

As to the Hoover plan, M. Venizelos said he was convinced "Mr. Hoover did not dream of the repurcussion his plan would have in the Balkans," and certainly wasn't thinking of Bulgaria when he announced it.

During this debate M. Venizelos drew laughs with his jibes at the arguments of his opponent. An additional and entirely unexpected laugh was provided by a girl shorthand reporter who, brushing past M. Venizelos, spilled a flagon of water over his white beard and silk skull cap.

The premier gallantly refused to be annoyed. Wiping the water from his beard, he calmly went on with his attack on the Bulgarian claim.

When the debate finally ended, Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, who is charged with making a report on the subject, requested a few days' time.

M. Briand, appearing in his old seat at the council table for the first time since his illness, seemed thoroughly to enjoy the debate until the arguments got lengthy. Then he lowered his leonine head to the table and calmly slept.

Miners' Head Raps Wage Cut Policies

Lewis Sees Prosperity as Distant While Worker Gets Small Pay.

Des Moines, Iowa, Sept. 7 (A.P.). John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, said in a Labor Day address today that National prosperity is dependent on high wages and regularity of employment. Addressing Des Moines workers he predicted a continuation of the present economic depression as a result of what he described as "a ruthless assault on the wage structure of American workers."

"There can be no permanent progress or prosperity until the economic axis of capitalism revolves on a sound bases of an equitable distribution of profits," he said. "Profits as a whole must be large enough to enable all human factors engaged in each industry to share the profits gained in sufficient amount to maintain relative purchasing power.

"In the face of onslaughts against wage standards and the concentration of wealth into fewer hands, the American consumer can not be expected to forever find the money to keep consumption on an even keel," he said.

Wine Overproduction Worries Portuguese

Torres Vedras, Portugal, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Wine growers of central Portugal met today to discuss measures to allay what they said was a tragic situation in the wine industry. Overproduction exists.

They urged a higher tariff tax on the consumption of beer and other drinks in the interest of greater wine consumption.

Capital Critized By Labor Official

Morrison Says Jobless Ills Might Be Met If 1930 Ideas Were Adopted.

Chicago, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, said today that America's unemployment problem might have been mastered long ago if capital had adopted the suggestions made by labor eleven months ago at its Boston convention.

"What have the National Association of Manufacturers or the Chamber of Commerce of the United States done or suggested to help reduce unemployment?" he asked. "Neither of these organizations of employers has presented a single remedy for unemployment."

GREEN ASKS PARLEY ON UNEMPLOYMENT

Conference to Be Called by President Hoover Urged by A. F. of L. Head.

Ottumwa, Iowa, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, proposed today that President Hoover call a national conference of employers and employes to consider the industrial situation. Mr. Green made the recommendation in his Labor Day address at a picnic here.

The Presidential conference, Mr. Green said, should point toward bringing about assurance to working men that they will be provided jobs during the coming winter.

Such assurance, he claimed, would break the psychology which now grips the country and would result in freer spending and use of credit thereby setting business in motion.

He also advised reexamination of the international debt situation.

For the present, he advocated distribution of all the available work among the millions now unemployed. For the future, he proposed long time planning of public improvement projects, old age pension laws, regulation of child labor, higher standards of workmen's compensation laws, better educational opportunities, elimination of competition from convict-made commodities, protection of women in industry, improved vocational training and legislation for relief from the injunction in labor disputes.

"Labor is appealing for work assurance," said Mr. Green.

"American workers abhor the imposition of a dole regardless of any guise under which it is bestowed.

"Labor proposes that these millions of workers who are now idle be permitted to share equally in the amount of work available. This can be made possible through an adjustment of the working day and the working week."

Curb on Oil Production Lifts Price 1 Cent Here

Washington motorists are beginning to feel the effects of the embargo on production of oil in Oklahoma and Texas. The price of gasoline at the stations of the leading oil companies was advanced 1 cent a gallon last Saturday.

It was rumored that another 1-cent increase would go into effect soon.

Virginia Realtors' Convention.

Newport News, Va., Sept. 7 (A.P.). Virginia realtors will meet here in their eleventh annual convention October 8 to 10, with real estate tax relief as a principal topic of discussion.

G. O. P. RULE SCORED FOR ECONOMIC ILLS

Reed, of Missouri, Assails Tariff and Dry Law as Trade Foes.

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Former United States Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, in a speech here tonight blamed the economic depression upon the Republican administrations of the past ten years, the prohibition law, and the Republican tariff. The former senator was the principal speaker at a State-wide Democratic rally.

Contending that goverments of the world through tariffs have changed the economic structures, Mr. Reed charged that the economic ills of the world are largely due to "governmental blunders or crimes." Mr. Reed said that for a century the Republican party had "paraded as the archangel of prosperity" and that "a party that pretends to be able to produce good times must be held responsible for the bad times occurring while it is in the floodtide of power."

"The European conditions," he said, "have been as bad as they are now for more than ten years, during all of which time Republican Presidents, statesmen and orators were assuring the people that everything in America was secure; that prosperity under Republican rule would be consistently maintained."

Turning to the farm situation, Reed held that "the first great measure of relief is to dissolve the Farm Board, and recognize the fact that the farmer, through his individual exertions and his local organization, can do better for himself, than nine or ten salaried gentlemen in Washington, who have not a dollar invested in their chimerical ventures."

Reed expressed a belief that repeal of the prohibition laws would "vastly contribute to the restoration of good times throughout the United States."

SUSPECTED HELPER OF POWERS SOUGHT

Man Implicated in Murder of Mrs. Eicher in Garage at Clarksburg.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Sept. 7 (U.P.).—Search for a man named Charles Rogers as a possible accomplice of Harry P. Powers, pudgy mail order matrimonial agent, who is accused of five murders, has been started by Clarksburg police.

Rogers, according to Detective Carl Southern, has been traced to Pittsburgh, where, about six months ago, he disappeared after a career of stock selling and night life.

Powers, according to Detective Southern, has implicated Rogers in the murder of Mrs. Asta B. Eicher, who was lured from her home in Park Ridge, Ill., to Clarksburg, where she and her three children were slain in Powers' garage.

A search also is being made for a former vacuum sweeper salesman named Wade, who disappeared in 1928, it was revealed.

Wade left his job, according to police information, and was succeeded by Powers. He was last seen in company with Powers, and an official of the vacuum sweeper company has expressed the belief that the West Virginia "Bluebeard" may have had something to do with the salesman's disappearance.

Powers had trouble with the company after he had been accused of stealing some sweepers. Clarksburg police have asked Ohio authorities to search for a farm between Mansfield and Crestline, Ohio, where Powers lived in 1926 and 1927 while conducting a correspondence courtship with his wife.

More Boons to Clerks In Postoffices Planned

Los Angeles, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Representative Clyde Kelly, of Pennsylvania told the National Federation of Postoffice Clerks today he contemplated offering Congress a bill providing for rewards for long and efficient service of postoffice clerks. He said the bill would embody shorter hours, bonuses and leaves of absence.

"Although a great victory was gained in the passage of the 44-hour week law for postoffice clerks," he said, "a five-day week should be provided at the same salary for clerks."

Tropical Disturbance Dies Down in Florida

Miami, Fla., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—A tropical disturbance of slight intensity apparently passed inland from the Gulf of Mexico over the southwest Florida coast tonight, its strength dissipated.

Richard W. Gray, meterologist, said prevalence of southwest winds in the Miami area, and supporting information from other points, indicated passage inland of the storm. The storm carried no threat of wind damage, Gray's reports showed.

Veteran Missing 47 Years Returns

Civil War Soldier Who Left Home in 1884 Is With Son Again.

Ithaca, N. Y., Sept. 7 (U.P.).—Believed dead for nearly half a century, Samuel E. Foulkes, veteran of the Civil War, was reunited today with his son, Jesse A. Foulkes.

Samuel Foulkes left home in the fall of 1884 in serach of employment. His wife, in Ithaca, received letters from him regularly and finally received word that he had been fatally injured in a fall from a scaffold. She was told that the G. A. R. post in the town where he had been employed would take care of the burial.

Foulkes, however, recovered from the fall, though it caused him to suffer a lapse of memory. Recently, from the National Military Home at Dayton, Ohio, the aged man applied for a pension and his son in Ithaca was notified.

Roman Congress to Air Birth Control Problem

Rome, Sept. 7 (U.P.).—The problem of birth control, vigorously opposed by the Italian Government and the Catholic Church, will be discussed in the light of recent scientific studies at the three-day congress for study of world population problems, which convened here today.

CAPITAL TEAM THIRD IN OHIO RIFLE EVENT

National Guard Wins Place in A. E. F. Trophy Match; Engineers in Honors.

Camp Perry, Ohio, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The American Legion rifle team today won the A. E. F. Roumanian Trophy match at the national rifle tourney here by posting a score of 561 out of a possible 600 to top 81 six-man teams.

The United States Cavalry team took second place with 560 and the National Guard team of the District of Columbia placed third with 559. The Ohio National Guard was sixth in the guard group in the match. The match was fired over the 200 and 600 yard ranges, ten shots slow fire standing and ten from prone position.

The United States Navy team captured the enlisted men's team match with a total of 567 out of a possible 600 by outranking the United States Marine Corps, which had the same score. The match was fired like the Roumanian Cup event. The First Regiment of Marines team won third with 563, while Washington State National Guard topped the guard outfits competing, with 545.

The Washington Guard team won the championship regimental team match by scoring 563 out of possible 600 over the same ranges used in the two previous matches. The 121st Engineers of the District of Columbia National Guard placed second with 559 and the Twenty-ninth Infantry, Fort Benning, Ga., third with 558. Seventy-three teams competed.

The civilian interclub team match was won by the Uhrichsville (Ohio) Rifle Club, with 372 out of possible 400, with the Austin (Tex.) Rifle Club second among 37 four-man teams.

The Wright Memorial Trophy, awarded for aggregate of scores in the Navy, Leech Cup, Coast Guard, Marine Corps, Wimbledon Cup and President's Match, was won by Chief Yeoman John E. Berns, U. S. Navy, with 528 out of possible 655. Second came Sergt. Wallie Burnham, Washington National Guard, and third, Maj. Claudius Easley, U. S. Infantry, each with 525.

While the National Rifle Association matches were ending today, it was announced that a recheck resulted in award of first place in the American Legion pistol match, fired last Thursday, to William T. Desmond, Boston policeman. His score was 269 out of 300, while that of Ralph Marshall, of Lima, Ohio, previously announced as winner, was found to be 266 and out of the medal list.

The national rifle and pistol matches under direction of the Secretary of War will be started here Tuesday and conclude next Sunday.

Girl Is Strangled After Night Tour

Her Taxi-Driver Friend Is Sought as Body Is Found in His Home.

New York, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The body of Miss Catherine Cronin, 20, nude and with a string of pearls about her neck, was found today in a Greenwich Village apartment. She had been strangled.

Police started an immediate search for Jack Hartigan, 24, a taxicab driver, in whose home the body was discovered. Hartigan's mother, Mrs. Bridget Hartigan, and a younger brother, Pat, were held for questioning.

A drinking party preceded the girl's death Sunday night, according to police. Miss Cronin was with Jack Hartigan all evening, it is understood, and they had been touring speakeasies, police said, but after an automobile accident Miss Cronin being slightly injured, was sent home after receiving emergency treatment.

Miss Cronin came of a reputable family, police said, and had not been inclined to attend wild parties in the past. Her mother said she had been acquainted with Hartigan about a year.

Floods and Landslides Widespread in France

Paris, Sept. 7 (U.P.).—Floods and landslides, some of serious extent, were reported from widespread districts of France tonight after a period of heavy rain.

Landslides in the Jura mountains, near Bourgenbresse, blocked several roads with great piles of mud and rock. Near Mijoux a slide covered an area of some 700 meters. Various rivers were flooded, the Marne bursting over its banks and inundating Saul and Semaize Les Bains. Roads were flooded.

FUGITIVE AUTO HITS THIRD; DRIVER FLEES

Police Chase Ends as Quarry Rams Oncoming Car and Vanishes in Alley.

An automobile chase that started in the downtown section of the city last night had its culmination in a head-on collision with a third car at Tenth street and Rhode Island avenue northwest.

Private L. H. Peterson, directing traffic at Twelfth and F streets, held up his hand to stop an automobile that was going north on Twelfth street without lights. The driver refused to stop and sped away. Peterson jumped on the running board of a taxicab driven by H. G. Hamilton of 626 C street northeast, and gave chase.

After pursuing a circuitous route through downtown streets and disregarding stop signs and red lights to avoid a collision at Tenth street, the driver pulled over into the eastbound traffic lane and crashed head-on with a car driven by John Blakely, 21 years old, of 1635 R street northwest.

The driver then jumped out of his car, apparently uninjured, and fled, with Officers Peterson and Hamilton after him, finally disappearing in an alley.

Blakely was removed to Emergency Hospital and after being treated for a lacerated left leg returned to his home.

The abandoned car was listed as belonging to Lawrence Herbert, colored, of 760 Girard street northwest, who had reported it stolen to the police at about the time the accident happened.

COTTAGE AT BEACH IDEAL FOR HOLIDAY

And a Site for One Can Be Bought on Easy Terms Through The Post.

After the firemen's parade yesterday wouldn't it have been nice to have a summer cottage to which you might have taken your guests for an afternoon and evening of rest under ideal conditions, where they might have relaxed after the strain of the holiday?

Next year you ought to have just such a cottage for use not only on holidays but every day in the week and most of the year. The place for your cottage in Woodland Beach, The Washington Post's summer home development on the South River in Maryland.

There you and your friends will find everything necessary for comfort and recreation. Cool breezes off the river will make life pleasant during the hot summer months. Swimming, boating and fishing will furnish entertainment and recreation for your guests. There are places and apparatus for the children to play in safety.

Hundreds of Washingtonians have bought and have built or are planning to build at the beach. One big reason is that lots there cost only $93, of which $9, together with a subscription to The Washington Post, is all that is required before making a selection. The balance may then be paid at the rate of $3.50 per month.

Remember Woodland Beach is only 32 miles away and easy to reach over good roads. It is served by electric car and bus as well and overnight and week-end trips will not cause any inconvenience or loss of time.

FEATURES » » » » »
Superheterodyne . . . 8 Tubes (5 Screen Grid) . . . 2 Pentode Output Tubes in Push-Pull . . . 2 Variable Mu Tubes . . . Continuous (Stepless) Static and Tone Control . . . Illuminated Hair-line Shadow Dial with Vernier Drive . . . Full Floating Moving Coil Dynamic Speaker.

THE front panel of the PLAYBOY is of imported Oriental wood finished in two-toned effect and high-lighted. The solid side panels and arched top are of high-lighted walnut finish. Instead of having a bent veneer panel continuing from the base at one side to the base at the other, the sides are solidly constructed. The curve is broken at each side so that the arched top is securely anchored into the solid side panels. The arch above the speaker grill is a darker shade of two-toned effect and is supported at the sides with overlaid and fluted pillars. The edges of the grill opening are coved and are darker than the other surfaces.

The PLAYBOY incorporates the new 8 tube Push-Pull Pentode, Exponential or Variable Mu, Superheterodyne chassis. The following tubes are used: 2 -47 or PZ Pentode, 2 -35 or -51 Variable Mu, 2 -27 (detector and oscillator), 1 -24 Constant Mu and 1 -80 Rectifier. Dimensions: 17" high, 17⅛" wide, 10¼" deep.

FORD COMMERCIAL CARS SERVE NEW YORK TELEPHONE COMPANY

1488 Ford commercial cars serve not only the New York Telephone Company but its millions of subscribers as well. Because, through swift, unfailing operation they contribute to that prompt telephone service so vital to the smooth conduct of daily life.

In almost every field of business Ford trucks and light commercial cars are helping to keep up standards and keep down costs of service. They are low in price, and records kept by many Ford fleet owners show remarkably low figures for operation and maintenance. Because of this, hundreds of truck users are standardizing on Ford units. The New York Telephone Company is but one of the many buyers that are influenced by actual experience with the Ford.

More than forty standard Ford types are now available in a choice of thirty-eight different color combinations. It is no longer necessary for you to have a special body built. Simply call on the local Ford dealer and he will furnish a complete unit—a strong, good-looking, business-building unit—exactly fitted to your needs. Look in your classified telephone directory under Ford.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

What We Mean.

HOLD everything! Somebody wants to know what we mean by intimating that "love is just an imagination." And that "any woman who entertains the tender sentiment is just kidding herself." Naturally we did not say anything so downright close to the unwelcome truth as that. But the weather being what it has been we may have come perilously near to hurling some such monkey wrench into the works. So we hereby rush into the ring to explain "what we mean."

It seems there was a young lady who wrote in to the column to announce that her life had been ruined through the perfidy of a certain young man who had accepted her hospitality, utilized her home and friends, made love to her for years, and then left her with a few kind words. But wait! The young lady with the ruined life happened to state that when she met the man he made no impression on her whatever, seemed quite commonplace and uninteresting, unequal to the ordinary exigencies of life and in every way a pretty complete flop. But after seeing him around she felt sorry for him and decided to help him out of his mediocrity, in the course of which laudable enterprise she conferred upon him her affections, which he later returned to her all nicely wrapped and tied.

We told the lady that she had simply helped herself to a portion of papier mache pie. She had decided to take a ride in a picture of a car. That was all. Love had nothing to do with it. The man never loved her and she never loved him. They were both papier mache people having a papier mache time. And we may have been reckless enough to truthfully state that the men women "ruin their lives" over are usually just such lay figures from life's shop window, thrown out in the trash pile to make way for snappier models and picked up and dusted off by ladies who have more imagination than sound sense. It may be fun, brushing up these castaways, but it surely is a bit foolish to become so enthusiastic over one's handiwork as to forget that the sawdust is still not up to much and the general outline a bit limp for all our trouble and all our art.

We told the young lady that she had merely made herself believe that this puppet was her man! That in company with thousands of her sisters in misery, she had fashioned a romance out of the material at hand and then staged a scene when the puppet began to strew sawdust all over the place. If that is an indictment of love we can not see it. Our contention was that love played no part in all this excitement.

Had this girl told us that a red-blooded man had swept her off her feet with the vehemence of his plans for their future and then when he had gained her love let her down, we might, cynical though we are, have spared a tear for a shattered love. But when a woman describes some limp soul she has propped up and hand-fed, pitied and secretly despised, and then crowned king of the May, all we can do is tell her the unvarnished truth. And that, ladies and gentlemen, is what we mean!

Swedish Tourist Trade Up.

Stockholm (U.P.).—American travelers in Sweden spent on the average $13.40 per day last year, while the English got along with $10.72, says the latest statistical report of the Swedish tourist traffic. The Americans also spent more days per person than any other foreigners. In the five years since 1925 the foreign tourist travel in Sweden increased by 142 per cent.

Holbein Painting Found.

Berlin (U.P.).—The declaration by a recognized art authority that a painting in a private collection in Pressburg, Hungary, is the work of Han Holbein, the younger, is arousing great interest in Viennese art circles. Holbein, one of the greatest of German renaissance painters, is chiefly known to the layman for his portraits of King Henry VIII of England. The Pressburg picture is a portrait of a meditative man wearing a Dutch cap.

Birds Abound in Wisconsin.

Looking Slender.

Paris has decided for the slim silhouette frock, it is essential that one wear a fitted costume slip. A stright one-piece affair that will give an unbroken line, as this charmingly slender model.

It hugs the figure through the waist and the hips, tapering into a nice comfortable fulness at the hem. It has the necessary shadow proof hem.

It's really surprising how easily it is made. And it will wear for ever and a day of crepe de chine or flat crepe silk of a good quality that tubs so beautifully and may be bought at the remnant counter at a very small outlay.

Style No. 275 may be had in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42-inch bust. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards of 39-inch material with 2 yards of binding.

TUESDAY SEPTEMBER 8 SPORTS

NATS WIN 2 AT BOSTON AS YANKS BEAT A'S TWICE

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THE National League pennant hopes of the New York Giants which ten days ago had reached the rigor mortis stage are animate again. Without a great deal of excitement or fanfare, the Giants shaved 5½ games off the lead of the Cardinals last week and their success breathed a bit of life into the race which had taken on the aspect of a foregone conclusion that the Cardinals would win.

Then, at the crest of their rise, which had seen them roll up eight consecutive victories in six days, while the Cardinals lost three straight, the Giants suffered a shocking setback Sunday when they lost to the Braves, while St. Louis took two games from the Reds.

But the eleven-game lead which the Cardinals had held a week ago has been clipped to the point where the Giants, though seven games behind, are entitled to retain a vestige of hope that the race is not yet over. Yesterday the Giants matched the double victory of the Cards over the Cubs by winning both games from the Phillies.

17 More Games

In favor of the Cardinals is the fact that but eighteen games remain on their schedule with only seventeen to be played by the Giants. Thus one moderate winning streak by the leaders or a mild losing streak for the Giants will clinch the pennant for the the St. Louis club with little further ado.

The schedule also provides that the Cardinals finish their season on home grounds, while the Giants must wind up their campaign on the road. Henceforth, the Cardinals will be at home every day, while all the Giants' battles must be played on foreign diamonds.

The twin victory of the Cardinals Sunday, while the Giants lost, may prove to be the turning point of the race and the termination of the Giants' threat. After their eight straight victories, while the Cardinals were losing three straight, the Giants were in the strategic position of an onrushing club, while the Cardinals were finding it difficult to maintain the pace they had been setting. But the Cards' double win may go far in psychological effect.

Clubs Meet Thrice

The remaining league schedule favors neither the Cards nor the Giants except for the fact that the New York Club, a notoriously weak road club, finishes its season abroad. One more item which may be in favor of the Cards is the fact that only three games are scheduled between New York and St. Louis during the Giants' road trip. This series presents the Giants with their greatest opportunity to whittle away the Cards' lead.

In addition to the three games with the Cards, the Giants will play one with Philadelphia, three with Pittsburgh, four with Cincinnati, three with Chicago and three with Brooklyn. The Cards will meet the Phillies in six games, the Pirates in one, two with Cincinnati, three with Brooklyn and three with Boston.

The big edge in this remaining schedule seems to lie in the fact that six of the Cards' 18 games will be with the Phillies. But the Phils are by no means the set-up they have been in seasons past and last year earned a wide reputation for knocking off the contending clubs.

McGraw Has Pitching

The rise of the Giants can be traced to the reactivated efficiency of the Giants' pitching staff. McGraw today concedes nothing to any club in point of pitching power with Fitzsimmons, Walker, Mooney and Hubbell working in rotation as his big four. The rise of Mooney has been spectacular. Fresh from the minors he has won four games and lost none, three of them shutouts.

In the series with the Cards in St. Louis, which is scheduled during the last ten days of the season, McGraw will be able to send a better pitching staff against the leaders than the Cardinals themselves can muster. This series should be the turning point of the race if the Giants are not out of it by that time.

Of course, Gabby Street still has an ace in the hole. If the going becomes too rough and a couple of victories are needed to fortify the Cards' lead, he can still recall Dizzy Dean from the Houston Club.

Bell Defeats Allison in Singles

Gledhill Victor Over Williams; Lott Is Easy Winner.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 7 (A. P.).—Jacques "Toto" Brugnon, of the French Davis Cup Brugnons, and Wilmer Allison, this country's third ranking player, were the major casualties as the golden jubilee men's national tennis singles championship moved into the third round today.

Brugnon, not the spry young man he once was, was run ragged by Bryan Grant, the little Atlanta jackrabbit, and eliminated, 3—6, 7—5, 6—3, 6—4. Allison, a trifle off form, bowed to a fellow Texan, Berkeley Bell, after four red-hot sets. The scores were 5—7, 6—4, 6—2, 6—4.

These matches, the last of the afternoon, were the only ones in which play did not run pretty true to form, and in which favored players were defeated.

George Lott, of Philadelphia, was the first ranking star to enter the third round and for the next two hours the score keeper was busy entering triumphs for the "big boys."

Doeg Is Given Scare.

Johnny Doeg, defending champion, was given a genuine scare by Eddie Jacobs, of Baltimore, but managed to lift his game at crucial points and came through with a 6—4, 1—6, 2—6, 8—0, 6—3 victory. Jacobs might have won had he not allowed a bad decision in the first game of the fifth set to completely upset him. After the linesman's apparent error the Baltimore boy was so flustered he offered little or no competition.

New York City's two Davis Cup players, Frank Shields and Sidney B. Wood, jr., had little trouble. Shields slammed his way to a 6—3, 6—4, 6—1 win over Melvin Partridge, of New Rochelle, N. Y., while Wood softballed his way to a 6—2, 6—4, 7—5 decision over Ellsworth Davenport, of Forest Hills.

Tigers, Browns Split Holiday Twin Bill

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The Tigers and the St. Louis Browns divided their Labor Day double-header today, the Tigers taking the first contest, 3-2, but dropping the second, 11-7. The first game developed into a pitching duel between Detroit's veteran, George Uhle, and Dick Coffman of St. Louis. Uhle allowed eight scattered hits and then turned about to contribute a homer to the Detroit side of the box score. Coffman yielded six safeties.

The second game became a free-hitting contest, with the Browns getting the best of it. They pounded first Hogsett and then Herring for 14 hits, while the Tigers got 17 hits off Blaeholder, Kimsey and Gray. Errors by Burns, Melillo, and Bettencourt materially aided the Tiger scoring.

Firemen Deal Police 14-2 Defeat

12,000 See Hull Give Only 8 Hits; Cops Use 3 Hurlers.

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

COMBING the offerings of three Police twirlers for a total of thirteen hits and aided by the numerous miscues of the cops, the Fire Department Baseball Team yesterday scored its fifth consecutive triumph in the series by a score of 14 to 2 before a crowd of 12,000 fans in Griffith Stadium. The majority of the spectators howled with glee as their favorites drove out base hit after base hit to send the guardians of the law down to the worst defeat they have suffered since the inauguration of the series.

Preceding the game Commissioner Herbert B. Crosby, Maj. Pratt, of the Police Department, and Chief Watson, of the Fire Department, heading a delegation of men from both departments, marched to the flagpole in center field to the military strains of the United States Marine Band and stood at attention as Old Glory was unfurled to the breezes.

Firemen Jump Into Early Lead.

Following the flag-raising ceremony Commissioner Crosby presented honor men of the two departments with certificates as they stood lined up before the grand stand.

The Smoke Eaters jumped on Johnny Winters in the first inning to score 3 runs, all of which resulted from errors. Haas, the first man to face Winters, reached first when Muzurski lost his pop fly in the sun. Snow also reached first on an error, and both runners scored when "Sonny" Burdine connected for a long triple to left field. Burdine trotted home unmolested when Weatherhead missed Campbell's return throw.

The game could have been satisfactorily terminated in the first inning, for Calvin Hull, who pitched his team to a 3-hit, 10-2 victory over the pavement pounders last year, was again in rare form, limiting his opponents to eight well-scattered blows. Hull's mates supported him in fine fashion, with one exception. In the fifth frame Waller scored the first of the Police Team's two runs on two errors. Waller also tallied the second run for his nine; this time, however, the marker followed two clean hits.

Police Call Out Reserves To No Avail.

As the game progressed and the score mounted in the hook and ladder lads' favor, the Blue Coats held a little parade of their own, sending two relief pitchers, two catchers and an outfielders into the game. The riot call sent in by Sergt. Boyle served only to increase the fans' desire for more runs and the Firemen responded nobly, three runners crossing the pan in the seventh.

Londos Again Winner Over Jim McMillen

Chicago, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Jim Londos, claimant to the world's heavyweight wrestling title, defeated Jim McMillen, former University of Illinois football star, and one of the most persistent challengers for the title, tonight at Soldiers Field, winning two straight falls in their match staged under auspices of the Chicago Federation of Labor.

The Greek heavyweight took the first fall by a neck lock in 1:36:55. They were still wrestling when the bout was called at the end of the two-hour limit, with Londos the winner.

A crowd of approximately 6,500 paid $11,000 to view the show which was not a financial success.

Results of the preliminaries: Charles Fox, Cleveland, vs. Jack Smith, Chicago, wrestled to a draw; John Maxos, Greece, lost to George Caiza, Italy, by a flying mare in 13:22; Frank Bronowicz, New York, and Gino Garibaldi, Italy, drew; Mike Romano, Italy, was defeated by D. Shikat, Germany, with a reverse body lock in 17:47. In the semiwind-up after the main event, Hans Steinke, Germany, won by a body lock in 3:34 from Don De Long, of France.

TRIPLE AND ERROR IN POLICE-FIREMEN'S GAME

"Sonny" Burdine, outfielder of the Fire Department, is seen racing into third on his triple in the first inning which scored the first two runs in the annual Labor Day game with the police at Griffith Stadium yesterday. The throw from center field, which is plainly seen in the picture, was dropped by Third Baseman Weatherhead and Burdine reached home.

America IX, also had beaten the gun to be disqualified. Wood led Don across the start, having crossed it two seconds ahead of the British challenger. Wood's second entry in defense of the trophy, Miss America VIII, left alone in the race, finished the 30-mile course leisurely for an average speed of 60.872.

In winning yesterday's heat, Don had established a new world's competitive speedboat record by averaging 89.913 miles an hour for the 30-mile course and had made one lap at the rate of 93.017 miles an hour.

Don and his two mechanics, Dick Garner and Roy Platford, received only a severe ducking when their boat turned over. Don and Wood were roaring around the lower part of the course, swinging for the second turn, with Wood in the lead, when Miss England II got into Miss America IX's wash. It tipped over on its side, came upright and settled down by the stern as it filled with water.

Wood Says Tank Leaks.

An hour before the race word came to the judges' stand that Gar Wood had discovered a leak in his gasoline tank and had requested a postponement for 45 minutes. Race officials announced that Don refused the request on the ground that it would necessitate his returning to his boatwell to again warm up 35 gallons of lubricating oil. He said that if Wood had but one boat in the race he gladly would have agreed to the postponement, but felt that with two boats entered against him and one of them in good shape, the race should start on time.

When Wood went over the starting line 9 seconds ahead of the gun today, it was the first time in his career that he ever has been disqualified for a premature start. In yesterday's start Don beat the veteran Wood across, but was a fraction of a second behind the gun. Today both boats approached the starting line at full tilt, Wood with his throttle wide open nearly a quarter of a mile away. Seemingly fearful that Wood would get the jump, Don also opened up. Both were well beyond the start at of the gun.

Safely back in the wake of the two speeding boats came the slower Miss America VIII, to cross the starting line well after the gun. Miss America VIII, driven by George Wood, finished the race as an exhibition for the more than 250,000 persons who lined the edges of the course. Prior to the regatta Gar Wood announced that he would not let Don beat him to the start and that he was prepared even to disqualify Miss America IX, if necessary, to prevent such a happening.

Three Set Ups Bow To Jack Dempsey

Knocks Out One, Carries Others Before 10,000 Reno Crowd.

Reno, Nev., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Ten thousand fans today watched Jack Dempsey clown through five rounds with three large but not overly willing heavyweights, knock out one of them in less than a round, and carry the others along for two rounds each.

Dempsey recently began a series of short exhibition bouts, saying his success in getting into condition would determine whether he might attempt a comeback.

The former champion toyed with "Cowboy" Eddie Burns, of Davenport, Iowa, for two rounds, knocked out Sammy Baker, of Douglas, Ariz., in 1 minute 25 seconds, and then bounced "Red" Tingley, of Seattle, Wash., off the canvas no less than six times in their two-round set-to.

Burns was the only one of the three to make even a semblance of a showing against the former heavyweight champion, who was fighting with 16-ounce gloves. Burns drew a fleck of blood from Dempsey's mouth in the first round and landed several respectable lefts, but Jack always had the situation well in hand.

G. U. GRIDMEN IN HARDEST WORKOUT

Gellis, Smail, Rowan, O'Rourke Added to Hospital List.

By JACK ESPEY
(Post's Staff Correspondent).

REHOBOTH BEACH, Del., Sept. 7. The ugly, leering face of old man bad luck incongruous with the sunny smile of Dame Nature popped up this bright Labor Day in Georgetown University's training camp and forthwith saw his baleful influence doing dirty work among the toiling athletes.

The immediate result was the establishment of a small hospital in Trainer Harry Crowley's suite where no less than four young huskies underwent treatment for various injuries. Of course, the boys themselves contributed to their plight by the uncommonly hard work they put in on the practice field as Head Coach Tommy Mills blew the whistle for increased speed in preparing for the campaign that opens three weeks hence. It was the toughest day in camp thus far.

Hospital List Grows.

Today's victims are Sam Gellis, Gomer Smail, backs, and Jack Rowan and Bill O'Rourke, ends. They brought the hospital list up to an even half dozen, with Rus Danieu and Ed Skovinski, guards, already under Crowley's wing. Gellis and Smail sustained injuries to their feet, while the legs of Rowan and O'Rourke were hurt during the long afternoon session of blocking and dummy scrimmage.

The uneven turf of the field played its part in the mishaps. At this time, the injury of Gellis is cause for serious concern among Mills and his assistants, for Gellis, a sophomore who played sensationally for the 1930 freshmen, was shaping up as a prospect for a job in the varsity back field, and is possessed of rare blocking skill, plus speed and shiftiness of foot.

This type of back was conspicuous

YANKS HIT 5 HOMERS IN DUAL WIN

All Occur in Final Game as Athletics Bow, 15-3, 9-4.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—A bombardment of five home runs that gave the New York Yankees a 9-to-4 decision over the Philadelphia Athletics in the afternoon game allowed the Yanks to sweep the double-header with the world's champions today. New York won the morning game, 15 to 3.

The Yankee bombardment recalled other days and ruined the day for their old teammate, Waite Hoyt. Babe Ruth drove out two of the circuit drives, Nos. 39 and 40, while Lou Gehrig sent his forty-second of the year over right-field wall. The other two were divided between Bill Dickey and Lyn Lary.

Yankees Stage Parade.

The morning game was a rout for the Yankees, as they counted eight runs in the first inning, with only two hits off four pitchers. An error, eight bases on balls and two wild pitches sent most of the runs across the plate.

SOCK-CESS

Marberry Allows 8 Hits; Reeves Halts Nats' Attack.

Burke Is Relieved by Hadley in Opener as Sox Threaten.

Special to The Washington Post.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 7.—Washington's Nationals completed their 1931 operations in Boston by taking a Labor Day matinee from the Red Sox, 7 to 5 in the first game and 15 to 1 in the nightcap.

In each game, the Nats hopped all over sundry Boston pitching in the early frames to pile up big leads, which could not be overcome. The second game was a massacre. In the first game, after the Nats had made six runs in the first three innings, mostly off Eddie Durham, Bobby Burke weakened in the last of the fourth. Out he went and in came Bump Hadley. The latter worked slickly to the finish and gets credit for the game, although his club was leading 6 to 2 when he first toed the rubber.

Rice, Harris and Kuhel Bat Heroes.

The hitting demons of this game for the Johnson gang were Sam Rice, Sheriff Harris and Joe Kuhel. Each knocked in a pair of runs. The Sheriff got a single and a homer, the only one of the afternoon. Sammy got himself a single, double and triple and Joe made the first two of his day's five doubles.

The second game was just too bad, from the viewpoint, at least of the 15,000 Boston customers present. The Sox started Jack Russell against big powerful Fred Firpo Marberry, and what the Nats did to Jack in the first and at the start of the second was shuddering. They made four runs in the first stanza and then galloped through for eight tallies in the second.

Before the large inning was over the Sox had used Ed Morris, Lefty Justin McLoughlan, and in great desperation had called on Infielder Bobby Reeves to stem the tidal wave.

Reeves pitched to one man in the second and then stuck around for the balance of the game. He was good. Yet the Nats had a dozen runs and there seemed no particular incentive for them to worry about additional scores.

The Kuhel boy made himself additional merit by getting three doubles in this nightcap, sending across four runs. Sam Rice clicked out three nonchalant singles. The Nats collected fourteen hits. When Manager Johnson saw how things were going, he yanked Spencer and let Bolton catch. The latter caught all right and made a single and a double, knocking across three runs.

Jones to Face Mackmen Today.

The best catch of the day was Harris' shoe string, one handed clutch of Otis Miller's drive to short right field in the important fourth inning of the opener.

Joe Cronin had a wicked time at short, for him. He made three errors and only clicked out one base hit all afternoon.

Earl Webb, once a Nat, made his fifty-ninth double of the current season in the fourth inning of the opener, and the gang here gave him a hand all out of proportion to the merit of the sock.

Marberry came close to a shut out in the final. Two were out in the third when Sweeney, fast runner, beat out a ball for which Bluege ran in front of Cronin, deflecting it so none could handle it. Cronin unquestionably would have thrown out the batter if unmolested by the ambitious Ossie. Rothrock subsequently doubled to left to let Sweeney score with the tally that kept the Sox from being skunked.

Manush told Boston friends he has sold a West Palm Beach lot for which he paid $500 for exactly $3,000, which reverses the usual experience of big leaguers with Florida realty.

HYGRO DEFEATS JUVENILES IN LINCOLN FIELDS FEATURE

Choice Leads From Start To Finish

Burning Blaze Beats Liberty Limited for Place.

Mr. Sponge Winner in Belmont Park Feature Race.

LINCOLN FIELD, Chicago, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Hygro, sensational speed marvel from the West, galloped off with the $5,000 added Joliet Handicap for 2-year-olds today so impressively and easily that the impression prevails he is the fastest juvenile the West had developed this year.

The speedy son of the famous French stallion, Epinard, out of the sprinting mare, Ruddy Light, smothered his seven rivals with blistering speed to win by a length over Burning Blaze without a real struggle. The race was witnessed by 25,000, largest crowd of the Lincoln Field meeting.

Liberty Limited, the 2-year-old for which W. D. Waggoner, of Arlington, Tex., paid $26,000, finished third, with Marmion fourth and Sharp Thoughts fifth. Cold Check was sixth, Blackstrap seventh and Depression eighth.

Hygro, owned by George W. Wingfield, mining magnate of Reno, Nev., sprinted the six furlongs in 1:11 2-5, revealing that he could carry weight and still retain his speed.

Carries 120 Pounds To Victory.

The sensational youngster shouldered 120 pounds, 14 more than he carried in winning the Hawthorne Juvenile Handicap two weeks ago.

The stake had a gross value of $7,320 in its sixth running and $3,450 went to Owner Wingfield. Mygro was a short price favorite, and paid $3.48 to win. Burning Blaze, winner of the Post and Paddock Stake at Arlington, paid $4.56 to place and $3.14 to show, while the show price on Liberty Limited was $2.58.

Belmont Park Race Track, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—A bargain bill of seven races and ideal weather served to attract 20,000 persons to the opening of the Westchester Racing Association's 12-day fall meeting here this afternoon. The colors of J. E. Widener, president of the association, were carried to an easy victory in the Fall Highweight Handicap, 6-furlong feature, by the 4-year-old Mr. Sponge, which was an 8-to-5 favorite.

Mr. Sponge, perfectly ridden by Mack Garner, carried 126 pounds and crossed the finish line with four lengths to spare over the Brookmeade Stable's lightly weighted Hellanthus, with the Sagamore Stable's Balko, top weight of the small field, third, another length away. Six of the best sprinters in training competed over the Widener straightaway, and Mr. Sponge covered the distance in 1:11 3-5 to earn the winner's share of the purse, amounting to $3,025.

Balko and Mr. Sponge both broke slowly but the latter had enough speed to spurt right up into contention and assume command a quarter of a mile from home. Hi-Jack after leading for a brief period, dropped out gradually. Hellanthus, showing fine speed, maintained second position almost throughout and showed a good, even race. Balko, lacking his former speed, was steered all over the track under his 138 pounds and never was a serious threat.

Auto for Ouimet Gift of Clubmates

Newton, Mass., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The Woodland Golf Club officially celebrated the victory of its famous member, Francis Ouimet, today and presented to the new national amateur golf champion a $2,000 automobile, the gift of his clubmates.

Charles Shaw, chairman of the welcoming committee, said in presenting the gift: "It is for our love and admiration for you, Francis; not for your title."

Boots and Saddle's

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

—Lincoln Fields Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

LINCOLN FIELDS RACE TRACK, Chicago, Ill., Sept. 7.—The Morton Grove Purse, an allowance affair, for 3-year-olds and upward, at 1 mile, will hold the program at Lincoln Fields tomorrow. Seven highly regarded speedsters have been named in the overnight list to contest the $1,600 purse. The rest of the card is devoted to the cheaper grade of platers, but with the large fields entered, some interesting and spirited finishes should result.

In the feature, fourth on the card, J. J. Coughlin's KARL EITEL, winner of a 6-furlong spring last start, is better suited by the added distance here and figures to annex the major portion of the purse. CHIEF JOHN has shown consistent form and will furnish stern opposition. BROWN WISDOM may falter at the route, but should last to gain the minor award.

FIRST RACE—ON SIR, following his second to Sir Melton the other day, is at the top of his form and should score over this group. DIS DAT should account for the place, with ZODE favored for the minor award.

SECOND RACE—W. J. Salmon's MAD CAREER has the speed of his seven rivals and should carry his 111-pound impost to an easy victory. RUSTY finished third last start and may show improvement in this field. VOLTA GREEN has only SISTER MARY to beat for the show.

THIRD RACE — ALBAZANO has shown the most consistent form of this field and is given the call. GOLD MINT, from the Mrs. R. Pollard string, finished second to Stop Gap and should go as well here. BILL LOONEY is rounding to form and should share in the money.

FIFTH RACE — GRAY KITTY should outfoot this field. MAI SAN, from the J. J. Troxler Stable, should battle it out with the top one. TRANSGRESSION would favor a muddy track, but nevertheless should figure prominently at this route.

SIXTH RACE—SAN PRESTO, after his brilliant second to Chene last outing, is favored to gain the honors. KING'PIN has turned in several creditable performances in previous outings and should offer the opposition. JAY WALKER and GOTOIT are closely matched for the show end of the purse.

SEVENTH RACE—TISHYBO, from the Mrs. E. Denemark string, raced wide in his last effort and lost all chance. With better handling, the Denemark color bearer should show her heels to this cheap contingent. THE SOUTHERNER has shown consistent form over a route and is the one to fear. WIRT G. BOWMAN is favored for the minor award.

LINCOLN FIELDS, ILL., CHART, SEPT. 7, 1931

FIRST RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:26½. Off at 2:29½. Winner, br. c. (2), by Blind Play—Melee. Value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, :23 2-5, 0:47 4-5, 1:13 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—RUFFIAN, $11.80, $4.86, $4.02; LEJOY, $5.94, $3.14; SIMPLE SINGER, $4.38.

RUFFIAN, a forward factor from the start and lucky to obtain room on the inside much of the race, responded determinedly when strongly urged and, wearing down SIMPLE SINGER, outstayed LEJOY. Latter, probably best and in tight quarters early, raced wide the final half mile and, closing with fine speed, was wearing down the winner. SIMPLE SINGER appeared to come across sharply while working his way up fast in the opening quarter, drew clear at the turn and weakened in the final furlong. PRINCE VOLTA had speed and suffered slight interference in the stretch. INDIAN DANCER raced evenly. OLD DEPOT quit. BROCA weakened.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:07. Off at 3:10½. Winner, C. V. Whitney's b. g. (4), by John P. Grier—Vexatious. Trained by M. Goldblatt. Value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23 1-5, 0:47, 1:12 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ANGRY, $7.20, $4.54, $3.28; ROYAL ROGUE, $12.10, $6.04; FLAG TIME, $3.68.

ANGRY, taken back slightly approaching the far turn, caused some crowding at the turn, came wide entering stretch and, offering good response, wore down ROYAL ROGUE, winning under strong urging. The latter had speed, saved ground and, while unable to withstand winner, held on well. FLAG TIME, a forward factor from the start, was forced wide in the stretch and weakened in final eighth. CELTIC PRINCE, a keen factor throughout, lost some ground and faltered slightly near end. ENERGY had no mishap. MORSUN never threatened. STARCH, outrun, went out a mile in 1:43.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; allowances. The Toller Purse. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:50½. Off at 3:51. Winner, Greentree Stable's b. h. (5), by Ordinance—Panache. Trained by E. Haughton. Value to winner, $950; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:22 4-5, 0:46, 1:12 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—JUSTINIAN, $17.98, $6.82, $3.86; CHEERS, $4.08, $2.70; KINCSEN, $2.78.

JUSTINIAN, going in his best form and close up under steadying restraint the first three-eighths, bettered his position gradually on the outside thereafter and weakened after drawing clear, but withstood CHEERS. Latter had his best speed, was much used racing with SUNDOT and holding on well after being headed, closed resolutely. KINCSEN, away slowly and lacking early speed, closed much ground in the last quarter and was strongest of all at the end. SUNDOT, on the inside throughout, responded to early pushes under energetic riding and weakened on the outside drive. LISTO closed gamely. LADY FINGERS quit badly after reaching last three-sixteenths.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $5,000 added. The Joliet Handicap. For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:30½. Off at 4:32½. Winner, Nevada Stock Farm's ch. c. (2), by Epinard—Ruddy Light. Trained by R. F. Carman. Value to winner, $3,450; second, $1,000; third, $500; fourth, $250. Time, 0:22 4-5, 0:45 3-5, 1:11 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—HYGRO, $3.48 $2.94, $2.40; BURNING BLAZE, $4.56, $3.14; LIBERTY LIMITED, $2.56.

HYGRO began swiftly, sprinted into command while racing wide in opening quarter, saved ground after reaching the turn, was briskly shaken up approaching last eighth and weakened from the fast pace and weight, but had something left. BURNING BLAZE came on inside in the first quarter, saved ground while under slight restraint at the turn and, closing boldly under his weight, was strongest of all in final stages. LIBERTY LIMITED began slowly and went sluggishly for a half mile, lost ground and closed well. MARMION dropped far out of it, but closed gamely. SHARP THOUGHTS weakened. COLD CHECK had no mishap. BLACK STRAP was done early.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. Labor Day Purse. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:12. Off at 5:13. Winner, J. Spencer's b. m. (5), by Pataud—Shy. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $950; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24 2-5, 0:47 4-5, 1:12 1-5, 1:38, 1:44 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—WILLA, $10.70, $5.60, $3.50; ISLAM, $5.70, $3.48; PROSE AND POETRY, $2.86.

WILLA, racing improved and favored by light weight, was rated along in the early lead under steadying restraint, momentarily gave way to ISLAM in the stretch, but held on doubly strong and, under strong urging, outlasted ISLAM, up close under strong restraint the opening half mile, slowly worked his way to the front on the outside and weakened in the final drive. PROSE AND POETRY came very wide at the stretch turn, made up some ground when straightened up, but faltered slightly in the last eighth.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-quarter miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:54½. Off at 5:55. Winner, Mrs. E. Denemark's b. f. (3), by Peter Quince—Golden Feast. Trained by R. T. Watts. Value to winner, $950; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24 1-5, 0:48 3-5, 1:13 3-5, 1:40 1-5, 2:07.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BAGIEL, $16.66, $7.68, $4.64; MADCAP MARVIN, $4.90, $3.44; SANTA SOPHIA, $5.82.

BAGIEL, lackly outrun for three-eighths, improved her position slowly thereafter, came to extreme outside in stretch and, closing fast, got up in the final fifty yards. MADCAP MARVIN, taken under restraint after moving up fast when entering back stretch, worked way to the front under strong urging and held on well, but was not good enough. SANTA SOPHIA had speed, easily disposed of SILVER CLOUD, but weakened in the final drive.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-quarter miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 6:39. Off at 6:40. Winner, B. Johnson, owner. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $950; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24 2-5, 0:49 3-5, 1:14 3-5, 1:39 4-5, 2:06 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—JAY WALKER, $6.04, $3.54, $2.90; WATERGAP, $3.68, $2.98; DELMONICO, $4.70.

JAY WALKER, missed the crowding at the first turn, followed the pacemaker under slight restraint to the stretch where he worked his way to the front and, continuing well, retained a small advantage the final eighth. WATERGAP, taken into the lead, made the early pace under good rating and held on well in the drive. DELMONICO, probably best, suffered repeated interference from ORMONTIME, was crowded back at the stretch and, closing full of run, lacked room in the final eighth.

D. C. Golf Links Crowded For Labor Day Tourneys

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

WITH ideal weather conditions yesterday, the golf courses in this section were crowded and the prize winners were numerous. Nearly all the clubs provided special programs for competition. Even though the Army-Navy and Indian Spring clubs lacked Labor Day contests, the course at each club was thronged.

At the Beaver Dam Club, the women members played the first eighteen holes in the club championship which began yesterday. Mrs. Alma Von Steinner led the field with a gross score of 95, followed by Mrs Ora Emge with 108. Mrs. Carl Mitchell with 109, Mrs. H. A. Neff with 113 and Mrs. T. N. Beavers with 118, were other leading players. The final round of eighteen holes will be played next Sunday.

Beaver Dam Presidents Cup Event to Gill.

David Gill won the president's cup with a card of 85—17—68, H. A. Neff being a close second with 77—8—69. Other scores were: J. Allegretto, 83—10—73; H. R. Devilbiss, 89—15—74; J. M. Price, 90—16—74, and R. G. White, 87—13—74. In the driving contest M. F. McCarthy was the winner with 250 yards, Harry Bailey taking second prize with 240 yards and J. R. Miller finished third with 235 yards. The approaching contest was won by M. W. Harrell, first; M. F. McCarthy, second, and Forrest Thompson, third. W. H. White was the victor on the putting green, holing out in two putts from a distance of 60 feet and with one stroke from a distance of 45 feet. J. C. Johnson won second prize.

Medal play with handicap allowance was the feature at the Columbia Club. Maj. H. M. Diver, 82—12—70, and C. Arthur Slater, 84—14—70, tied for first prize. L. Clark Brown, 90—18—72, and Robert H. Dalgleish, 87—15—72, were in a tie as runners-up.

A large field participated in the match play against par tournament staged on the course of the Chevy Chase Club. Louis Mackall, 2 up on par, was the winner, with Dr. J. Allan Talbot, 1 up on par, in second place. Thomas Hopgood, all even with par, won the third prize.

Kenwood Title Play Starts This Week.

Match play will begin this week at the Kenwood Club for the club championship, with the following pairings:

Walter E. Aylor, 78, vs. George A. Tew, 80. G. C. Brown, 81, vs. R. B. Warden, 84. E. J. Gray, 82, vs. Maury Fitzgerald, 80. A. C. Williams, 81, vs. W. V. Brumbaugh, 87, or John C. Shorey, who has not yet played his qualification round.

The president's cup at the Manor Club, competition being 36 holes medal play with handicap allowance, was won yesterday by J. E. Mell with a handicap of 52 and a net 142. Robert C. Hird, handicap 14 and net 147, tied for second with C. D. Gibbons, handicap 30, net 147. There was a double tie for third between Col. C. G. Storm, handicap 26, net 148, and A. C. Halligan, handicap 40, net 148.

The flag tournament for women, nine holes, was won by Miss Helen Detweiler who played her last shot on the tenth green. Miss Florence Scott was second and Mrs. L. C. Pray third.

The driving contest was won by John C. Shorey with a total of 700 yards, George F. Miller being second with 685 yards and E. F. Wesely third with 680 yards.

Goldstein Class A Winner At Woodmont.

At the Woodmont Club the feature was match play against par. In Class A the winner was Morris Goldstein, with 18 handicap, 1 down to par. Jack Shulman, handicap 25, finished second, 3 down to par, and Morris Simon, handicap 19, and Wm. G. Ilich, handicap 14, were tied for third, each 4 down.

In class B the winner was Leo Schlossberg, 7 down to par, while Morris Hillman was second, 8 down to par. Stanley Glaser finished third, 16 down to par.

A triple tie marked the conclusion of the tombstone tournament at the Congressional Country Club. J. Prout Gilmore, Maj. H. C. Bagley and Henry J. Richardson, each with the same handicap and the same medal score, played their last strokes into the cup on the eighteenth green. M. Parker Nolan was two under par at the thirteenth hole, but experienced nothing but trouble thereafter. Even with this handicap, his last stroke was a drive from the eighteenth tee, which carried the ball to the edge of the green.

In Class B the winner was P. E. Johnson, who played his final stroke on the nineteenth green. C. L. Draper was second, his ball coming to rest 200 yards from the tee on the nineteenth fairway. In the putting contest there was a tie for first place between J. B. Baylis and Dr. Bruce L. Taylor, the former winning in the play-off.

Giroux Wins Play-off for Third Prize.

C. H. Giroux won third prize after a play-off against W. J. McEvoy and A. C. Williams. The women's putting contest was won by Mrs. J. F. Dowdall.

The junior championship of the Congressional Club, 36 holes, medal play, is scheduled for tomorrow. There is no entry list, but contestants will register when they start from the first tee. Thomas P. Bones, jr., who won the event last year, has now passed his twenty-first birthday and is, therefore, ineligible.

A unique tournament at the Washington Golf and Country Club, which began last Saturday, ended yesterday. Each player was allowed to play as many rounds as he desired, but not less than two, and from the average of each round his handicap was deducted. A. H. Walter, with an average of 91 for four rounds, less 16 handicap, net 73, was the winner, with C. D. German, average 90, less 16, net 74, in second place. The third winner was O. L. Veerhoff, average 93, less 18, net 75, while the fourth prize went to A. Bolling Galt, average 90, less 14, net 76.

Hard Luck Story Told by Doing.

The hard luck story of the day came from Charles H. Doing, the president of the club. He payed four rounds, with an average of 82, less 11, net 71, which would have led the field. On the seventeenth hole of his final round he discovered that he had holed out on the green with the wrong ball and had unfortunately disqualified himself.

At the Argyle Club the medalist in the qualifying round for the club championship was William P. DiEste, with a score of 77. The first round of match play is scheduled for next Sunday, with the following pairings:

First flight—1:20, William P. DiEste vs. J. G. Riley; 1:15, George W. Wood vs. D. Kellogg; 1:05, J. J. Lynch vs. W. E. Aiken; 1:00, Alex Baumgartner vs. Sidney Sherwood; 12:50, W. H. Arnold vs. W. B. Robertson; 12:45, Frank G. Butler vs. Harry Peacock; 12:35, J. W. Dudley vs. Carl Noetzel; 12:30, L. H. Harrison vs. J. T. Kirkpatrick.

Second flight—9:20, R. W. Pritchard vs. W. F. Beasley; 9:30, G. Gordon Bailey vs. T. N. Sheehan; 9:35, H. T. Baxter vs. Wilbur A. Taylor; 9:45, E. L. Kilby vs. A. C. Wight; 9:50, R. L. Lynch vs. Eugene Paravano; 9:55, L. C. Leasure vs. Edw. L. Burch; 10:00, E. N. Slack vs. H. J. Gallagher; 10:05, R. N. Lawrenson vs. J. H. Feavers.

Third flight—8:30, W. T. Allen vs. H. W. Little; 8:35, Frank Zuber vs. E. V. Carr; 8:40, L. E. Greene vs. J. H. St. John; 8:50, R. W. Johnston vs. E. G. Mohler; 8:55, Ira L. Wright vs. E. R. Sweetman; 9:05, W. Kriemelmeyer vs. C. J. Sutphine; 9:15, J. T. Walker vs. G. L. Loving; 1:25, George Hamilton vs. Ernest Kelly.

GRID LEAGUE AT STADIUM PLANNED

Apaches, Hawks and Celtics to Organize This Fall.

THE Apache A. C. eleven, independent champions of the District, will defend the championship this fall in a four-team league to play each Sunday at Griffith Stadium, it was learned last night. According to present plans, the league will be composed of the Apaches, Mohawks and St. Mary's Celtics and another team to be selected.

While it has been intimated that a Baltimore eleven will be the fourth club, it is understood that efforts are being made to induce Jim McNamara to organize a Jewish Community Center team.

Past efforts to get the Apaches and Mohawks, of Washington, and the Celtics of Alexandria, in a league have failed, but indications are that managers of those clubs now favor the organized play.

The Sunday football schedule at Griffith Stadium opens October 11 this year. Under present plans, each team would play the other twice with the winner using the stadium for games with Baltimore and Richmond champions.

Schaaf Signed to Face Griffiths on Sept. 23

Chicago, Sept. 7 (U.P.).—Nate Lewis, Chicago Stadium Matchmaker, has signed Ernie Schaaf, Boston heavyweight, for a ten-round bout against Tuffy Griffiths, of Chicago, here Wednesday, September 23.

Griffiths, however, wants Jack Sharkey to agree to meet him if he wins, before signing a contract. Lewis expects to close the match this week.

BYRD DRILLS MARYLAND GRIDMEN

36 Candidates Drill for First Time at College Park.

THIRTY-SIX candidates for the University of Maryland Football Team reported to Head Coach H. C. (Curley) Byrd as the Old Liners held their opening practice yesterday. Sessions were held in the morning and afternoon, and will continue on this schedule until school opens. Several more leading aspirants are expected to check in tomorrow.

Loosening work, including formations, took up the morning session and in the afternoon tackling and running drills were in order. Scrimmaging probably will start within a week.

Maryland has little time to lose if it is to be primed for the important annual game with Virginia on October 3 at College Park, which will be followed a week later with the big Navy game in Griffith Stadium, Washington. The Old Liners' opening match is with Washington College September 26 at College Park.

In addition to Byrd all members of the Old Line coaching staff were on hand today. They are Charley Fenwick, line tutor; Earl Zulick and George (Rosy) Pollock, assistants, and H. Burton Shipley, who will serve as trainer.

George Norris, center, who was on the varsity squad two years ago, but was not in school last year, and Bernard Keener, lineman, who was out for the first time with the grid squad at spring practice this year, were among those who reported.

RUDY DUSEK WINS.

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 7 (U.P.).—Rudy Dusek, Bohemian wrestler, was awarded the decision on a foul tonight when George Zaharias, Greek, kneed Dusek and was disqualified.

45 GRIDMEN AT G. W. U. CAMP

Pixlee Starts Work Today; Slaird at 205 Pounds.

CAMP LETTS, Md., Sept. 7.—Forty-five huskies answered the first football call of George Washington University today, with a half dozen absentees expected tomorrow, when Coach James E. Pixlee and his five assistants will launch the fall training season of two weeks.

The first practice will be held tomorrow morning, when the coaches will begin an intensive program, to be devoted chiefly to conditioning work in preparation for the rougher play during the second week in camp, including scrimmage and dummy scrimmage.

Outdoor labor has hardened several among the group which has reported, particularly Walter Slaird, Bob Galloway and Wayne Chambers. Slaird, a giant, now down to 205 pounds, is reckoned as a regular tackle this season.

The camp life is brightened by the presence of a mascot already. A young, bright-headed youngster who answers to the name of "Reds" Alger, has attached himself to the squad and will not be shooed away.

CARDS SCORE OVER CUBS, 8-3 and 1-0

Double Defeat Drops Chicago Club to Fourth Place.

CHICAGO, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The St. Louis Cardinals continued their march for an early settlement of the National League pennant championship here today when they won the second game of the holiday twin bill from the Cubs, 8 to 3.

The Cardinals' double triumph, with their victory in the first game, 1 to 0, dropped the Bruins down to fourth place in the standing.

Burleigh Grimes, the St. Louis spit baller, allowed the Chicagans eleven hits in the afternoon contest, but managed to keep them scattered. It was Grimes' seventeenth win of the year and the Cubs' ninth straight defeat.

Robins' Rookie Hurler Hands Braves 2d Loss

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The brilliant major league debut of Van Mungo, 21-year-old right-handed pitcher, made the Labor Day program at Ebbets Field a complete success for some 15,000 Brooklyn fans today. After Watson Clark had won the opener for the Robins, 5 to 4, Mungo, who joined Brooklyn today from Hartford, shut out the Braves, 2 to 0, in the nightcap.

The youthful recruit was opposed by old Tom Zachary but he struck out seven Braves and held them to three hits. Bobby Reis, who reported with Mungo, played third base in both games and made one clean hit and fielded well. Mungo also got a triple.

WINNER IN NATIONAL SERIES HOST OCT. 1

However, if John McGraw's crafty Giants steal a march on the Cards and claim the national championship, the first two games will be played in New York and the third on Philadelphia October 3. Sunday will be an off day and the contest resumed Monday and continued Tuesday.

It will be the third consecutive year that Philadelphia has emerged winner of the American League pennant and it's the third bid for the world championship the Athletics won by defeating the Cardinals last year, four games to two, and the Cubs in 1929, four games to one.

All series games will be called at 1:30 p. m., the standard time of the city in which they are played, and in event of rain or suspension of play for other reasons, the rest of the schedule will be postponed one day and the called game played on the grounds originally scheduled.

Box seats will sell for $6.60, reserved seats for $5.50; general admission tickets for $3 and bleacher seats for $1.

Attending the meeting were William Harridge, president of the American League; John Heydler, president of the National League; Robert Schroeder, secretary of the Athletics; Sam Breadon, president of the St. Louis Nationals, and William O. Dewitt, treasurer of the Cardinals.

Chisox Twice Beaten By Indians, 6-2, 5-2

Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The Cleveland Indians won a double-header from the Chicago White Sox today, 6-2 and 5-2. "Sergeant" George Counally defeated his old teammates in the first, holding them scoreless after the first inning, while the Indians hammered out a four-run rally in the eighth to down Al Thomas. Willie Kamm, another former White Sox player, got three out of four hits in the opener.

Errors contributed largely to the downfall of Bowler, graduate of the Denver semiprofessional league, who made his first major league appearance in the last game. He allowed only seven hits but issued three walks and had four costly errors behind him. Clint Brown allowed nine hits but kept them fairly well spaced to win his first game in two months.

BELL BEATS ALLISON IN SINGLES TOURNEY

clowning tactics, showed enough form to convince critics that he will be the boy to meet Ellsworth Vines, the California comet, in the semi-finals of the upper half.

Vines, by the way, toyed with Dr. Herbert Fischer, of Cynwyd, Pa., to win, 6—4, 6—0, 6—3. This match was played on an outside court and quite a goodly number of the stadium seatholders deserted their posts to watch the Californian. They were not disappointed, for in the second set, the only time he really opened up, Vines showed everything in the catalogue.

Bell Balks On Shift.

Some dissension occurred when, after three sets, the Bell-Allison match was transferred from the stadium to an outside court. Bell, leading two sets to one, at first refused to make the shift, but agreed after a talk with President Louis Carruthers, of the U. S. L. T. A.

The change was requested by Allison on the ground that the noise of the spectators annoyed him. The Grant-Brugnon battle was in progress at the time.

Bell's conference with Carruthers was held in full sight of the spectators, who, when they learned the nature of the discussion, broke into a lusty cheer for Bell.

Bell told the United Press that President Carruthers "told me to agree to the change or default."

Grant defeated the French veteran by the highly unsubtle method of running him leg-weary. In the first set, when Brugnon was fresh, Grant was helpless before the Davis Cup player's steaming forehand and immaculate volleys. But Brugnon tired badly after the first set and when the little Atlantan gets 'em tired, it's all over.

he sight of the little pint-sized Atlantan running here, there and everywhere for seemingly impossible shots kept the gallery in constant applause.

GIANTS TAKE TWO FROM PHILS

Receive Fine Hurling to Win by 6 to 0, 2 to 1 Scores.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Two fine pitching performances by Carl Hubbell and Roy Parmalee gave the New York Giants both games of today's double bill with the Phillies. The scores were 6 to 0 and 2 to 1.

Hubbell blanked the Phils with 3 hits and struck out 9 in the opener while Parmalee let the Quaker City team down with four hits in the nightcap. The lone Philly run was due to Marshall's error in the first inning. Allen's single with the bases full in the sixth inning sent both of the Giant's runs across the plate.

In the opener, the Giants concentrated their attack in the fifth inning, scoring five runs with the help of Mel Ott's 28th home run of the season, and Vergez's triple with two aboard the bases.

CELTICS GIVE McINTIRE RELEASE

Jones Wins Tourney at Belle Haven Golf Course.

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Sept. 7.—Robert Lee McIntire, otherwise Lefty, ace of the sandlots, today was handed his release by the St. Mary's Celtics baseball team for misconduct on the field.

McIntire lost his head in the Saks game and hurled the ball into centerfield, allowing a run to score. The Celtics' management released him for this action.

A. D. Jones, not Bobby, a newcomer to the Belle Haven Country Club, won the President's Cup tournament here today with a net 146 for 36 holes. Over 50 golfers competed in the tourney for the trophy offered by Judge William S. Snow, the president. Jones had a nineteen handicap.

The runner-up in the tournament was Charlie Foreman, of Arlington County. His score was 148. Foreman and Chick O'Daniel were leading the first 18 holes with 76 net. Foreman's handicap was 21 and O'Daniels' 19.

A decision will be made by officials of the George Mason High whether or not to have a football team in the third district competition on Tuesday.

Principal Strader and Coach Wilson have called a meeting of all candidates for the team at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning at the George Mason High School. The football proposition will be left to the boys to decide. Heretofore the team had been consolidated with the Alexandria High.

PROPOSALS

OFFICE OF THE ARCHITECT OF THE Capitol, Washington, D. C., September 3, 1931—Sealed bids will be opened in this office at 3 p. m., Eastern standard time, OCTOBER 21, 1931, for the construction of the new United States Supreme Court Building, to be built on squares 727 and 728, Washington, D. C. The building, as designed, will occupy approximately 103,000 square feet, with approximately 30,000 square feet additional in terraces and driveways; central portion, five stories and basement; side portions, three stories and basement; fireproof construction with marble facing. Drawings and specifications, not exceeding three sets, may be obtained at the Office of the Architect of the Capitol in the discretion of said Architect by any satisfactory general contractor. A deposit of one hundred dollars ($100) will be required for each set of drawings and specifications, to insure their return in good condition. The deposit must be a check made payable to the order of David Lynn, Architect of the Capitol. DAVID LYNN, Architect of the Capitol 8.9.10

OFFICE OF THE EXECUTIVE OFFICER, Arlington Memorial Bridge Commission, Navy Building, Washington, D. C.—Sealed bids will be received in this office until 11 a. m., Eastern standard time, SEPTEMBER 17, 1931, and then publicly opened in Room 1613, Navy Building, for the paving, curbs, sidewalks, &c., on and around the Bridge Plaza, at the east end of the Arlington Memorial Bridge. The major items of work involve the placing of about 20,700 square yards of cold bituminous concrete paving, of which about 16,000 square yards has a 10-inch macadam base; about 3,630 linear feet of curbs, and about 6,340 square yards of scrubbed pebble-finish sidewalks. The above quantities also include the paving on the Parkway Underpass and Parkway Approach, for which no foundation is required, and also the laying of the sidewalks on the upstream side of Arlington Memorial Bridge and on the Parkway Underpass and the Parkway Approach. Further information upon application. 4.5.8.9

SCOUT TRUCK KILLS BOY NEAR BETHESDA; DRIVER IS ACCUSED

Master of Troop 8 Charged With Manslaughter and Is Free Under Bond.

YOUTH UNABLE TO REACH SAFETY AFTER BEING HIT

Several Other Persons Hurt in Series of Accidents Over Holiday.

Thomas Harding Benfield, 10 years old, yesterday was struck by a Boy Scout truck on the Rockville pike and, before he could crawl out of the path of the vehicle, its wheels passed over his body, crushing him to death.

The truck was driven by William C. Westlake, scoutmaster of Troop 8, according to Montgomery County police, who charged him with manslaughter. Westlake told police he was returning to Washington with five boys of his troop who had been touring New York State. Near Bethesda, he said, he turned out to pass a cement mixer, and therefore, was on the left side of the road.

Young Benfield, who lives at 212 East Capitol street, also was walking along the left side of the road. Westlake said that as the truck neared, the child darted into its path. The scoutmaster also told police that after striking the child he "went to pieces" and was unable to put on the brake. The truck, he said, was stopped by one of the scouts aboard, who brought it to a standstill about 100 feet from the scene of the accident.

Attempted to Crawl.

According to H. R. Benfield, an uncle of the dead boy, the first impact of the vehicle threw the boy about 15 feet. The child got up on his hands and knees and attempted to crawl out of the way of the vehicle which was lumbering down on him, the uncle said.

The victim was the son of Burett H. Benfield, an inspector of the District street department. Mr. Benfield had gone with his wife and son to visit H. R. Benfield, his brother, who is in charge of widening the Rockville pike. The child had wandered off down the road alone when the accident occurred.

Five young Scouts were in the truck at the time of the crash. They are William Leith, of 3101 Macomb street; Burt Nye, of 3002 Thirty-second street; Allen Robinson, of 1760 Euclid street northwest; W. Yule Fisher, of 4421 Seventeenth street northwest, and Benjamin J. Stone, of 3023 Macomb street.

Released on Bond.

After the accident, Westlake, who lives at 426 Taylor street, Chevy Chase, Md., was taken to the Bethesda substation of the county police. Here Policeman James S. McAuliffe swore out the manslaughter warrant, and Westlake was released on bond of $500.

Troop 8 has its headquarters at All Souls' Episcopal Church at Cathedral avenue and Woodley place northwest. The truck belongs to the troop.

Young Benfield's body was taken to Emergency Hospital by Stanley Harris, of Rockville. Here he was pronounced dead and later removed to the undertaking establishment of Warner E. Pumphrey, at Rockville.

Several Others Hurt.

Several other persons were injured in automobile accidents over the holiday. Only one is thought to be in a serious condition.

The most seriously injured is Strother M. Talifero, of 2013 Fourth street northeast, who is in Emergency Hospital with a wrenched back and lacerations. Talifero was driver of a taxicab which was in collision at Rhode Isand and Florida avenues with another car, driven by Rosie Carter, colored, 27 years old, of 3240 Sixteenth street. The woman was treated at Freedmen's Hospital for cuts about the body.

Two passengers in the cab, Edward Adams, 29, of Morse street, near Fourteenth street northeast, and Bernard Dorey, 26, of Berwyn, Md., were treated at Casualty Hospital for slight lacerations. After the crash the taxi overturned on the sidewalk, striking Otto J. Willis, colored, 33 years old, of 141 S street northwest. Willis was treated at Freedmen's for a strained back and lacerations.

Hit-and-Run Accident.

Police are looking for a hit-run driver who struck John Marshall Black, 70, of 1822 De Sales street, at Eighteenth and L streets. Black received a fractured rib.

Several persons narrowly escaped serious injury when four automobiles piled up on the Lee Highway near Glebe Road, Lee Heights, in Arlington County early last night.

Oscar M. Kible, of Elkton, Md., driver of one of the cars, was thrown from the vehicle when it overturned. He received slight cuts about the face. His wife and baby escaped injury. George W. Laycock, of Purcellville, Va., driver of the second car, and his wife were taken to Georgetown Hospital by members of the Cherrydale Fire Department where they were treated for slight bruises about the body. Peter G. Stelle, of Washington and M. C. Baker, of Winchester, Va., drivers of the other two cars escaped with slight cuts.

On Way to Hospital.

An auto bearing an injured woman to Garfield Hospital collided with another machine at Sixteenth and T streets northwest, but no one was hurt. A Cherrydale volunteer fireman was taking Virginia Virts, 47, to the hospital at the time of the collision.

While crossing Sixteenth street in front of the Roosevelt Hotel about 7:30 o'clock last night Clementine Hartz, 68 years old, of 1030 Seventeenth street northwest, was struck by an automobile said by police to have been driven by Howard L. Matthews, of 921 Nineteenth street northwest.

Taxicab Driver Asleep, Robbed.

Vogel Thomas, a taxi driver, of 1305 South Capitol street, yesterday told police that while he was asleep in his cab, parked near Seventh and P streets northwest, he was robbed of $14. He said the thief took the money from a pocket of his trousers.

Fire Veterans Here Relight Olden Blaze

Aged Smoke-eaters Have Never Been Absent From Parade.

Old fires smoked anew yesterday at No. 1 truck house when Joseph Jefferson Walling, 79, of Baltimore, and J. M. Berger, 74, Crisfield, Va., both members of the Veterans Volunteer Fire Department of Baltimore, met to pass away a few hours before the start of the parade.

The Baltimore fire of 1904 was the chief topic of their animated and somewhat contradictory discussion. Both men were active in the Baltimore department at the time.

"It was the morning of February 4, 1904, about 3 I believe," began Walling, amid a cloud of pipe smoke, "I had just started——"

"Now, Joe, you know that's wrong," interrupted Berger, "it was at least 9 o'clock; I know, because——"

On they went with the story of that cold February morning when 2,700 buildings of the Maryland city were razed. Garbed in the picturesque fire-fighting regalia of the nineties, they sat before the plainly dressed men of the District of Columbia department, one moment at verbal swordspoints and the next lauding each other's acts of heroism.

"We get along fine," said Berger, referring to himself and Walling. Nevertheless, when confronted by a Post photographer yesterday afternoon they refused to pose together.

Few fire conventions in the Eastern States are held without the attendance of these two veterans. The first firemen's parade in Washington was led by Berger, Walling said. Both men have attended each year since.

Berger, the younger of the two "boys," has been recording secretary of the Baltimore Volunteer Department since 1900. In 1930 he moved to Crisfield, Va., where he had been appointed honorary chief of the Crisfield department. He has presented that city with a priceless collection of antique fire fighting apparatus.

During yesterday's parade Berger's "dogs" forced him to drop out at the corner of Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue. "They wouldn't hold me up any longer; gettin' a little old, I guess," he replied to querries. His hose-mate stalked unmindfully on to the end.

Walling's record is also one of merit. He has been an active fireman since his fifteenth year, passing through that entire period without receiving injury while on fire duty. During the World War he suffered the loss of a finger in a munition plant explosion in Baltimore where he was employed. He also is a veteran of the Spanish-American War. In his youth he crossed the United States three times on foot. He plans to walk to the World's Fair in Chicago next year, and to continue from there to San Francisco. "I'll do 'er too," he concluded with a grin.

AUTO-PLANE HEADON COLLISION FOLLOWED BY DAMAGES TANGLE

ADJUDICATION LEFT UP TO COMMERCE DIVISION

One of Three Children in Car Frightened Into Hysterics, Complainant Says.

A head-on collision between an airplane and an automobile yesterday at Congressional Airport, Rockville pike, near Halpine, Md., offered a problem to Montgomery County police of the Bethesda substation.

Lawrence T. Washington, contractor, of 1486 Meridian place northwest, reported to Corporal Oscar Gaither that he had parked his car in a parking space at the airport and that an airplane, piloted by Elmer T. Matter, 609 Ridge avenue, Silver Spring, Md., had crashed head-on into it. The propeller of the plane and its nose were damaged and the front of the automobile and the windshield were badly damaged, it was reported.

Row Over Damages.

The pilot gave his name and address and showed his pilot's license. Mr. Washington reported, but when he started to inquire into who was to pay for the damages, he struck a snag, he said. He asked for the manager who refused to give his name, Mr. Washington charged, or to make a statement regarding damages.

The pilot told him, Mr. Washington said, that he could not turn aside as he alighted to miss the automobile for fear of turning over. Three small children, passengers in the automobile, were so frightened that one of them had hysterics, Mr. Washington said.

Corpl. Gaither decided that, inasmuch as the incident occurred on private property, adjudication should be left to the aviation division of the Commerce Department, he informed Mr. Washington.

None of the officials of the airport or Mr. Matter could be reached last night.

Woman Found in Home Unconscious From Gas

Mrs. Lina Annette Anderson, 32, was treated for gas poisoning yesterday afternoon after her mother found her unconscious in the kitchen of her apartment at 1330 Massachusetts avenue northwest. The door and windows were closed and gas jets in the stove turned on.

Zachary Family Away, Thieves Ransack Home

Investigating an anonymous report that the house at 813 Webster street northwest, which is the home of Austin L. Zachary, had been broken into last night, Tenth Precinct police found practically every door in the dwelling unlocked and the place ransacked.

With the family vacationing in Atlantic City, police were unable to estimate the value of household goods and valuables stolen.

Thieves Rob Store Window of Coat.

Thieves early yesterday broke a plateglass show window in Philipsborn Co., 608 Eleventh street northwest, and escaped with a lady's velvet coat. Gilbert S. Bright, manager of the store, said the garment was valued at $89.50.

Sidewalk Troubadour, 4, Returned to His Home

Four-year-old Uel Burke added a strolling minstrel touch to yesterday's parade, much to the dismay of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Burke, 731 Sixth street northwest.

The trio was watching the procession pass Sixth and the Avenue when Uel suddenly was missed. Mr. and Mrs. Burke notified police.

At about 3 o'clock two older boys whose names were not learned took Uel, barefooted and bareheaded, in tow at Seventeenth street and Pennsylvania avenue, where he was entertaining passers-by with songs and dances. The child readily gave his name, age and address and allowed the boys to take him home. It was lots of fun, he told mother and father.

JUMPY HOLDUP MAN STOPS FOUR WOMEN ONLY TO RUN AWAY

Fails to Get Money in Each Instance; Police Arrest Several Suspects.

A holdup man, who made a specialty for the evening of trying to rob unescorted women and on one occasion draped his face with a silk handkerchief, staged four holdups last night in a limited area in the Northwest section.

Presumed to be armed, because he held his hand in his right coat pocket during his forays, the man seemed to be afflicted with some type of neurosis, for agitation of his would-be victims caused him to flee.

What His Diary Would Say.

His diary for the night would read as follows:

"8:50 p. m.—Held up Miss Eleanore M. Oehm, of 1636 Rhode Island avenue northwest as she was walking near Fifteenth and M streets northwest. Demanded money and Miss Oehm replied she had only a quarter. Fled.

"9:15 p. m.—Held up Elizabeth Sheridan, 1620 R street northwest, while in front of 1761 P street northwest. Asked for money and she replied she had none. Fled.

"9:30 p. m.—With a silk handerchief over my face I held up Mrs. Maude S. Smith, of 2006 N street northwest, and Mrs. John Guest, of the Wyoming Apartments, at Twentieth and M streets. Mrs. Smith screamed. Fled faster than usual.

Net Proceeds Nothing.

"11 p. m.—Held up Mrs. Helen F. Coombs, of the Grafton Hotel, as she was getting into an automobile parked in an alley to the east of St. Matthew's Church. A man named John McFadden, of 1726 N street northwest, gave chase. Fled again.

"Net proceeds of the night's campaign—four runs, no hits, four errors."

The descriptions of the aspiring and perspiring robber all tallied. Police radio cars cruised in the neighborhood and arrested several suspects, none of whom was identified.

Fire in Grocery Store Causes $500 Damage

Fire of unknown origin caused damage estimated at $500 in the grocery store of Fred Duckett at 15 P street northeast late last night.

The blaze started in the unoccupied second floor of the building and an alarm was sent in by an unknown person. Most of the damage was caused by water ruining the stock.

UNPAVED APPROACH ALL THAT BARS USE OF MEMORIAL SPAN

GRANT CAN'T GIVE DATE FOR EVENTUAL OPENING

Project Probably Will Be Ready as Bicentennial Feature, He Thinks.

A third of a mile of unfinished roadway alone bars use of the Arlington Memorial Bridge to relieve badly congested traffic conditions on the Key and old Highway spans, The Post learned last night.

According to Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, executive and disbursing officer for the Arlington Memorial Bridge Commission, the bridge is now structurally complete, with the exception of paving.

It will not be opened, however, until early next year, "because there is nothing to open it to," Col. Grant informed The Post.

The Virginia end of the bridge is separated from hard surfaced road by approximately one-third of a mile of roadway now under construction, he said. Grading operations will be completed in about three weeks, but as the road is built on a "fill" it will be necessary to wait indefinitely for the ground to settle, according to Col. Grant.

Unable to Fix Opening.

He predicted the bridge will be opened as a bicentennial celebration feature this winter or early next spring, coincident with completion of the Mount Vernon Memorial Highway, connecting the Virginia approach with the home of the first President. Not even an approximate date can be fixed for the event, he said.

Bids for paving the bridge itself, the finishing touch on a project complete in every other respect, will be opened tomorrow.

Informed that both of the bridges now open to vehicular traffic were severely overtaxed yesterday, when thousands of motorists from the South and sightseeing visitors from the North were forced to make use of the only existing links, Col. Grant explained that nothing much can be done to alter the situation until the approaches to the bridge are finished.

Nobody to Blame, He Says.

He declared that nobody "is to blame" for the situation; that the Arlington Memorial Bridge Commission is actually years ahead of schedule in its ten-year program.

The matter of a southern approach to the new bridge has been for months a subject of controversy in Arlington County, where recently the North Arlington County Bridge Association, headed by Robert Plymale, was formed to champion development of Washington street by the county as a connecting link between the bridge and Wilson boulevard. The county, which recently paved Oil road to within a short distance of the bridge, has refused to take action on the proposal, sponsored originally by the Fort Myer Heights Citizens Association.

The memorial bridge project dates from March, 1913, when the commission was appointed to report on a suitable design. Although expenditure of $25,000 was authorized by Congress, it was not until nine years later that an appropriation was made.

The commission in February, 1925, was directed to proceed at once with the construction of the bridge, appropriate approaches, roads, streets, boulevards, avenues and walks leading to the bridge on both sides, with an expenditure of $14,750,000 authorized.

TAKEN BY DEATH

ALBERT E. McCARTY

ALBERT E. M'CARTY DIES UNEXPECTEDLY

Surety Company Employe and K. of C. Official to Be Buried Thursday.

Albert E. McCarty, 48 years old, a member of the Washington office of the American Surety Co., and an official in the Capital Lodge, Knights of Columbus, died at 10:30 o'clock yesterday morning at his residence, 2019 North Capitol street, after a month's illness.

Mr. McCarty's death came unexpectedly, as he was believed to be recovering from the illness which seized him a month ago.

He came to Washington 25 years ago from Lewiston, Me., where he was born. He was a past grand knight of Carroll Council, of the Knights of Columbus, and was a State deputy of the order at the time of his death. He studied law at Georgetown University, graduating in 1910. He had been a member of the local office of the American Surety Co., of New York, for a number of years.

He is survived by the widow, Mrs. Cecilia A. McCarty; three children, Miriam, Helene and Annette, all of Washington; four brothers, Daniel, George, David and John, of Lewiston, and one sister, Ellen McCarty, of Lewiston.

Funeral services will be held at James T. Ryan funeral home, 317 Pennsylvania avenue southeast, Thursday morning, at a time to be announced. Services will follow at St. Mark's Catholic Church on North Capitol street. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

W. F. Binnix Rites Will Be Tomorrow

Washington Man, Killed by Lightning, to Be Buried at Mount Olivet.

Funeral services for Walter F. Binnix, 42 years old, who was killed by lightning Saturday afternoon at Chesapeake Beach, will be held tomorrow afternoon, with burial at Mount Olivet Cemetery. Although the hour for the services has not been set, they will be held at the funeral home of James T. Ryan at 317 Pennsylvania avenue southeast. Mr. Binnix lived at 1104 Queen street northeast.

According to a brother of the dead man, Ervin Binnix, who saw the bolt strike, Walter Binnix was coiling up lines. Clouds had been gathering, but there had been no previous flashes. Suddenly from the lowering sky a shock struck the pier, killing Mr. Binnix and firing his clothing.

Mr. Binnix is survived by his wife, Gussie, a daughter, Ethel, his father, Benjamin F. Binnix, three brothers, William, Ernest and Erwin, and three sisters, Mrs. Ethel Lowry, Mrs. Mabel Williams, and Mrs. Emma Tull, all of Washington.

Dozing Man's Cigarette Sets Fire in Apartment

John F. West's dozing off with a lighted cigarette between his fingers almost caused serious consequences yesterday afternoon. He awoke to find the easy chair in which he was sitting aflame and promptly turned in a fire alarm.

The engine company which responded to Mr. West's apartment at 3541 Eleventh street northwest, quickly extinguished the burning chair and prevented damage to the apartment. Mr. West was not burned or otherwise injured.

Diamond Ring and Money Lost.

Clifton H. Lakey, of 3512 Tenth street northwest, yesterday reported to police that he lost a bill fold containing $15 in cash, a number of travelers checks and a diamond ring. He said the total value was $115.

STEWARD PREDICTS LEGISLATIVE BATTLE TO UPHOLD U. S. PAY

Head of Federal Employes Federation Deals With Salary Question.

GOVERNMENT WORKERS UNDERPAID, HE ASSERTS

Seattle Convention Begins, With Important Issues Awaiting Action.

Special to The Washington Post.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 7.—A legislative battle to maintain at present levels the salaries of Government workers was forecast here today by Luther C. Steward, president of the National Federation of Federal Employes, assembled in eleventh biennial convention.

"It may be predicted with confidence," said President Steward in his annual report, "that the voices of the professed Treasury watch dogs, the one-idea wage reductionists, and the unimaginative, who feel that to cut the pay of Federal employes is the simplest way out, will be heard in increasing volume during the forthcoming session of Congress."

"To be forewarned is to be forearmed," he told the delegates. He charged that Government salaries have always lagged, even in prosperous times, adding that "to seriously consider reduction from existing scales would be in effect a proposal to take away from them something they never had."

Bolder in Depressions.

He told the convention that a sound system of classification by law is "the essential corner stone of any permanent improvement for Federal employes."

"The question of classification will therefore, of necessity, be our paramount legislative issue until a law is enacted and its administration satisfactorily in operation."

He hailed liberalization of the retirement laws, the Brookhart salary act, and the year-around Saturday half holiday as the outstanding legislative enactments sponsored by the federation in the last two years.

Evasions Are Charged.

Referring to the half-holiday act, he charged that "in spite of the mandatory provisions, we have, in a number of instances, been confronted with administrative subterfuges, evasions and outright defiance of the law."

The meeting was turned over to Mr. Steward by Arthur Joachims, president of the host local union, following brief preliminary addresses of welcome by officials of the City of Seattle. A letter expressing the well wishes of President Hoover was read.

"We have a common pride in the traditions of the public service, and I trust that your deliberations will tend even further to enhance efficiency and morale," wrote Mr. Hoover.

A number of resolutions have been offered and await the action of the federation, including one by Local Union No. 144, of Indianhead, Md., proposing reorganization of the local permanent personnel classification boards set up at the various naval stations in the field service. It proposes addition of four members to each board selected from the civilian personnel of the stations.

Proposes Central Agency.

Another resolution proposes establishment of a central personnel agency to investigate "notoriously lax" safety standards surrounding Government operations, as well as health and hygienic conditions under which the Government work is done.

Another demands that the Civil Service Commission maintain more careful supervision over appointment of all executives; another proposes a study of so-called veterans' preference in the Federal service, and another requests "such methods of separation from the service of the inefficient as will promote the welfare and morale of the great mass of Government workers."

Several members of the District of Columbia delegation have been named committee chairman. Among them are Belle A. Trouland, local union No. 105, constitution committee; Dr. J. Franklin Meyer, local union No. 260, chairman of the general legislative committee and chairman subcommittee on classification; Ulrey J. Biller, local union No. 2, retirement; Louis A. Rosafy, local union No. 372, leave and hours. John L. Bateman, of local union No. 2, was named assistant sergeant-at-arms.

Canning Demonstrations For Relief of Idle Today

Four canning demonstrations will be given today, inaugurating the District campaign to conserve vegetables and fruits for unemployment relief. They will be begun simultaneously at 10 o'clock this morning at Central High School, Armstrong High School, the Y. W. C. A. and at the First Baptist Church, Sixteenth and O streets.

At Central High School the demonstrations will continue through the week. The next lesson at Armstrong High School will be given a 10 o'clock Friday morning. All donations for jobless relief will be stored until winter, when they will be distributed to needy families.

Missing Young Woman Sought in Washington

Police yesterday were asked to aid in locating Dorothy Jones, 25 years old, who since August 23, has been missing from the Longview Hospital at Cincinnati, Ohio.

When last seen she was wearing a black coat, flowered dress, straw hat and black shoes. It is believed she is somewhere in Washington.

Boy Bitten at Dog Fight.

Bitten on the left wrist while attempting to stop a fight between two dogs near Sherman Circle yesterday afternoon, Leon Merzel, 16 years old, of 4903 Georgia avenue northwest, was given first aid treatment by a private physician. His condition was said to be not serious.

AMERICAN SECURITY MOVES NEXT DOOR

Employes Forego Holiday to Take Cash and Valuables to New Quarters.

It was moving day for a lot of money and valuables last night.

The American Security and Trust Co. employes failed to observe Labor Day as they hurried to remove the last of the bank's reserves and assets from the old building to vaults in the new quarters next door, in order to be prepared for the business day today.

The moving was described by bank officials as a gradual process, but there was much work completed last night. Valuables from safe deposit vaults in the old quarters were removed to the new vaults far underground. The officials were very secretive about the exact manner in which the money was moved, merely saying, "It was done with every precaution."

According to the bank's last statement it has capital and surplus funds totaling $6,800,000 and resources amounting to $41,501,650.38.

The old quarters, situated at Fifteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, which for the past 26 years have served as its main offices, are to be remodeled and upon completion of alterations will be connected and used jointly with the present addition as the main office.

Holdup Man Gets $36 After Beating Clerk

John N. Eagles, colored, 55 years old, of 1320 S street northwest, a clerk in the drug store of John M. Smoot, at 1548 New Jersey avenue northwest, was beaten into unconsciousness late last night by a colored robber who rifled the cash register and his victim's pocket.

Eagles told police that the man came into the drug store and without saying a word pulled a revolver out of his pocket and beat him over the head with it. A customer came into the store and found Eagles lying on the floor and called Smoot, who lives on the second floor. After a checkup it was found that $20 was stolen from the cash register and $16 from Eagles' pocket.

Window Siren Stripped By Unblushing Burglar

Matilda, as she is known to the window trimmer, had every stitch of clothing, except the stockings, removed from her waxen form last night by a thief who picked the lock of M. Brooks & Company's show window at 1109 G street northwest and escaped with two coats and three dresses valued at about $200.

A watchman noticed Matilda's plight and advised police, who discovered that the intruder or intruders had successfully risked the peril of holiday crowds passing by a few yards away. Several other garments in the window were untouched.

VISITORS WILL FILL MT. VERNON PULPIT

Presiding Elder Balthis to Assign Substitutes for Accused Pastor.

Members of Mount Vernon Place Methodist Episcopal Church South, bulwark in Washington of Southern Methodism, were awaiting yesterday the outcome of charges against their pastor, the Rev. William S. Shelton, preferred by the pastor's former secretary, Miss Carrie A. Williams, of 5322 Forty-first street northwest.

Pending the result of the trial to be held some time this month the church is without a pastor. Dr. Shelton did not occupy the pulpit Sunday after the charges had been made public. The Rev. J. H. Balthis presiding elder of the Washington district will assign preachers to the pulpit during Dr. Shelton's suspension.

Dr. Balthis is in charge of the trial, and it is only from him that information regarding the charges can come. Dr. Balthis has refused to say anything more about the case. The majority of the membership of the church is understood to have come to the support of the pastor, while a small faction is not satisfied with the suspicion that has been cast in his direction, it was learned. Supporters of the pastor yesterday continued to reiterate their confidence that he would be exonerated.

Dr. Shelton held the chair of professor of Hebrew at Emory University, in Atlanta, for sixteen years, assuming his duties at the university in 1914, when the Chandler School of Theology was founded. A noted archeologist, he spent a year in Egypt several years ago, where he excavated a number of specimens which he gave to Emory University Museum. He told of his experiences on this trip in a book, "Dust and Ashes of Empire."

Recognized as one of the outstanding scholars of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, Dr. Shelton began his preaching career in Oklahoma. He returned to that State for a short while before coming to Washington to succeed the Rev. W. A. Lambeth.

Man Accused of Leaving Scene of Auto Collision

Accused of having tried to escape after colliding with an automobile near Twenty-sixth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest yesterday, Owen Carter, colored, 28, of McLean, Va., was arrested and charged with hit and run and reckless driving. He was apprehended by Third Precinct policemen several blocks from the scene of the accident.

Joseph T. Gibbons, 1643 Harvard street northwest, was driving the car with which Carter's machine collided, according to police. No one was hurt.

Carolina Police Chief Reports Theft of Auto

Whoever stole an automobile belonging to G. A. Clark, of Greenville, N. C., is no respecter of persons. Mr. Clark is chief of police at Greenville.

Someone, he said in a telegram to Washington police yesterday, took a liking to his new maroon-colored machine, and drove it off. He asked police here to be on the look-out in case the thief happens to come in this direction.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

HOME, SWEET STEAM SHOVEL.

(Dealing with a peculiar phase of life in a city among the building wreckers.)

THE scene is the home, or what is left of it, of the Luke Clabbys. Building wreckers have been at work several days, but the Clabbys have refused to vacate, holding that a lease protects them.

Mr. Clabby (returning from work): Well, how far have they gone now?

Mrs. Clabby: They scooped away the back stairs and the spare bedroom this afternoon.

Mr. Clabby: I thought we had a roomer in the spare bedroom. Does he know of it?

Mrs. Clabby: They scooped him up, too. He was asleep and they took bed and all. I rushed to the window and saw him dumped into a truck with a lot of plaster and stones.

Mr. Clabby: It's an outrage.

Mrs. Clabby: Calm yourself. Take off your hat and coat and hang 'em in the closet.

(Mr. Clabby removes things, opens a closet door and drops them into open space.)

Mrs. Clabby: The closet's gone, too.

• • • •

MR. CLABBY: It had my smoking jackets and slippers in it. I'll telephone to my lawyer (He goes to the living room to telephone and stops on the threshold as he sees only a tangled, twisted mass of pipe and flooring.) Where's the living room?

Mrs. Clabby: It was there when I last looked, about a half hour ago.

Mr. Clabby: Well, the big bums have scooped it away with the furniture and all. Where's the dog?

Mrs. Clabby: He was in here asleep on the sofa.

Mr. Clabby: Well, he's probably at the bottom of a dumpcart by this time. I suppose he got so used to steam shovels he didn't mind them at all. He probably tried to play with them.

• • • •

MRS. CLABBY: There's no use trying to hold out any longer here. We'd better go.

Mr. Clabby: Not till I've had my dinner.

Mrs. Clabby: I can't get your dinner.

Mr. Clabby: Why not?

Mrs. Clabby: Four men with picks came in a little while ago and took away the kitchenette.

Mrs. Clabby: I left her playing with her toys in the front hall.

Mr. Clabby: (alarmed): There is no front hall.

Mrs. Clabby: No front hall?

Mr. Clabby: It was gone when I came in. I had to climb up with a ladder.

Mrs. Clabby (hysterically): My baby! My baby!

Mr. Clabby: Where's Myrtle?

Mrs. Clabby: She went to the bathroom to take a bath a few minutes ago. Open the door right away and see if . . .

Mr. Clabby (opening the door into empty space. A few of Myrtle's clothes are hanging on a piece of bent pipe, but there is no trace of her): Gone! Bathroom, tub, daughter, all. They can't get away with this!

Mrs. Clabby: I'll tell the world they can't. This has gone far enough. I'll call up the police.

(There is a shrill whistle and crunching of timber and masonry. A steam shovel comes through the floor and scoops up Mr. and Mrs. Clabby, with tables, chairs, pictures, radiators, pipes, chandeliers, plaster, &c.)

Mrs. Clabby (as they disappeared through the steam shovel into a waiting truck): I thought you said they couldn't get away with this.
